FAIR WARNING

To take heed of

POPERY,

Or a fhort and true

HISTORY

OF THE

JESUITS

Fiery Practifes and Powder-Plots, to destroy KINGS, Ruin Kingdoms, and lay Cities waste.

By an Anti-Papist.

Sold by Tho. Parkburst Bookseiler, at the Bible and three: Crowns in Cheapside near Mercers Chappel, 1679. OMINAM MIAL

YAHHOG

With the front a to

YMOTEIH

FESULTES

Pasties and Powder Blancodons

KUNOS Rais kingdoms and lav Ciries nath

Aller Line Co. 34

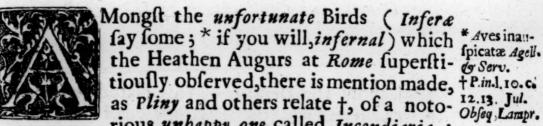

gen geden er ette filbes ent i ilses Rene i Kener Chappel, köge er fin

THE

Fiery Jesuits

TEMPER and BEHAVIOUR.

The Introduction.

rious unhappy one called Incendiaria ;

unto which the Loyolan Ignatius hatcht at Rome, in the novel Capitol of unclean shall I say? or infernal Birds may not unfitly correspond : Being the first of the brood of those fignal Incendiaries, which pass under the usurped Title of the Society of Jesus.

Origine Concerning the Progress and of which su-Practifes pereminently Sectarian Conclave, if a Burnt Child affrighted with Londons Ruines fairly recollect fomwhat from their own Authors, and what those of another feather have well observed from them; 'tis to be hoped our Honourable senators will no more now then

Remes Maft r Piece 1643. Hidden works of Darkness 1645. Speech 2.part of Hift. Vind. of Engl. Laws 1655. and other Pieces hefore and fince.

* Mr. W.P. in heretofore judgit unseasonable : Especially remembring that one of themselves, a worthy Patriot of his Country [ Malleus Jesuitarum ] and an indefatigable fearcher into ancient and modern Story, hath in feveral Tratts concerning this mischievous Cabal publish'd 1648. Pref. to many remarkable things, whereof this ensuing hasty draught is only desired to be brevi quasi Tabella, a thort Review.

CHAP. I.

Of the Origine, Founders name, the Institution, Name, and Constitution of the Society.

Sect. 1.

Dr. Humfr. Jefuitism p.I. Delrio Difquis. magic.Polydor Virg. Chameir Sabellicus 1366.

1491.

TO know the Origine of this elated order in the I Traditionary Church, we may cast an eye upon the Notation of the Inventor's Name and the Inftitution of the sed and society who are so ambitious of the stile fesuits; not fesuats, * a more obscure, yet not more impure Sect imitating the Fratricels, and taking their rise from a poor Merchant in Hetruria, approved by Orban VII. a fort of Wifards that foon disappear'd, when the first contriver of the new celebrated Corporation stept out of his Souldiers Coat and Belt into his Solanna or Caffock tyed with a filk Girdle; and his Bareta or Cap resembling a Cross, as an Headpiece; and his Leaguer Cloak into a long Phi-*R. Hosp Lud. losophical black one: unto all which is affixed a my-Rical lignification *. Lucii Hift. Jefuit.l.I. C.I.

5.2. It seems this Spanish Politician was born of mean Parentage at Aspatheia in Biscay a Province of

Can-

Cantabria, and as his Country-man de Vargas tells us *, * Relat. Stra* was first named Innicus or Inighistus; but a Brother + of the society hath a pretty fiction (wherein + 70 Eufeb. they have a knack of out-doing all the Poets) that Neiremb. de while the name was in dispute, the infant himself vita Ignatii Madrit 1630. (a Prodigious Baby) faid he would be called Ignatime, the genuine fignification of which is an Incendiary one that casts about Wild-fire.

Conveniunt rebus, nomina sepe suis.

5. 3. Neither are those of his Discipline a little proud, that his name was prefignificant of his Nature and set, who agree. He was a souldier by Profession, of a disposition * fiery, inclin'd to dissolute- *Mipham.de ness while in the Emperor Ferdinand's Court; whence 1.1.c.2. Bovato advance the Austrian Family (on which the Pope dilla unus ex. leanes) he went to war under the Spaniards Vice-Roy 10 Socia Salat Pampelona, of old called Pompeiolis, the chief City manaffar. Jef. Ribadneir. of Navarre not far from the Pyrenean Mountains; where fallying forth upon the French, he received a shot which took him off from that Military fervice, and occasion'd him to retire to a Monastick life: wherein he had an opportunity (when the Pope was vex'd at Luther) to put himself in the Front of another Militia, under the Pontifical banner.

5. 4. In which Warfare, his subsequent Generals and Lord-Lieutenants Provincial, with their Deputies, do highly celebrate the Name of their Generalissimo Ignatius; having publickly declared to the Catholick King (as they would him like their Church) his Council, and the world, That fith their Progenitor was by name a Fire brand, and by profession a Souldier, they ought as Univocal Children (however elsethey equivocate) to resemble their Father *, remb. Jacob not only by exercifing, but publickly professing and Crusius Rest.

teach- Lansp.

teaching to others, Artem Pyro-technicam, the Art how to make, and cast abroad fire-balls, fire-brands, and wild-fire, to fire and burn Houses and Cities : and likewise the Art of War, of setting Armies in Battel Array, of affaulting Cities, the manner of making Gun-powder, Bullets, Fire-balls, of casting Guns, and the manner and ways of making all Military works and Engines, together with Rules and Precepts belonging to Navigation, and omnia Maritimi bellimunia, all other offices and incidents belonging

5. 5. To which purpose the subtile Fraternity perswaded the King of spain to erect a publick Uni. versity at Madrid*, and endow it with an annual re-venew of 1000 Crawns, therein to have Lectures de re Militari, to instruct their Novices in Engines of

to Sea-fights: (Witness the Spanish Armado.)

* Alph.de Vargas Neiremb.

> War, and Artificial Fire-works: which may be anon further discovered in glancing at the destructive practises of these Military Projectors, who are so transported with the name of Ignatius, that one of zit. Ignut.p.10 the Society, viz. * Valderama tells us a strange story (if you'l give him Credit) as a descant upon the name Ignatius, i.e. That when it came first into the thoughts of this their prime Conductor, to quit his former Military employment, the house wherein he then was shook; the walls thereof were shattered, and all the Beams and Rafters; infomuch, that all those who were within left it. And as it happens, when in some sulphurous Mountain a fiery fountain bursting forth, there is an immediate eruption of flames : so when that internal fire, which pent up in a young souldier, was cold, and as it were frozen in respect of Divine things, grew more powerful; it so broke out into flames, that thousands of terrors, thouthousands of astonishments, thousands of combustions, O.c. were the consequences thereof: never was there (faith he) any Æina, any fiery Mountain that did the like.

* De Cannoni-

5. 6. This furious Impetus hurryed Ignatius at his 26 year to Hierusalem *; whence (having done * Maph. l. r. his devoir to the Holy Sepulchre) he return'd to Spain, where at Salamanca in old Castile and Complutum (or Alcala de Hevares) in new Castile, he addicts himself to study: thence he moves to Paris, where having staid ten years, he went out Master of Art, and with ten more of his Perswasion (seven of which took the Priesthood) after preaching in the Territories of Venice * he march'd towards Rome: where * Hospin, I.r. after the Leaders examination, these Zealots (at first in fackcloth) for the Apostolick See being found greatly useful, were soon very kindly treated.

1537.

Sect. 2.

s. I. The aged Gentleman Paul III. who then fate in the Infallible Chair; (when our King Henry VIII. look'd big upon him, and troubles encreased upon Luthers and Calvins * preaching) fore-feeing * Genebrard. what need the Papacy had of Incendiaries, to vex Chron. 14. the Enemies to its Grandeiur, easily grants the Petiti- Onuphr. Bellar. tion of Ignatius and his Decemvirs prostrate at his c. I. p. 6.7. Holinesses Toe; where after sweet kisses in token of their obedience, they receive an Institution of their predominant Sect. MDXL.

5. 2. The super-eminency of this Institution to all those of other Orders the Jesuits extoll, from the Name and Constitution (or Rules) of the Society.

5. 2. Concerning the Name, an Authentick Hiforian 1540.

* Thuan. Tom. 1.1.13. 2.36. + Pasquier Sy. nod. Polhac. probibit.

storian * fays modestly, Novo ac ut plerifq; visum est superbo nomine appellati sunt:others think 'tis not only a proud but blasphemous Usurpation + of the Name Jesus, who hath appropriated that Name to himself as he is God our only Lord, the Savior of his people * Mat. 1. 21. from their fins. *

+Epigram Bez. de Jesuit crtu. Lingood Con-Ritut. Provinc. fuet.

† Qua deus est etenim & Solus Servator Jesus, Hoc soli nomen vindicet ipse sibi.

* L. Humfr. Jefu fodales Apostolorun q; contubernalis jactant.

+ 1 Cor. 1.9. 1 10. 1. 3. * Rom. 2. 24.

1.1. tit.de con- Yet Ignatius and the impudent Fathers of his Society challenge a share in the denomination; as if they fate cheek by joll, were hail fellows well met with the holy Jesus, and Chamber-fellows with the * stles (which they have stiled themselves amongst the Portugezes and the Indians) yea and quote Scripture for it +, whereas all sober men may see that the name of Jesus is blasphemed among the Gentiles *, yea every where, through them: as the sequel of this story will farther evince, and therefore 'twas a pious wish of him who breath'd, * L. Luc. Hift. 1.1.p,113.

Ab mi Deus nomen tuum Nequitiæ est operculum tu tandem vindicato.

Ah my dear God at length avenge thy name, Upon these men who with it hide their shame.

§. 4. A Society certainly well meriting to be called Incendiaries from Ignatius, but no way to be denominated from our Lord Jesus, unless per Antiphrafin, by the Rule of Contraries; fince without much Rhethorick a may man rather fay, God permiting them for

for a scourge, the fore-named Pope (Vogued to be a Conjurer *) raised them as so many Hellish Furies.

Quas Erebo Emittens, Procul ab Jesu ite scelesta, Dixerat inclamans, terg; quaterg; Satan : Quam Pater illarum accurrens Ignatius ille, Ate cui admixto nomen ab igne dedit ; Accipio omen, ait, Procul ab Jesu ite Propago Digna Patre, ab Jesu vos procul ite meæ! Thus Paraphras'd in English.

* Paul III. in Aftrolog.& divinatione illà precipuè quæ malorum Dæmonum adjutorio fit primas obtinuit: ing. Sleidan. Vergerius Baldus. * Th. Bezæ Epig.

Imps of Infernal rage, Whom Hells black Prince from his dark Grott com-Go Plot and Act, Paule not on If's and Ands; (mands, Bid Conscience farewell, bid Christ adieu: The Name of Jesu--it's enough for you: Wear this Name still, a thred-bare Cloak can hide What's carry'd under, and is undescry'd. Then Bulless in their Grandsir, great Ignate (Whose very Name spits fire at Church and State, As well as rank Revenge) a lucky hit That this sweet Babe at the infernal pit Of fire and Brimstone should be Christen'd; well Once more my Brats! be gone from your black Cell, Blend Heav'n and Earth. Be gone and do not stand, Let the world know; Ignatius le Grand In spite of fate.

s. 5. The Jesuits are gone so far off from our Lord Jefus, that I think it but Charity to tell any who may give credit to their Valderama affirming *, *De vita kg. that the Pope (when about to erect the order) view- nat. p. 48. ed earnestly the bands of Ignatius, and would find Digitus Dei no other Inscription than that of the name Jesus, -faying, faying, the finger of God is here: His meaning could be no other, than the name of the Sorcerer Bar-Jesus: of whole Society that they are, many of the Ignatian Fathers, have in various instances given the worldan 120 years Proof. As the Poet, Virgil.

Ferreiq; Eumenidum thalami, & discordia demens Viperium crinem vittis innixa cruentis.

On iron Beds, Furies and discord sit, Their viperous hair with bloudy fillets knit.

Horrendum stridens, flammisq; armata Chimera, Gorgones, Harpy eq; & forma tricorporis umbre.

Chimæra hissing loud and arm'd with fire, The triple shade, Gorgons and Harpyes dire.

Sect. 3.

* Hofp.L. Lueii Hift.l. 13. Bulla 1549. s. 1. What the constitution of the fore-named society is, we may learn somewhat from those Notices of their Rules and Polity, the Prints abroad have communicated to us: for we may imagine 'tis a great Artifice of these fathers calare artem, to keep as much as may be indiscover'd, all, save what makes for their own Interest, yea even from their own Novices.

* Regul. Jefuit. Rom. 1580. Conflit. Rom. Pont. per Mapbæum. Lugd.1588.

s. 2. The Grand Rule which the Conditor of the Society projected to be indispensably observed is*, to jield present, absolute and illimited obedience to him they call Christs Vicar (be he Necromancer, Sodomite, Atheist, or what else) to do what soever he should command them, to go whither soever he should send them, them, to Turks, Infidels, Hereticks, without dispute, . denyal, delay, or Charge to the Pope; accounting his will divine *, for the propagating of the Roman Faith, * Voluntatem i. e. the interest of the Society, Seipsos totius mundi pro divina dominos efficere, aspiring to an universal, temporal, as de virt. Obed. well as spiritual monarchy.

s. 3. This the Parent enjoyn'd his Progeny to excell all other Orders in t, and therefore Lucius, as the mon Conft. most proper Emblem, writes Caca obedientia at the Sect. 31. Oc. root of the Ignatian tree : that by the abdication of Reg. Societ. their own will and judgment (putting out of their p.254. Ignat. own eyes) they are the staff in the old mans hand, de virt. Obed. have the true Character, and are the Germane Offspring of Ignatius; by this very Note of Blind Obedience (which Hereticks, i. e. Affertors of the Religion of the Bible, say, is the Mark of the beaft) may be known from all others.

s.4. Neither would he have them think it any disparagement to be out-vyed by other Orders, in fastings, vigilancies, &c. Austerities of food and raiment, if so they were punctual and exact in obedience to their Superior; in whose Person they should look upon Christ himself , not making any Question, * sed. 17. 6 Rede ne pracipiatur an secus? whether he command- Regul. 31. ed that which was right or the contrary. 'Tis not unlike a Tesuited Major in the Militia had read this Rule of the Souldier Ignatius, or convers'd much with some Fathers of the society; when he profesfed and fwore, If the King should command bim to wor-(hip the Devil, he must obey him: but'twas observ'd, when the Dutch landed and spit Bullets, this Gen. tlemans real obedience was in peeping at, rather than charging of the Enemie. It feems Jesuit-like, he would be so Politick in the gallantry of his obedience ducere. Ignat. Sel 3 8. L. Luc. Hift.l. I. Lugd. 1607.

* De vita Ig-

ence as to sleep in a whole skin; when those who were less Hyperbolical, provid themselves more Loyal in going on without fear. 'Tis true, 'twas somewhat harder duty than that which for the exemplification of his own Rule, Maphams' tells Ignatius himself was put to, viz. that on a Good-Friday he fed heartily on a tender Pullet; being thereunto advised by a Physician named Alexander, saying, 'tis but sit I should obey: And that of him, who to learn this general Rule without any exception, went every day into his Masters Garden for a twelve moneth together to water a dry log of wood which lay there, not so much as opening his lips to know the reason of the command.

* L.Luc. 1.1.

5.5. For an Inferior readily to declare his affent and consent to his superior in active obedience, when he fays, the fnow is black, or the crow is white, bidding light the Candle at the wrong end, or the like, is the formal property of this constitution. In which knack they account themselves so superlatively Religious above the rest; That Ozorius could easily say, They were ordain'd to supply the defect, to cure the infections, to correct the miscarriages of other Orders, Societies, and Institutions, and to put the proud Masters of the world to silence. Whereupon these excellent Devoto's have put themselves into the Letanies to be pray'd for by name above all orders of the Church: ut Societatem Jesu, and then follows, & omnes Ecele siasticos ordines in sanctà religione conservare digneris.

* Ignat. de virt. obed. & Reg Jesuit. $.6. The Injunction succeeding is to renew their Vows *, especially this charactaristical one of blind obedience at least twice every year, for fear of slipperyness; as some Lecturers we know, are to renew their affent and confent once a moneth, and (as they ) not to preach, so not to read a book, teach, or learn abroad, take Phylick, talk with or write to strangers without their superiors leave; nor to put off the hat to any at the Table (Item, the Quakers) fave at their Superiors Nod. But embrace poverty chearfully (with mental refervation to get all the riches they can) shake off all strong affections to . Relations; keep their superiors fecrets, and confess all their own unto him, &c.

5.7. After a glance at the most common and principal Rules to get a little clearer notice of this subtle constitution; we should call to mind the strict * Bull Paul Subordination * of the Polity under the General and III. 1549.Re-Affistants, who reign over all Provincials, Visitors, gula Jesuit. Rectors of Colledges, Provofts of Houses, their under Officers and Novices regulated in their several Sheres by especial Cannons after the motion of the first moveable in the Papal firmament. But because their Policy (they account) is much sublimated and advanced fince the first institution, 'twill be more convenient to fuggest somewhat more particularly of that under the next divi fion of this Discourse.

CHAP. II.

Of the Progress, the Corroboration, Priviledges, Letters, Sorts, fecret instructions of the Jesuits.

Sect. I.

He first step in the Progress of this aspiring So- * Hosp. p. 76. L ciety, was the Confirmation of it three years af- en Elia Houter the prime institution*, by the same incestuous + senmul. Pope Paul III. The next was the Ratification of it germ. Sleidan.

* Pet. Suavis

* Thuan.

1561.

1.5.

by the Epicuræan Sodomite Iulius III. who put In Friers Chron. 1546. nocentius de monte (the Boy he used) into a scarlet 1549. Gown, and made him a Lord with a Cardinals Cap. 1551.

Paul IV. who told the Emperors Ambassador that he was superior to all Kings, and successor to those who had dethroned Kings and Emperors *: And Pins IV. who was after found dead betwixt his two Con-

cubines, contributed also to the corroboration of 1565. * Sef. o. c. 15. their Charter, which the Conventicle of Trent, by a 1568.

Decree made yet more authentick.

15.71 5.2. Paul V. who excommunicated Queen Eliz. 73. though he was a furious maintainer of the Inquisiti-75. 76. on, and a burner of Persons even for sleight sufpici-

ons * of Heresie; did not so well please the proud Gentlemen of the Corporation, in that he Catalogu'd them with the Regular Mendicants (he lived not long after.) But 'tis observ'd, that the first five Popes in their time, as a recompence for their service to the RomanCourt, bestow'd no less than 36 Bulls *or Char-* Reg. Jefuit. Rom. 1580. ters of Priviledges upon them; and also different ited not to W. C. Jesuits be divulged Sanctions reserved in Archivis, every one Gospe!. Bull 1549. confirming or enlarging another, and yielding more ample graces and favors than the former. So that however at first they were confin'd to the number of 60. yet as ill weeds under the influence of the Popes and spaniards, they are strangely increas'd and mul-tiply'd in their first Century; as we shall shortly see from the Predigious improvement of their Privi-

ledges and Politicks.

Sect.

*Paul.3.1543. Lewis Owens ing Glass. 1629.

s. 1. Their first approver * did Priviledge the Leading Incendiary with full power and Authority, Tesuits Look to augment the number as well of his Family, as of his Colledges, Seminaries, and other (fo called) Religious houses, by admitting Novices thereinto succesfively, and to make what Constitutions and Rules he and his fellows pleas'd, to advance their society; with many immunities, pardons, graces, and indulgencies *; yea, to excommunicate all who binder or *Lud.Luc. do not aid the society: to confer orders, preach, and Hist. lesuit. administer Sacraments any where, to change their General, who nevertheless hath power while he reigns, to fend any of them whether he will, and call them back when he will, without the Popes leave : to absolve Hereticks confessing, as well as imprison the excommunicate; to exercise Episcopal Functions, viz. to confirm, exorcise, dispense, &c. to disquise themselves into any babit or mode (which they have profited much in) to carry moveable Altars with them when they travel, and give a plenary indulgene to any of their Visitants; yea, and to live peculiarly exempt * (only professing immediate subjecti- Lucius Hist. on to the See of Rome, i. e. chiefly their own Order) p.141.142; free from fecular power, Taxes, &c. as well as the 7urisdiction, Authority, Sentence, and Command of any other Ordinary, Delegate, Judge, Magistrate, whatsoever, yea, from any search into the Confirmation of the Ignatian Society.

0115

5. 2. Hence they take it as an affront not to be Looking Gl. put up, that any Prince or Prelate in the World should question their Prerogative: which Julius III. Pius IV. and V. heightned by indulging them, to erect Universities, confer Degrees where they will, to read publickly in any without leave, which all Students are obliged (by him they call infallible Judge) to hear: to dispense with fasting and prohibited meats, a thing much pleasing their own sensual pallates, as well as those that stand at the upper end of the:

* Ribadneir Bull & Litera Apift. Rom. 1568. Jefu t

the world, whom they are most ambitious to converse with.

5. 3. Pope Gregory XIII. who after he had received tidings in the Confidory, of the Maffacres in France 1572. Went to the Church that night to give * Thum.1. 53. thanks, made Bone-fires *, and exstatically gloried in the bloudy feats of these Emissaries, having a Coin with his own Face on one fide, and an Angel on the other; with a cross in one hand, and a sword in the other with this Motto [Hugonothorum Strages] did empower the Society to have their Confervators, Judges, Advocates *, and to correct, interpret, expunge and burn what Books they please: and in confidence of their mature judgments entrusted them to delegate some of their Society to be his Holine fes Library Keepers-

s. 4. Being fed with this Holy Oil, we may eafily conceive the Ignatians spread much; for 'tis said, *that in 16 years time before Ignatius his death 1556. XII. Provinces were established, wherein were about 100 Colledges or Houses of the Society; who could content themselves at first to lay up the Corps of their Cenditor in a mean Tomb * (where it rested 21. years) till the year before the Spanish Armado was prepared with Fire works to make way for burning of Heretical England: then 'twas folemnly translated' to the sumptuous Church of the Jesuits Colledge, which they call Casa Professa, no mean Cottage but professedly a most religious attractive to the Catholick Souldiers, to crave the intercession of this Triumphant conquering Saint, for his aid in fo famous (or rather intamous) an expedition.

s.5. The interegnant Popes were indulgent enough to the Society; but being courted by the Au-Strian * Hosp.de regim. Fesuit. f. 64.65.

* Edw. Kinfmans Life of I nat.

* L. O. Jefuits Looking Glass. 1588. 1587.

* Lud. Lucii Hift. 1.1.p.9.

firian family, upon the Vogue of Ignatius his miracles ' (wrought in Utopia) Paul V. who (that he might look more like Antichrist) stiled himself + Vice-god, the most invincible Monarch of the Chri. + Vice Dem Stian Republick, and vehement Conservator of the Pontificial omnipotency, beautified his Tomb, ordered his Feast to be solemnized, which caused a con Omnipotencourse of people to the Colledges of Jesuits throughout Christendom 1613. in order to the Canonization Duplest. Pref. of this obedient Saint * (a trick not known for 800 ad myst.inig. years after Christ, as P. Cotton the Jesuit acknowledged) which was wisely made by blind Pope Greg. Ignat. out of XV. 1622. when the society of Incendiaries had inflamed the Emperor Ferdinand and the King of Spain 9. 1622. to afflict the poor Protestants in Bohemia, France, the Valiolin, Palatinate, and the netherlands, and enkindled flaming Wars in the rest of Germany, Pomerland, Holftein, and elsewhere, as may be seen afterward in their horrid practises, which because of their Equivocations they think are uncontrollable.

* Gretzerrecenset 29. visio Chr.Reip. Mo narcha, invill. Pontif. tiæ conservator accerimus * Edw. Kinfmans Life of Card, de monte Confisto in Jan.

Sect. 3.

s. 1. And now they are grown so potent and numerous, that some near 60 years ago *, reckon'd not *L.O. Jesuits less than 500 Colledges they had then raised in &u. Lookin?rope and the Indies, having in Italy 5. Provinces, in p. 28. 29. 6 Spains. Frances Upper Germanys. Spanish Netherlands Hosp. ex Cata-2. West Indies 5. And in the East Indies 2. In each Pro- log. Ribad. vince several Colledges, and pretendedly Religious Houses, wherein many fellows then numbred 10581. yet from the time of Ignatius his Apotheofis or Saintthip 1622. before 1630. In the Kingdom of Japonia the Catastrophe of these fire brands, and their Profy. * Bernb. Varen. lites being there extinct, was very miserable *, how- de Relig. in Repno Jane ever the fubtil Flatterers of the Society, though they cop: XI. fpake

Regno Japone.

spake Thrasonically of their introducing of Religion there; yet (when Dr. Varenius about 8 years ago wrote of Religion in those parts) they had publish'd nothing of the Tragical extirpation of their hypocritical Religion, which had the fire of covetousness in the very bowels of it, and render'd it monstrously odious to the Japonians; who not in pious hilarity, but cutting severity:

* Gaza pia Hilaria.

-Jesuitas --- petunt Cætus per omnes penè, perq; omnes locos *.

* Vide Jubibæum feu speculum Jefuiticum 1644.p. 307. ad.313. with lewi Owens lefuits Looking Glass. Epift. & p.48. ad. c.8 Hosp. Hift.1,2.

5. 2. But not withstanding this, they thrive; in token whereof, 1626. they caused Ignatius Loiola's Picture * to be cut in Brass, cloathed with his Religigious habit, as if he flept with feveral Books under his head, and this word Obedientia in Capital Letters, having a Scroll in his right hand with that of the Psalmist, Psal. 52.8. Ego seut Oliva fructifera in domo Dei, I am as a fruitful Vine in the house of God; to shew the meaning of a large olive-tree growing out of his side, and spreading it self in all Kingdoms and Provinces of the world, where the Jesuits have any Colledges and seminaries, with the name of the Province at the shoulder of each Branch, which hath as many leaves as they have Colledges and Residencies in that Province, in which leaves are the names of the Towns and Villages where these Colledges are situated, to the number then of 777. (increased to 155. more by 1640.) in all 932. as they publish'd in like Pictures and Pageants at Antwerp 1640, the hundreth year from their Institution. Round about the Tree were represented the names of the more Illustrious Ignatians : but Lucius * hath in a wreath or circle written in great Letters [ In omnem terram exivit sonus nequitiæ ipsorum. Ideo Fumus tormenti eo-

* Lud. Lucii Historia Je fuitifmi cum pictura Aboris Ignatiana,

rum

rum ascendet in sacula saculorum and at the root of the Tree [ Arbor mala non potest ferre fructus bonos. ] In these Colledges they counted then 15591. Fellows, besides Novices, Scholars, and others of their sed, amounting to about 100000. To this Catalogue then *, they annex'd no less than 15 fecret Colledges * Mr. Prynn's and Nurseries, where (over and above the 4 Col- Pref. to 2. part ledges of English Jesuits elsewhere, in the Province Fund. Libert. of England, 267 Fellows of that Society; elsewhere, B. 2. and in Ireland 8 Colledges of Irish Jesuits; elsewhere, and in Scotland 2 Residencies of Scotists Jesuits: what addition is made to the number in these 27 fertile years last past, I have not yet seen.

s. 3. The chief who Resides constantly at Rome, and animates this great Ignatian Body is the F. Gene- *Pater Geneneral* whose Commands are Paramount to all the ralis preter rest, who are (they say) a staff in his hand. For his quem nullum Council he is attended with a Select number of other agnoscunt superiorem. L Fathers, who are for the most part Resident with Luc. Hist. I.i. him, called Affistants + or Adjutants-General (four c.3. of which are constant Residentiaries with the Gene- † Hosp.ew Maphæo fol. 56.
ral of the Ps. Cabal for the four parts of the World) Jes. Politicks. these are distinctly denominated from their several Charges relating to Italy, Spain, France, Austria, England, &c. each of which by his office is to inform the F. General or his Secretary of all the occurrences of State in those Provinces or Countries whereof he is Assistant, which he doth by his Correspondents. wither delegated Emissaries, Visitors, Regents, or Residentiary Provincials in divers Kingdoms and Common-wealths, under whom are Rectors of Colledges and Provofts of Houses, all which have a defotick power over those in their respective Societies, and are straitly enjoyn'd to write once every week week to their Provincial, and once in three moneths to the General or Congregation of Assistants, as the Itinerant preachers and projecting Travellers are also obliged to do: the Provincial once every week, at least once a moneth to the General or Assistant, whose Rescription is at least once in two moneths, usually oftner.

5. 4. In these mutual Letters the fecrets are writ-

*Regul Jes. de formula fcritendi.

ten in Characters and mystical terms, often transcrib'd to remedy interception, loss, &c. and some of those to the Colledges solemnly read therein and filed *. These subordinate agents are in their several Sheres perpetually shuffling up and down to inform themselves in the State, Quality, Nature, and inclinations of Princes; taking advantage of all opportunities to advertise the Adjutants general, with whom they do respectively correspond, of all such accidents they have espyed; upon which discovery the Adjutants or Assistants that receive them, forthwith disburden themselves to the F. General, who thereupon calls the Council; then this Court of Allistants do as it were Anatomize the Universe *; examining, comparing, and ballancing the Interests. to Mystery of concerns, and Designs of all the Princes in Christendom. Here, deliberating thus of the fresh Intelligences received from their several Correspondents weekly collated; 'tis at last resolv'd the Affairs of fuch a Prince shall be promoted, the defigns of another disappointed, as they conceive (while thus standing by, and looking on) may make most for their own interest and advantage, which they improve the more effectually, in that the professed Fathers infinuate themselves to be confessors to most of the Princes, Noblemen, and chief Ministers of State under the * Discovery of Jesuits Politicks in Add. Tefuitism.

the Papal Jurisdiction, whereby they flide into their Secrets and Projects (which other Princes by their Ambaffadors and Intelligencers cannot find out) at no dearer a Rate than Postage of Letters, which yet amount ('tis faid) at Rome to 70, 80, yea sometimes an 100 Crowns of Gold to one Post, or Conrier.

Sect. 4.

5. 1. Further, that we may discern how these Ignatians do wind themselves into the intrigues of States, which they would fain have to stoop to their grand Monarchy: for the promoting of which they are so highly inflamed, ut ab orbe turbando nullum se vel sum vel suorum periculum absterreri patiantur*, * Graseri Prothat no hazard of themselves or theirs can deter fat. ad Plagas them from troubling of the world. Tis to be re- Regias. membred there be four forts or degrees of them, viz. 5.2.(1.) secular Persons of both sexes, joyn'd to the company by a Resignation of themselves absolutely to the conduct of the professed Fathers in blind and implicit obedience to what they dictate. These usually are Gentlemen and Merchants, who immix themfelves in Court and City business, and (as they can) into Offices, Bargains, and Sales; or active Gentlewomen and rich Widows, who like a Plantation of the Indies, bring in to the Society a valt reveneue of Gold and Silver. There was indeed a notable upftart Congregation of Jesuitesses for some little time, but those Dames growing over malepert, were foon put down by the Bull of Pope Orban VIII. who to comprimize the difference in France *, when the Jesuits * Jacob Revii had erased S. German out of the Calendar, and sub- Hist. Pontif. stituted their S. Ignatius, which incensed others, decreed that if they could not stand both together,

Igna-

Ignatius sould every Leap-year have the intercalar

day to him felf.

* · Lucii Hift.

s. 2. A(2d.) Sort is only of men, but checquer'd as well with Priests as the Laity both in a secular way, Hermophradites*, not yet tied to a Regular life, but by a Recommendation of the Patres Professi creep into Pensions, Abbies, Benifices, being under a Vow to put on their Habit when the F. General Commands; and therefore are called Jesuits in voto, of which Dequoys, tamely feeding unsuspectedly in the Courts and Pallaces of great Princes to impose upon them, very much use is made for intelligence, especially when they scrue themselves in, as Preachers or Counsellors, Secretaries or under Secretaries of State; yea, though but in meaner services, as Grooms, Butlers, Coachmen, and the like, in the houses of Statesmen and eminent Citizens ; these explorators or spies, who speedily communicate intelligence to their Superiors, for the disappointing and betraying of designs when they are least suspected, the Jesuitical Monarchy makes much advantage of. 'Tis to be feared many of this fort are still in disguise amongst us, as it seems a Protestant Person of Honor was told at Rome about 1652. *Mr. Prynn's by the Assistant of England resident there *, that, at that time there were above 1500. of their Society in Preface to Vindic. of Fund.2. part.

England, able to manage feveral offices, and to work in several trades they undertook, the better to secure themselves from being discovered; one who had *MutatusPo- been of the gang * a little before, wrote he could Print d 1650 point at feveral such with a dry finger, who had been took for contrary men in England some 3.4.6.10. 20. yea, 40. years.

> s. 4. A (3d.) Sort are Residentiaries in Religious Houses and Monasteries, Eccle siasticks, whose office tis to promote their Religion, as Priests, Clerks, or Converts, who may at the pleasure of the F. General be dispensed with as to any thing concerning their Profession, which of themselves they have no power to leave; though they be not yet under the Solemn, but only the simple vow. For the Carnal Policy of the Jesuits * is not to admit many, but few (whom they * Spilato de have many years prov'd to be fully ready at the Nod Ref. Ecclef. 1.2. of their F. General) unto the solemn vom, which they c.12.5cff. 34. make to be not only a Promise, but also an active Do- 43.46. nation and confignation of a mans felf unto, and a folemn Acceptation of him by the Fathers of the Church, which the Archbishop of Spalato in a new coyned word calls Imposses atto, I think he means a putting of himself into the Poffession of his Superiors, and their owning of him as their Creature wholly at their Arbitrary disposal. The rest they retain under their simple vows *, that if they be desicient in any *L. Lucii. His Punctilio of obedience, Generali ejusq; Satrapis, li- Jef.l.i.c.4. beros dimittere, to the General and his Lord Lieute- P. 120. nants be may dismiss them, or if he be better humor'd refuse to prefer them, however otherwise devout, learned, and deserving, only keep them at some druggery about collecting materials out of books, or some far meaner employment, which shall be fure to Subjugate them.

> > 'tis

s. 5. The (4th.) Sort is the Superior degree of the Jesuit Politicians, in whose care is the Government of the whole order, the regulation of all affairs wherein the Society is concern'd. These are the Grandees (as was noted above) resident at Rome, where the Informations from the Emissary spies concentre in the Consistory they have Dub'd with the Title of the Congregation de propaganda fide, which

the -

† Perfecta Tyrannis dicti Generalis ib.

* Hift.1. 2. ad Ann CCC. XIX.

the great Tyrant *, the F. General Domineers in; as Sulpitius Severus said of the Emperor when depraved by the influence of some perfidious Arrians +, Dum sibi religionis officium videtur implere, vim Persecutionis exercuit; while he would be thought to do the best office for promoting Religion, he did exert his utmost force in persecuting of that which is so indeed. From this Privy Councel the Provincials and their Subordinates are influenc'd, as those in Bohemia * were, who pretending the Institution of youth, after their manner infinuated the Arts of subverting Churches and States, and by little and little carryed captarunt, in- together chips to that fire whereby the Country was burnt up and ruin'd.

* Ecclesias & politciam fubvertendi Artes more fuo cendioq;illi, quo nune deflagravit Patria, paulatim fomites comportarunt. Persecut. c.38.

Sect. 5.

5. 1. The professed Fathers Assistants having voted what makes most for the Monarchical Interest of Beclef. Bohem. their Society upon a review of occurrences, craftily wind themselves into the Courts of Cardinals, Prelates, and Ambassadors, representing frequently in what disguise they please, the particular state of affairs abroad, which they often make to appear white when they are black, clear when cloudy, and e contra, through their adulterate Relation. The notions of which being first disseminated, many times take deeper root, and so flily exasperate one Prince against another, when there was no real ground for their falling out, ish', oxigen मण्ट मेर्रायाम प्रेमाम केमले हैं। Behold, how great a wood a little fire sets a burning! * which that the le Incendiaries might do with greater success and secresie, they obtained from Gregory XIII. foremention'd * (who alter'd the Calendar, and erected many Colledges for the Ignatians, in testimony of his thanks for their Bartholomew Mattins at Paris *

* Jam. 3. 5.

* Sect. 2.

9.3.

* Thuan, Hist

1572).

1572.) that all Apostolical Legates and Nuncio's should take for a companion and consident, a Jesuit, by whose counsel and advice they should govern all their actions, which they might render more serviceable to the court of Rome, having at hand fuch an * 7. Lud. Luexperienc'd Ingeneer, who communicating fecretly cii High. Jef. with the active spies, especially those in England, p.119. and amongst the Princes of Germany, knows where he may successefully cast the fire balls of contention.

s. 2. To blow up flames and thereby to aggrandize the Majestick State of the Society, each principal Agent hath some secret Instructions, which usually have little alliance to the Printed Standing Rules. For these cabinet memoirs * are suited to par- * Mysteria ticular Negotiations under a Privy Seal, and are as Cercris nulla variable as the Itinerants Habits. Some of thefe re- al are quam ferved Advertisements were found amongst the Pa- fuisse inq Just. pers of the Rector at Paderborn * 1615. fince rendred * vide moniout of Latine into English about ten years ago, and taprivata Soc. annexed to the farther discovery of the Mystery of Lud. Lucii. 1-4. Tesuitism* wherein they discover how they are to c.i. ingratiate themselves after a grant of a new founda- * Print Laud, tion in any place, to infinuate into the favor of Prin- 1658. ces and Grandees, to direct their preachers and Confessors, to Cajol rich Widows into a veneration of the Society, and perswade them to a single life, and through a pious neglect of their friends, to scatter their wealth to Religious uses, according to the direction of the Society, to improve the revenues thereof, and make a shew of the severity of Discipline, to ensnare Boys of good wits, allowable beauty, a noble extraction, and fair Estates, to manage re-Served cases dexterously, &c. 16 heads in all, which in in the close the grave Fathers are to impart sparingly unto those under their Conduct, and then, as fentiments of their own experience, against which if any thing chance to be alledged, then a recourse to the general Rules will falve the credit of the Society. and be a means to palliate that which passeth for the advice of a private person, though under-hand they account it mostly to be observed.

* In Lud Lucii Hift. Jefuit. fuit.per unitas Belgii provincias.Leovard 1616. Sect. 5 6.34. 36.38.

5.3. Of the same complexion were those 40 occult lessons * found in the Pocket of a Jesuitical p.678.confilia Friest at Harling in the Netherlands, to gain Profefecretiona Je- lytes by drawing some of the great ones into their Nets; allowing them to hear the Reformed preach, and to eat flesh any day at pleasure, so they conceived by degrees to tempt the youth; for which purpose Father Temple resided Incognito at Leiden, to flip into Centlemens Houses, and one while to insinuate the Popish and Reformed Religion differed only in Ceremonials (as sometime in England Franciscuss, A Santa Clara, made an essay of reconciliation, suggesting that the 39 Articles of the Church of England were ambitious of a sense to be Orthodox, i. e. as he would make the world believe Popish) yet otherwhile the Papists ought not to remit any thing, or tolerate the Reformed, but the Reformed ought to grant liberty to the Papists, who yet for footh could not make peace with them unless they became Papifts; to tax the Doctrine of Election, and annexed points, as the Arminians do, i. e. to plant the Soverain drug of Arminianism (as was phras'd in a Letter hence to the Rector at Bruxels * 1627.) &c. with an Advertisement at the end very remarkable; namely, that the Instructions of the Emissary Jesuits be often changed by their Superiors, and accommodated dated to the present State of the United Provinces. 5. 4. In Holland, England, and elsewhere, the fociable Ignatians appear in the dress of Secular Merchants, but their great Trade is to enrich their own Company, which by their knack of Auricular confesfon for divulging fecrets, and perfidious Equivocation; by their blind obedience and mutual correspondency (wherewith they have Ruffled many Kingdoms and States) is arriv'd to fuch an height, that when the Italian Cl. Aquaviva (sometime Chamber-Fellow to Pius V.) came to be F. General (after the four Spaniards*) he gave bis Hand to be kiffed +, as the * Who died Pope his Toe: neither feem'd he to take state (they'l Ja. Laynez. fay) without reason, fith in their Constitutions the F. 1565. Br. Bor-General is called Dei Legatus, and Christi Vicarius; gia. 1572. Ev. one of which having the Title, regarded not the Claud. Aquavi. Popes " message, though fent to him by two Cardinals, 1615. for he could easily alledge the grants of two prece- + Hosp. f.67. dent Popes + injoyning every one in the Society, ut 1558. in Generali Christum velut presentem agnoscat, i. e. † Paul III. to acknowledge Christ present in their General, who is 15:0. Jul. III. not triennial as the Provincials, but (unless in some *L.Lucii Hift. new Case) perpetual. 1.c 4.

"Mr. Prynn's 1. part of Cant. Hift. P.159.

s. 5. They do not only glory in their Priviledges, but speak big words of their Puissance and wealth, with which they are so swoln, that they do little less than spit fire in the faces of Princes. They account many of their Colledges more splendid than the most Royal Palaces of Kings; the magnificent one at Monachium* which they cogg'd D. W. of Bavaria to * Id.p. 156. build for them, is eminent for a lofty Turret, on which are Images of Marble and Brass very sumptuous, within are all things splendid, glistering with Gold, Silver, Ebony, Chrystal, and Pearl. In an Island whence whence they expell'd Widows and Orphans (as they did also at Auspurge, Ingolftad, and other places in Germany) they speak high of another colledge, the receptacle of 50 choice fellows from Seminaries in all parts to be fent out against Evangelical Professors; and to the building of this one Colledge 25 Tun of of Gold was configned by Pope Gregory XIII. who would have fnatcht Ireland* from Queen Elizabeth had his arm been long enough, and transfer'd Portu-

* 1.

galto his own use, for the supply of his Coffers, out

* Ciracella in vita ejus;

Thuan. Hift. Paffin.

*Hofp. p.145. b 1611.

p. 171.

of which he had given * 4000. Duckets, to cut off the Protestants in France. Many of their Colledges * Lud. L. Hift. are strongly fortifyed * as well as sumptuous; at the taking of Prague in Bohemia, were found in the 7esuits Colledge there 500. Musquets, Breast-plates, and Pikes, and very many other arms for some hundreds of souldiers, together with great store of Gunpowder and other Ammunition, wherewith also many * Hosp.1.2.c.s. other places are furnish'd, having vaults * and other reconditories to greaten their Magazeen. At Polnania, Lublin, and elsewhere in Poland, their Colledges are built and fortifyed as strong Towers and Castles for Souldiers, rather than Scholars, so that a Polish Knight in an Oration against the Ignatians * faid, rather than teach Scholasticks and know the fins of filly Women, Bellum gerere proxima quanq; occasione velle videantur, they may feem ambitions to take the next occasion of waging war.

1. 4. de v tâ Borgia C.2.

5.6 And indeed, though they personate Humility *Schot. Jesuit. as Borgia * their 3d. General did, when he would not have the new but old torn Breeches, and would play the part of a Porter in carrying a Hog on bis foulders unto the Chambers of other Jesuits, and to pre-vent their commendation of his Humility, said, Let it not feem any wonder unto you that an Hog doth carry an Hog * (which really was a vain oftentation in a *Quid mirum frolick) they are prodigiously Arrogant; and though cum commothe words of their mouths be smoother than Butter, detalerit. war is in their heart (as the Pfalmist speaks *) In some *Pfal. 55.21. formalities of speech their words may be fofter than oil, but in realities they are drawn (words: for however they vow Charity and Poverty, yet they breath *Quot Colout cruelty, and vaunt of their Riches and Royalties. legia tot Ca-Cafter in his Letters bragg'd, that as many Colledges fella in L.Luas they had in Germany, fo many strong Castles and cii Hist p. 157. Fortreffes the King of Spain had there:and Ribadneir triumphingly faid, that the Colledges and Seminaries of the Tesuits, are Hæreticorum extitia & Apostolica sedis propugnacula, i. e. The destruction of Hereticks, and the Bullworks of the Apostolick See. Putt up with these conceptions the fore-named General Aquaviva said, he could in a shorter time bring forth more Souldiers into the Camp than any Christian King; and as a fair specimen of his Ignatian Forces, during the time of the Venetian Interdict, he offered Paul V. an Army of 40000. men, upon this only condition, that every one who was flain should be enrolled among the Martyrs: * and reason good, all the Geese of this *L.Lucii Hist Keeper of the Capitol should pass for Swans, especially fith he would maintain them at his own Charges, which this great Duke of the Society could easily do out of his own Revenews, and the vast income of his Plantations then, above 50 years ago, much improv'd fince; for after he had given a Dutchy to his son, (Hasen-mullerus * reports from many witnesses * Hasen that) he brought in much Riches, above 50000. Duc- mul. p. 29. kets to the Society, whose yearly Revenews in the Colledges did then amount to 2000000 Crowns, befides fides the vast sums heaped together by Coyning, and other pretty Artifices of the facred Legerdemain.

5.7. The review of this pompous Intrade, with a numerous retinue 60 years ago, did fo elevate Barri-Sonius the Jesuit, that to Court a young Venetian Lord to an Admiration of the Ignatian Republick, he writes high lines * of the excellent Regimen and perfection of the order, which he would perswade him to think is the most free, creditable, and pleasurable (he might have added for a Qualification and Atheistical) bragging that the Provinces of the Archduke and the Dukedom of Bavaria were govern'd by the Instructions of the Jesuits; * yea, that Transplvania it self was then manag'd by F. Cariglia; France and the King by Peter Cotton, Poland and the King (faith he most arrogantly) by the Instinct and firit, Sanditatis nostra, of our holiness: Further, Spain, Portugal, Italy, Scicily, Belgia, are at our beck : nay, and he would have had him believe that F. Parsons at Rome had then more Authority than the King of England himself; affirming likewise, there was neither Earl, Marquess, or Catholick Prelate (fo he. would have Romish Bishops stiled) but he had a Jesuit superintendant to his Conscience, nay (saith he) in short, our F. General, as all know governs Rome regit & Pon- it felf and the Popedom; we make war at our pleafure betwixt one Prince and another, betwixt a Prince and his subjects, canusurp dominion over Cities and Countries, fearing no discovery of our Actions; sith our Commerce is chiefly with great men, we know every publick fecret, and can in a fingular way di-

Spatch Hereticks and enemies to the Roman Courts and encourage the Affasines with the merit of the re-mission of sins for their undertaking, and insinuate

that

* Letters from Bononia Ar. 21.1608.

* L. Lucii. Hift. Fefuit . 1. 1. p. 163.

* Ult fummatim dicam Gen. nofter ficuti manife-Aum est omnibus Roman tificatum, lb.

that few or none out of our society can be faved, fatis pro imperio, concluding it most profitable *(which shews what the Jesuits heartily pray for) that the tem cessurum Plagny Race of Politicians ( fo they often calcivil Magistrates) were taken out of the world, and the Government thereof left only to themselves, who think lato & tempothey have made a great Progress towards it, and whose Principles and Practises (next to be laid open) conjuncto so. are in a tendency (if they could reach it ) to accom- lummodo a plish.

*Quin maximain in populi utilitaeffet si pestifero semine politicorum fubrali dominio nobis ecclefiafacis regerentur & gubernarentur. ib.p. 160 Hofb fol. 84.

CHAP. III.

Of the Jesuits Principles, opposite to Christianity, Morality, and Policy.

Sect. 1. Nder the pretentions of fellowship with the boly Jesus, really to publish and plant Positions of Atheism, and to erase To suxia Tis dexis Tur hoylar To Ges, the very first principles of the Oracles of God *, by *Heb. 5.12. Preaching and Printing tenets contradictory to all that is facred, can certainly be no other than the motion of the unclean fpirits *, like frogs coming out of *Rev. 13.16 the mouth of the Dragon, i. e. the Devil, and the with 19.20 mouth of the beaft, i. e. Antichrist, and the mouth of the falle Prophet, i. e. all false teachers (the whole Becies being comprehended in the singular number, as elsewhere in the Original *) or else a resemblance of the fire, and smoak, and brimstone, that is sued out of the mouths of the Horses which had heads like Lions , and kill'd many men, which may graphically fignifie (as smoak betokeneth fire) the filthy and fiery temper

* Exed. 8.9. צפרדע and 10. 12. ארבה

*Rev.9.17,18

3. with 2 Thef. 2, 10,

* Rev. 13.13. with 16.

temper of the Ignatian Sect, who delivering Doctrines *1 Tim.4.1, 2, of Devils * for love of falshood, do by the false-fire of their pretended miracles perswade the credulous to enflave themselves to the beast and receive his mark*, discovering their design to be no less, than the subversion of the Fundamentals of true, pure, undefiled Religion, by damnable Doctrines, pernicious Maxims, and destructive Principles, diametricall opposite to all unfeigned Christianity, serious morality, and honest Policy; by the introduction of prodigious Divinity, barbarous Ethicks, and scandalous Politicks, to exterminate faith and manners, and all As a remarkable Emblem of good Government. which, at the Canonization of their Patron Ignatius for a Romish, i. e. a beastly saint (pardon the Solecisin, sith contradictio in adjecto, well besits them of whom I write) the Fathers of the Society exhibited to the view of the people, a Pageant wherein was Portray'd this novel saint holding the whole world in his hand, and fire streaming out forth of his heart * with this Motto [Veni Ignem Mittere] I came to fend fire into the world, which the University of Cracow did above 40 years ago justly upbraid them with, and we fee every day more plainly verified in their curfed Affertions.

*Mercure Jefuite to 1.p. 67. Spee. esuit. P.156.

1622.

s. 2. These are such as being entertain'd do (1.) over-turn the Christian Faith. Now because I would hasten to what is peculiarly design'd, I shall in brief present to your view, A Jesuitical Creed gathered out of the works of John Baptista Poza, a Spanish Jesuit, by Fransciscus Roales Doctor of Salamanca, a Chaplain to the King of Spain, we have it in the Appendix to the Relations of de Vargas, pag. 333. Printed 1641. digested into XII. Articles in Latine, which in the Adververtisement to the Ansstery of Jesuitism, I find thus translated to mine hand in English, 1658.

I. I believe in two Gods, whereof one is Son, Father, and Mother metaphorically, according to an Eternal Generation; the other metaphorically Mother and Father, according to a Temporal Generation; and what is confequent hereto, that the common term, Mother-Father, may be equally attributed to God and the B. Virgin, as if they were both Hermophrodites.

II. I believe in Jesus Christ, the only metaphorical Son of both, according to an Eternal and Temporal Generation.

III. I believe that Jesus Christ, as man was conceived and born of the Virgin Mary, metaphorically as of Father and Mother, by a Paternal and Maternal vertue.

IV. I believe that he suffered, and was dead, not truly and really, because it was impossible he should die

V. I believe that he was buried, though not truly and really dead.

VI. I believe his Soul descended into Hell metaphorically, whereas it was never separated from the Body.

VII. I believe that he rose from the dead, by a Metaphor suitable to that whereby I believed him dead.

VIII. I believe he ascended into Heaven, that he sitteth at the right hand of God the Father, and that he will come to judge some alive, and some already dead.

IX. I believe in the Holy Ghost, who spake by

by the Prophets, though some were sometime mistaken and deceived.

X. I believe the Church to be, as to the better Part of it, holy; and the Communion of Saints.

XI. I believe the Remission of sins, effected by a fuddain Collation of the Holy Ghoft upon the wicked.

XII. I believe the Refurredion of the Body, as to the better part of it, and life Everlasting, not without some fear of the contrary.

5.3. Neither will equal Judges deem this Spaniffs Collector difingenuous (if not defective) in his Collection, for those who have searched into the Jesuits writings, can easily make Proof of these and many more such prodigious Articles from other noted Authors of the society, whose Books when Printed have their Superiors approbations and attestations, even then when their mouths have been open'd (with acclamations to the Beaft) in blasphemy against God, to blashbeme his Name and his Tabernacle, and them that dwell in Heaven, having power given them from the *Rev. 13.5, 6, Dragon and the Beast *, whiles thus by their shameful credenda, they account the bloud of Christ an unboly thing, and do despite unto the spirit of grace t. We find not less than 49 years ago Mr. W. Crashaw in his Book Entituled [The Jesuits Gospel] did clearly evidence from their approved Writers * several other damnable Doctrines of the same strain with those fore-mentioned afferted by them, viz. That Mary's milk may be compared with the blond of christ; yea, that the merit and vertue of it is more excellent than Christs blond; that Mary is partaker of the Divine

7, with 2. 6. + Heb.10. 29.

1622.

* Turfelinus Greg.de valen. Greizerus C. Sribaniss alias Bonarscius Ant. Pofferin. who extols Just. Lipsius a vine Majefty and Power, and fellow with God, who Jesuited Apo. (fay they) hath divided his Kingdom with Mary, fate for his book de virkeeping justice to himself, and yielding mercy to gine Hallens her; that he did help God in the work of Mans Re- Antwerp. 1605 demption, and man may appeal from God to her, for oc. whose mediation, God oftentimes sooner hears, than for christs; That the sins and spiritual diseases of the Soul are cured as well by her milk as his bloud 3 that the best compound for a sick foul is to mix both together, and that a Christian may lawfully by faith lay hold of both as well as one.

5. 4. And though Scribannius in his Amphitheatre * Palaopoli. of the Jesuits Honour * (enrolled by Possovine + a- i.e. Antworp. mongst approved Popish Books) labors to smooth these 1606. borrible Tenents, yet he did not one jot amend them, tApparat. Sacri. as we may discern from a taste of his Poetry , here * Amph. Hon. noted by Mr. Crashaw.

1.3.c.8. p.356. 2 edit.

Hæreo lac inter meditans, interq; cruorem, Inter delicias uberis, & Lateris. Lac Matris miscere volo cum sanguine Nati, Non possem Antidoto nobiliori frui Ergo parens & nate, meis advertite votis: Lac peto, depereo Sanguinem: utruma; volo.

My thoughts are at a stand, of milk and bloud, (Delights of breaft and side) which yields chief good. And of her milk mixt with his bloud I'le make, The Soveraign'st Cordial sinful soul can take. Mother and son, give ear to what I crave, I beg this milk, that blond and both would have.

Belike he thought Verses would fitly express that faith which hath no other foundation than a Fi-Stion.

* Vide A; bo rifm. Jef. 1608. + Theolog. O Dollrina Jes. precipua capita in 6. vol. 8. * Epistolæ efuiticæ prima dat. 1598. Edit Genev. 1653. + Hift. Jefuit. Ordin. 1595. eap. 9.

Gion, any more than many of those novelties which by the instigation of the Jefuits were in the Councel of Trent imposed upon the Christian world. But it doth not fuit the delign in hand to make any further rehearfal of the erroneous Aphorisms of the Logolan Faith *, the chief Heads of which have been long ago particularly taxed and refuted by the Learned Chemnitius † and Chameir *, and also leveral concer-Rupellæ 1589. ning the holy Scripture, the Person and offices of Christ, the holy Spirit, the Providence of God, the will of man, &c. by Elias Hausenmullerus t, when (which is rare) he was effectually brought off from their society which he had espoused, and by many of our English Worthies up and down in their Writings, both heretofore and of late, amongst whom the industrious Mr. Pool hath shaken the fundamentals of these Arch-Papists, the Jesuits, and proved their Faith to be a nullity (as an Idol is nothing) in his Book now the 3d. time under the Trefs at Oxon. Maugre the scare of Captain Everards Hand Grananadoes at London; and though a brisk Rethoricaster of the Club, serjeant of a Division came to make fure footing upon his laying afide of the Bible, and fixing his Foundation of Oral-Tradition; yet the Smart Dr. Tillot fon (as fecond, to the much admired Mr. Stilling fleet) hath so mali'd him with the true Rule of Faith, that his flippery distinctions of speculative and practical felf-evidences, &c. will be found very infignificant to support this sure-footer, when that worthy Person shall in his Reply detect his Sophistry and pull off his Complemental Hat and Feather, the Artifice of Jesuirical Equivocation, whereby he does but beat the air, while he thinks to batile a well ftudy'd Logician in defence of the Bible, the only Rule of the Christian Faith. §. 5. Before

5.5. Before I pass to the next Section, it may here be remembred how the Gallican Bishops (notwithstanding the Equivocating disavowry of the French *Mouns D'St. Fesuits) did 1643. * censure the Books of the English Amour Journ. Jesuits, Matthius Wilsonand John Floyd, who went Contin p 28. under the names of Edward Knott and Daniel A' 7e-Su, That in a Pestilent and execrable judgment * they * Pestilera & had wrested the Apostles Creed, the most holy Rule of qua symbolum Faith, into profane and ungodly senses; since that time Apostolorum for near 20 years, how great a smoak the French Je- Sanctissima Regula no-suits or Molinists Tenets about effectual grace and strassidei in fin, against the Jansenists have raised at Paris and profanos & Rome, we have a full and ingenuous account from impios fensus delature est. Mounsieur D' St. Amour Doctor, and sometime Rector ibid. of sorbonne, who was employ'd on the behalf of the Gallican Churches to transact that affair, wherein though he gain'd the favour of private conference with the then Pope Innocent Xth. yet the (fo call'd) Head of the Church, was fo inspir'd by Donna Olim- * See her pia (who used to give Instructions to his Nuncio's *) Lifep. 10. and influenc'd by the Jesuits, he could obtain no due confideration of his short memoir about the 5. famous Propositions. But after his tedious waiting, he found that the Cardinals judgment was only Prudential, i. e. fuch as was for their own interest; and the Pope innocently told him * he was no Divine, he * Jour. part. 3. could not take the toil to understand the terms of 6.12 p. 120. the Questions, Because (faid he in Italian) It is not my Profession; besides that, I am old and never studyed DIVINITY. Having to the like motion of the faid St. Amour about a quarter of a year before * * July. 1651. reply'd, by shewing him a Crucifix which he said part. 3.c.4. was his counsell in such affairs as those: that having heard what would be represented to him, he kneels

* Mounf D'St.

* Rev. 13.6.

c.2.p.431.

· Id.

down before that Crucifix, to take at the feet thereof his Resolution according to the Inspiration given to him by the Holy spirit, whose affistance was promis'd to him, and could not fail him; so the Beaft open'd his mouth in blasphemy against God*. And before two years were over (viz. June 9. 1653.) made a Constitution, declaring and defining in favour of the Jefuits, who were confident the King of France would force it to be received at whatfoever rate it was *, *D S.Amour's That the V. Propositions were impious and Heretical, Journ. part 7. fo meerly upon the Jesuits false suggestion of matter of Fact, he gravely Decrees Articles of Faith, which occasion'd D' St. Amour's Confident to write this observation to him *, That 'twill ever be imprudence to bring a cause to be examin'd before a Judge (though the Pope in Cathedra after his Devotion to his Crucifix) who understands not the terms of the matter in Question. The Jansenists affirm* upon the Test of * Provinc Let. 60. of their Doctors, that the Five Propositions censu-17.in myft. Jef. red are not to be found totidem terminis in Jansenius*, though they easily discovered 50. errors in the Tesuit Molins works. To render which more palpable to be took notice of, it seems the fansenists* have lately Printed the New Testament in French, which the Fiery Jesuits are enkindling fuel to burn that it may not be read, lest by that true light of Gods word there be a manifestation of their abominable points of Faith, which indeed are no other (as Lucius observ'd * 40. years ago) than a monstrous Hodgpodge of old Errors and Herefies blended together after the mode of a new olee, by communicating with the Nætetians, Praxeans, Anthropomorphites, Collyridians, Gnosticks, Carpocratians, Pharisees, Ma-

nichees, Nazarites, Catharists, Massilians, Pelagians,

Mahu-

* Prefat.ad Hift. Jef. Baf. 1627.

p.343. Mar. 24.1657.

* Guzet.

Mahumetans, Priscillianists, Ebionites, and what not? to over-turn the Fundamental Articles of Chri-Stianity.

Sect. 2.

S. I. Neither are the Ignatian Dodrines opposite only to the true Faith, but their maxims are also contrary to all good manners, yea contradictory to all the common Notices of Holiness, and the Rules of Right reason. Jesus saith, strait is the gate, and narrow is the way which leads to life, and few there be that finde it. But the Jesuits say, easie is the gate, and broad * Mat. 7.14. the way, and many, yea any, may find it: if they follow but the Doctrine of probable Opinions, and the artificial direction of the Intention, which really are the prodigious Loyolan Vipers that eat out the very bowels of morality. Those reasons of good and evil, which are eternal and indispensible, the natural Laws of equity, and also those necessary institutions of sanctity in the holy scripures are fleighted, and shuffled away, by this monstrous generation of men shall I say? or beatts, who have labour'd in many works to propagate Epicurism and Sensuality (and as some observe *) teaching men to be Scepticks in all * Remonstr. of things, and to find out ways, not to exterminate the Curez. of Pacorrupt maxims of men, but to justifie them therein, vi 1657. and to instruct how they may with fafety of Confcience put them in practife.

5. 2. 'Twill be sufficient proof of this charge here, if I only in a matter of Fact (which the Apologist * *Add to. Mg for the Jesuits, acknowledg'd to be true, and preten- Jest. 124,129 ded reason for it) present to view a short Scheme of fome of those impious maxims, which are faithfully collected out of at least 60. Modern Casuists approv'd by the Ignatian tribe, as I find them dispers'd in that unanswerable discovery of their immorrality, The Mystery of Jesuitism containing the Provinciall Letters with the Additionals concerning that affair rendred into our Mother language, unto which I shall refer the Reader, who may there (allowing ordinary Errata's of the Printer) see and examine (if need were) the Authors themselves, as I have done some of them, who make it their business to represent every sin as a diminutive, to vent new Notions of good and evil, and indulge men in an impudent, impenitent violation of all the weighty precepts of the most just and holy Law, and the necessary Rules of the blessed Gospel.

may see noted there the Pages wherein are such blasphemous and impure streams as these following, and the like; slowing from the hearts and pens of the Novel Casnists of the Ignatian Society, who affirm, that he who hath a will to commit all the venial sins that are, doth not sin mortally *, and that all the breaches of the first and second Table of the Decalogue, are no sins at all, when they are committed by any man out of ignorance, surprize, or Passion. Recollect

the first Table, and we shall find against the

(1.) Commandment therein, besides that horrible Atheism which they do every where encourage, they are so monstrously vile as to assert,
That this sufficient a man Love God any time before be dies, or at the point of death, or on Holy-days, or once a year, or once in five years *; That we are not so much commanded to love God, as not to hate him:
† They disingage men from that irksome obligation of loving God actually, and Print with Approbation, That a man may be saved without ever loving

*Add to Myft.
of Jes.p. 98.
9.37.

p. 125. Lond, 1658.

* Myst.of. Jes. Let.10. p. 151. † p. 153.

- 2 4

loving God in all his life *. Animus meminisse * Let. 11. horret, I even tremble to transcribe it. ob (as p.160. the Prophet Feremy faid) that mine head were waters, and mine eyes a fountain of tears that I might weep, because men make void this great Commandment. oh ! that vile wretches should dare to fport themselves with the Love of God! and fleight this great thing, this indispensible duty! no marvel these men disparage effectual grace, and traduce the piety and zeal of others for their strictness in christian morality, as a mark of Here-Ge, with which I know theyl brand me whiles I republish these things; but their reproach I account mine honour, and proceed to shew that against the 5.19. .

(2.) Commandment, they affert Idolatry, witchcraft, and abuse of Gods worship. In the Indies and in China *, they allow'd their profelyted Christi- *Myst. Jef. Let. ans to commit Idolatry by a fubtile evalion, viz. 5.p.53.54. That of injoyning them to hide under their cloaths an image of Jesus Christ, to which they teach them by a mental refervation, to direct those publick Adorations, which they render the Idol Cachim choan, and their Keum fucum: fo gross was this, that the Congregation de propaganda fide did somewhat correct but little amend it. Further they affirm, That the diligence of an expert Conjurer in Diabolical Arts may well be thought worthy a reward *, and that a Fortune-teller is not * Let. 8.p. 116. oblig'd to restitution if he bath consulted the Devil *; nor to confession, though he hath expressly in- * Add.p.20 vocated the Devilt, and that 'tis lawful to consult a Conjurer*; and to the abuse of the spiritual $7.96.5.28 worship of God they affirm, that of an 100 easie

1646.

p. III.

§ . 10. Devo* Myft. Let. 9. p. 120. 124. Devotions (they have invented) to the Mother of God, if a man practife but any one of them, it will open Paradise*; that recreation is the only comfort of humane life, and now a-days many shake off their Polutions with much more expedition than they contract them. Against the

* p.138.

they contract them* . Against the * Jef. Gosp. p. 70.

+ Add. to Myst. Jes. p. 97.

$ . 33. * p. 95.

5. 25.

* p. 110.

J.Gosp.p.70

Myst. Jes. Let. 9 P. 134.

* Ibid. }

(3.) Commandment, the Jesuits teach, it is a less sin to swear in common talk by the holy name of God, than it is to eat an egge in Lent. Affirming that Laws against blasphemies are abrogated by a contrary custom, that by the Bull Cruciata, a man may be dispensed with the vow he hath made not to commit fornication, or any other sin. That 'tis lawful as well in judgment as out of judgment, to swear with a mental reservation, without any regard had to the intention of him who obliges a man to swear. That to call God to witness to a light inconsiderable Lie, is not so great an irreverence, as that a man should or must be damn'd for it. Against the

(4.) Commandment, they affirm, that he fins no more who works on the Holy Sabbath, than he that works upon the Feast of St. Didace the Spaniard*, whom Sixtus V. made a Saint at King Philips request for recompence (expressy) of his Invasion of England in 88. That 'tis enough to be bodily present at service, though a man be absent as to the mind, provided he behave himself with a certain external reverence*, nay, that a man fulfils the precept of hearing Mass, even though he have not the least intention to hear it, that a wicked intention, as looking on a woman with an impure desire, hinders not a man from fully performing the duty*, that receiving of the Communion at Easter satisfies the

* Add. to Myft.

5. 17.

p.88. 5.2.

the precepts for two years, the precedent and the Subsequent ; the like is their conceit of two Clocks striking twelve at some distance on Saturday night, P. 82. 5.20. † and that of a fecular person or a Friest being * 1b. 81 . fallen into any kind of impurity whatfoever, though against nature, may commendably communicate the same day after Confession which they make very easie too, and that of facrilegious Communions producing grace*, and of a Priests consecrating without attention*. We fee how grofly *P.95.5.23 abominable their maxims are against all the Commandments of the first Table more immediately respecting God.

5.4. And we shall find shortly they are as notoriously wicked against all those of the fecond Table which do respect our Neighbours, whom we should love as our felves; for these strange Casuists teach against the

(5.) Commandment, which concerns our Relations (to instance in some) as concerning Man and Wife; that 'tis no fin to contract a marriage by personation, as if twere in a play upon the stage, by using equivocal expressions to elude the Church when one is forced thereunto by great fear *. That 'tis no *p.95.6.24 injury done to the paternal power a man hathover bis Children, for another to perswade his daughter to run away with him, in order to a Clandestine marriage, against her fathers consent *. That to abuse a marryed Woman is not adultery if the busband consent thereto, and the rest, too too horrid to *p.110.5.3 be translated. That women may take their busbands money unknown to them to game withall*; *p. 126. and concerning others, that Judges shall not be obliged to make restitution of what they may receive * 1bid.

* p. 139.

* Myft. 7ef. Let. 6, p. 80.

* Add. p. 97.

5.32.

* 5.34.

*p.18.6.6.

*p.18.19. §.9.12,&c

*муЯ. р. 98. 89-90.

* p. 94.97

there may wish their daughters death, when they are not in a condition to dispose of them in marriage, that Servants may pursoin from their Masters, that they may conscienciously contribute to the debauches of their masters several ways, that a Curate or Pastor of the Church is discharged from the obligation he stands in to endeavor the instruction of his people, when he cannot do it of himself by reason of his ignorance, and that he hath not the means to have it done by another, by reason of the small prosits of his Cure, you may discern how easily this sort of men fill up their Relations, of which more in their Politicks. Against the

in their Politicks. Against the (6:) Commandment which respects our Neighbors life; they affirm generally, that one may Kill another to prevent a Box o'th' ear, or a blow with a flick , yeathat an Eccle siaftick may kill him who derogates from his reputation by opprobrious specches, and 'tis doubtful (fay they) whether be having made use of a woman may not kill her if she offer to discover what pass'd between them? they fay also that a man may kill a false accuser, nay the witnesses produced by him, and the judge himself, when they cannot be otherwise diverted from oppressing the innocent, &c *. And you may easily perceive every one will be innocent (as the Irish Rebels) if their case be refer'd to these Ignatians, si excusasse Sufficit, quis fuerit nocens ? the direction of the intention shall acquit a man for Duelling, for defending his honor and estate by comardly killing another when his back is turn'd *, yea but for an affront by words or figns *; and there be some occasions wherein a Priest is OBLIG'D to kill a Detractor tractor *, a Jansenist had need to look to his life, *1. 98. yea any man that truly represents these things in their naked dress, for that they'l account a detra-Gion when they can spy an opportunity; according to them an Ecclesiastick is not faulty, who procures an abortion, if be doubt whether the fruit of the womb were quick *; and with them gluttony * Add.p. 93. is not fo much as one of their Venial fins +. Against the 5.13. + Myft. Let. 9. p.128, 129.

(7.) commandment they do also very accommodately to their own practife, as in the other state cases, to the overthrow of chastity, many of them not fit to be named; but to procure an abomination of them, we may instance in some of their determinations, as that though a womanwere fenlible what an ill effect her vain and gorgeous dress would work upon the bodies and fouls of those that should see her, get were it no six at all to make use thereof *; and provided a man direct his intention aright, as to pass for a Gallant ('twere well if some of our Gallants did not consult these Jesuits Ethicks more than Solomons, yea or fober Philosophers) he may be as debauch'd as he will, yea and Virgins may dispose of their Virginity as they lift without consent of Parents. When (fay they ) that is done with the consent of the maid, though the father have just cause to be troubled at it, yet neither she nor the Person to whom she hath prostituted her self bath done any injury, nor as to what concerns him bath violated any law, &c. * That masters * 16,131.132. and maid-fervants living together, and mutually induced by that means unto fin, so Coufins of both fexes, it their relapses be but once or twice a month, may continue therein, when they cannot avoid them, with-

* p. 146.

* Eph.5.4.5. Rev.21 8,27. 1 Cor. 6. 9. Mat.5.28,30. Heb. 13.4.

* Myst. p. 146. 147. † Add: 94. §. 14.

-.96§.27 &c.

* Myst.p.133.

* Add 93. $.12.

¥ 126.

* муд.р.бо.

*p. 10-

* p.75.Add-20

* m6.

without finding the world matter of discourse, or running into some inconvenience thereby *. Hardned wretches! they think not, neither would they have others think of the inavoidable great inconvenience of lying for ever under the wrath of God for these things*. Alas! they affirm that it's lawfor persons of all qualities, conditions, and sexes, to go to the stews or places of common prostitution (intending to convert women) though it be very probable, as frequently before, then will they commit sin themselves * and the like abominations †. Against the

(8.) Commandment they encourage theft, cheating, and Symony by their shameful determinations; That a woman may take money from her husband to game withall, &c. * and a son may with a safe conscience steal from bis Father ', that 'tis lawful for servants to rob their masters to make their wages proportionable to their service *, that a Religious man may quit his habit to go and steal, us well as go incognito to the Stems', and Merchants may use false weights to gain the more, that cheating is laufulunder the notion of their contract Mohatra, when a man buys a Commodity for 301. to be paid within a year, and then sells it immediately to him that he bought it of, for half so much ready money , then when the Jesuit hath gotten that he is sent away by his Superiors, as was intended before the bargain, and the Tradesman may get his money when he can. Symony they allow of, though mony be the principal motive*, and that they who trade in Benefices sin not what soever bargain they may drive if they direct their intentions right , and further, that a man is not oblig'd to restore what be bath stoln by trivial and inconsiderable thefts, whatever the total summe thereof may amount to * ; *112 5.16 yea these Incendiaries lay it down, that a man biring a Souldier to FIRE the barn (or any other house or city, magis & minus non variant speciem) of one that bath offended him, he ought not to make restitution; for no man is oblig'd to that, if he hath not done that which is unjust*. A- Myst. Tes. Lei. 8

gainst the

(9.) Commandment, these loose Casuists are gresly peccant in following the father of lies by their Equivocations and mental Reservations, in the Artifice of which they glory. Navarre extols the Doctrine of Equivocation*, instancing, they had * Azpiler. Enit from their S. Francis, who being asked by Ser-chir.p.348. jeants pursuing a murtherer, whether he saw such a one pass that way? he answered, by putting his hands into his mittens, saying, be passed not this this way, meaning (against common sense) through his mittens or manacles. Hence the Jesuit Card. Tolet, in a book of his * priviledg'd by the Popes * De Sacerd. order, determin'd. If a manupon oath before a Judg 1.4. c.21. be demanded whether he did such a fact (though really he did it, and by vertue of his oath to the F. General) he may say, I did not, reserving in his thoughts, not at this time: So if a man ask his wife whether she be an Adulteress, she may say, no, meaning that I will reveal to thee: others determine *, a man *Myft. 7ef.p. may swear be bath not done such a thing, whisper- 128.129.130. ing to himself that none can hear (when he speaks the other loud) this day or before I was born, or have in reserve a general intention to give that sense which a prudent man (i. e. a cunning Knave) would, so promises oblige not (though solemnly made

* Add. p.95. 5.23.

*p.111.5.6

* Myst. Let.15 p 250. 251, 252 253. Add.p.139.

* Myft. 7ef.

8.p.107.

made with an oath) when a man bath no intention to engage himself when he makes them. They affirm further, That a priviledge is authentick, though obtained by discovering but some part of the truth, which known would not have been granted *. Its allowable to defame an adversary by charging him with crimes he is no way guilty of * (yet kill ano. ther detracting you) in their Thefes at Lovain 1645. Tis only Venial to calumniate, and impose false crimes, to ruine their credit who speak evil of " this being instill'd into the Empresses daughters in a few days by raising false reports, put the whole Court into a COMBUSTION and Alarm, till Quiroga the Capuchin perswaded the Empresse to disbelieve that pernicious maxim Discatellius the Jesuit had infinuated from 20. more of his confreres, who fay, they can withfafe conscience detract, as they did 1655. a work of Charity for Relief of the Poor in Picardy and Champaign, by faying the Collectors had employed it against the state which was false, wherefore he had a ground for his Character, who said the Jesuits were Concinnatores mendacii, composers and polishers of a lye; yea they are such Casuists as allow a Judge upon the Bench to give sentence for friendship, according to one of their probable opinions contrary to his own judgment and equity. Against the

(10.) Commandment, these Patrons of unrighteousness put a varnish and gloss upon self-love, covetousness, envy, ambition, and all the exorbitant motions and first risings of the heart to the transgression of Gods righteous Law. They who can lay aside an actual affection to God, do fondly admire

mire themselves for whom their greedy desires are ever craving : for they affirm, that Envy is no mortal fin, when it is conceived only at the temporal good of our Neighbours , and alledge for a * Add; at. ground, that the good which is in temporal things 5.25. is so flight, and of so little consequence in relation to Heaven, that it is of no consideration at all in the fight of God and his Saints *. They hold that am- "myf. Let.9; bition, which is an inordinate defire of dignity and p. 127. greatness, is of it self one of their Venial sins, so they fay is covetou fness; vanity, & felf-fatisfaction * 1b. p.126. with them, are not finful, but rather the gifts of God*, and thereby blasphemoully charge God to *16.p. 127. be the Author and fautor of fin; and if a David make a Covenant with his eyes not to behold vanity, these sensual Doctors will jear at him, and say a beautiful woman is a Ghost to him, he is a melancholly fool, an enemy to divertisement, one that bath the sumptoms of a weak and unrefined disposttion; such as bath not those generous and natural affections it ought to have *. By a glance at thefe * 16.p. 124; maxims so contrariant to all the Commandments 125. in the first and second Table of the Law, it is evident what kind of morality is requifite with the Seraphical Ignatians.

5.5. 'Twill not need much labor to evince, that they who thus endeavor to make void the precepts of the Law, are not wanting to evacuate the gracious prescriptions of Faith and Repentance commended to us in the Goffel, as necessary means to eternallife and bappiness. For in opposition to

(1.) That lively obediential believing which Acts 16.31. our Lord Redeemer requires of every one that Mar. 16.16. would be faved*, they do not only commend Rom, 16.26.

* 1 Jo. 3. 23.

the Faith of the Colliar, who when ask'd a reason

* Add. 83. $ . 21.

99. 5.42.

112.5.17

ofit, answered, He believed as the Church believed; and to the Question, how the Church believed? answered, as he believed *; but also that a man may be saved in any Sett, yea, if an Infidel find anything of probability in his own false Religion, be is not obliged to embrace the Christian faith proposed to him, though he find himself more enclined to believe the latter unless at the point of death, and according to some, not then *; when say they, he is capable of receiving absolution, how palpable soever his ignorance may be, of the mysteries of faith; nay, thoughout of pure negligence, he knows nothing of the B. Trinity, or the Incarnation of our Lord Jesus Christ *. And a man shall not be obliged to omit those occasions and propositions wherein he runs the hazard of damnation, if he cannot doit with ease and conveniency ; further they affirm, that natural Reason (which yet we see they have abused, in contemning the Commandments) the light within (the Quakers call it) is sufficient to guide all our actions, and enable us to discern, when it is lawful for a private man to kill his Neighbour. And be fure every Ignatian (qua talis) will then account it meritoriously seasonable to kill and flay when he hath his Superiors Command whether right or wrong, for then judicium

* 126.

* Tolet sum 1.4 c.3. Tamierus.

cant.

(2.) The Evangelical Doctrine of Repentance, which is necessarily commanded, as well as faith in our Lord Jesus Christ. As concerning the former, so concerning this great point, the determinations of discretionis, all judgment of discerning is banished *, and when this is done, they render infignifi-of the Jesuits are so gross, that they turn the grace of God into wantonness, and encourage fin that grace may abound, for they conclude the duty fufficiently discharg'd by a sleight auricular confession or whispering, an acknowledgment into the ear of any Priest; and to make this easie, they affert; that a general confession, shuffling in that last sin, the (pretending) penitent chargeth himself with among st the rest, may suffice *, and that men may be sparing too in confession; they instance amongst others in this, that to carry away a Maid is a circumstance aman is not oblig'd to declare, when the * 1. p 141. Maid had consented thereto * : and to qualifie confellion when 'tis made, they account a little Attrition (as they call it) or imperfect contrition, i.e. forrow for fear of damnation, enough to reconcile the sinner to God; one Act of it, though but little andremiss, can blot out any, even the greateft fin * (imagine in their Sacrament of pennance) *Toll.de Sacer. a certain little inward grief of mind, is required to 1.3 c.5.n.4. the perfection of Repentance*, and if that be trou- * Maldonat. blesome to a man, he may get commutation or some body else to do it for him, or be supplyed by Tollet. Em. Sa. an indulgence "; and (say they) He ought not to be de satisfin. 10. deny'd absolution who continues in habitual sins against the laws of God, Nature, and the Church, though to the Priest he discover not the least hope of amendment; nor be who acknowledges that the very presumption of being absolv'd, had encourag'd him to (in with much more freedom than he might have done, had it not been for that presumption; p.145. Myft. Jef. they add further, If he who is confest'd, to the fimple demand, Are you forry? say, yes, The Confessor is * Add p.22. oblig'd to believe him *, and absolve him, though in 5.29.

the next occasion of sinning, and quit it not, though it be of Incest *, and to absolve toties quoties,

young people who grow worse and worse, though

5.34. they do not in the least measure reform their faults.

* §. 35. *But I perceive I have made an excursion beyond p.99. §. 43. mine intended bounds, whiles I am reciting these pernicious maxims, which I hope look more ugly, being brought to the light of Gods word that will make them to fall before it, as Bagon before the Ark, and disgrace this Pageantry which the Ignatians fabricate to justle out the real practice of Repentance without which they was bearing to the Re-

tance, without which they who hearken to the Refolutions of these new Casuists, will likewise perish with them, and be cast into the fire *; for though the Jesuits account many necessary Commandments in the Gospel, as Evangelical counsels, which they are at liberty to take, or not, God will not be mocked, or put off with subtilties: But Whosoever shall break one of these least Commandments (in his Law or Gospel) and shall TEACH men so, he shall be called the least in the Kingdom of Heaven*. It is plain

(however I know they would wrest this as all other Texts which urge holiness, unto their own destruction) that though with the Pharisees (to whose manner of speech our Saviour seems to allude) they may account some sins little, venial, Peccadilloes, not to be regarded; yet considering the comparison in the

from the Kingdom of Heaven, ubi nis magni ese non possunt, where, saith St. Augustine, all are great ones.

Sect. 3.

§. 1. Before I can yet pass over their corrupt principles, the scope of this Discourse requires I should evidence, * Mat.3.8, 10. Luke 13 3.

* Mat. 5 19.

* Per arm.

** Per

dence, that the Ignatian Don's are not less extravagant in their Aphorisms of Policy, than in their recited Do-Grines of Divinity, and maxims of morality; what ever hath been disliked by sober men in Machiavels Politicks, is greedily entertain'd by these Pragmatecal States men of the Papal-Court, yea, and much more is conceiv'd and publish'd by them, regnandi cansa, for the advancing of their own Dominion to the violating of all right, the subverting of Christian Societies, the abrogating of Oaths and Contracts betwixt Princes and their people, and removing all the grounds of security, upon which a well order'd Government can be established. For'tis but a Complement that the Author of Fiat Lux would infinuate with our English, to have them at least account the Pope a Gentleman and a brave Prince, fith really they Rebell. Pr. fet him up above all Emperors and Princes, as hath 1650. Hofp.l.i. been often proved out of their writings *, yea, above logra Difuaall that is called God.

5.2. He that would be satisfied more fully concerning their detestable Tenets of this nature, may eafily be taught with faithfulness where to find a store Dr.W.D. of of them cited by our Authors in the margin. I shall Sanguinary instance in a few, as concerning the supremacy of Go. &c. vernment. They hold the Pope not only to be Head of the Church, but to have Supream Temporal Power, at least in ordine ad firitualia (faith Bellarmine) and for what he shall account spiritual. Baronius another * Bell. de. fur. Cardinal Jesuit*, will a-warrant him to kill and de- Pontif. 1.5.c. 6. vour whosoever are his refractory Adversaries to the & 8. obtaining of it *, neither need he fear any opposition * Epist & Paif the principle of some of them would hold; that rancire, venehe bath all Authority in Heaven and Earth, boil Spiritual and Temporal, over all Princes of the world, as

See Remish Positions of Bilhop, Tayfive. Dr. Du Moulins Vind. Answ.to Apolog. 1666. Laws 1664.

*Horæ subsceciva p.7Lond. 1664.

De Pontif.l.I. C.7.3.

over his Subjects and Vaffals; as by a deserving person is well observ'd from them in a close Discourse about the occasion of our fanguinary Laws *, which had their rife from the Jesuits treasonable positions in extolling the Popes power over Princes; fo superlatively did they magnifie it, that Bellarmine " makes Punies of all the Potentates in the world, when by De Laicie c. 18. reason of the Popes power he faith, an Emperor must content himself to drink, not only after a Bishop, but a Fishops Chaplain; and Kings are rather Slaves than Lords, Church men being as far above them, as the Soul is above the Body; that Bishops, who are at the Popes Nod may depose them. It's clear, these Ignati-

* De Majeced ans do hold as Mosconius writes *, that the Pope is Lide S. Ponif above Law, against Law, without Law, and therefore can do all things; ('tis their Art to blaspheme; say they)he is Rex Regum, and Dominus Dominantium, King of Kings, and Lord of Lords; every rational creature is subject to his power and command, and in short, he bath one and the same tribunal with God himself. They apprehend the sublimity and immensity of the Supream Bishop to be so great (faid Cassene 11 *) that no mortal man can comprehend it, no man can express it, no man can think it.

* Citante Bi-Shop T.ylor Diffu. 1 part.

the Councel

5.10.18,

of Trent.

1.3.1.23

5.3. Hence they give out to their credulous fellows, not only that the Pope can increase the number of Hely Scriptures, and Canonize Saints (which is a note above Ela in spirituals) but that he can dethrone Kings, and dispose of all temporal Dominions at * Review cf bis pleasure *. F. Suarez + after Bellarmine lays, the power of the Pope extends it self to the coertion of Kings with Temporal punishments, and depriving them + Def. Ed. Cath of their Kingdoms when necessity requires; nay, this power is more necessary over Princes than over Sub-20,& 1.6, C.4. jetts. jests; and he adds, every Christian Kingdom depends upon the Pope, who can immediately of himself depose the King, and compell the Kingdom to execute it, if necessary, otherwise he alledgeth his power were not only inefficax, but insufficiens. And to encourage subjects to entertain this Doctrine, and yield obedience to the Pope, not only Mariana, Scribanius, Sa, Santarel, deliver frange things of this nature, but Suarez further affirms*, that an Excommunicate King may with impunity be depos'd or kill'd by ANY ONE, yea, and that English Jesuits may shew they 5. 20. are as well learn'd in these horrid Aphorisms, we have F. Creswel (or Parsons) under another name * lay- * Andr. Phi'oing it down as a matter of Faith and certain conclu- pat.cont. Edia. fion, That if any Christian Prince what soever shall de- R. Angl. cline the Roman Religion, or defire or feek to reclaim 160.p. 149. others from the same, he prejently falleth from and loofeth all Power and Dignity, and that even before any Sentence of the Pope is pronounced against him; all his subjects what soever are free from all obligation of any Oath of Allegrance to him as their lawful Prince, and if they have convenient strength (which one * of their Doctors faid, the English do well to put * Toler. in) they ought to eject such a one from the Government of Christians, as an Apostate, and an enemy of the Common wealth; yea, that the Subjects may not only lawfully depose such Princes, but also that they are BOUND to it by Divine precept, the strictest bond of Conscience, and the utmost bazard of their Souls. * 1dp 109. Si This Gentleman had said before *, that if an Empe- Imperator vel Rex harror or King favour'd an Heretick (i. e. one who reticum fa-) takes the Scripture for his Rule) he hath iplo facto vore profelost his Kingdom. Tresham and Bridgewater write af- quatur, ipso facto regnum. ter the same Copy: and Bellarmine saith, It is not amittet. lawful lawful for Christians to tolerate such a King, who endeavours to perswade his subjects to embrace that Hereseavize that Religion *.

23.0 6. 4.

* L.5.de Pontif.c.6.7. 4.

* Vide Add to My 18. Jef. p. 92. § . 3. 4.

5.4. Now to stir up people to take their counsels to eject their lawful Princes, they deliver, that people may refuse to pay tribute to Kings, as being unjust, according to a probable Opinion*, and that Subjects do not fin when they refuse without any reason alledg'd, to submit to a Law whereof there hath been a legal Proclamation by their Prince: and for Clergymen they are not subject to secular Princes, neither are they oblig'd to any obedience to their Laws, though not any way contrary to the state Ecclesiastical. Whereupon they make nothing of it to vacate all Constitutions, Decrees, and Covenants, how folemn foever betwixt Princes and people, especially upon pretence of Religion they are peremptory, Faith is not to be kept with Hereticks, particularly the Emperor is not oblig'd to make good any Priviledges granted to the Protestants when he was in straits* ; and the Subjects of England (as others in such circumstances, or when it pleaseth the Pope) are disobliged from their Oath of Allegiance *. The famous Historian Thuan affures us; They taught publickly both in the Pulpit and Press, that Princes were not bound to keep touch with Sectaries, alledging for Proof the Council of Constance; and if Oaths bind not, farewell Truft, which is certainly no more to be regarded, than is consistent with the Ignatian interest, for either they'l swear by Equivocation which they account laudable *, however an Heathen + would condemn their shift, saying, Fraus non dissolvit sed distringit perjurium, i. e. Craft in an Oath doth not lessen, but strengthen perjury; or, else they'l conceit the Person

* Jo. Paul Winde: de hæref extirp. p.324.

*Bellar.de jur.

* Talet Just. Sacerd J.4. c 21. 7 Cicero. Person to whom they swear incapable of an Oath, and they think the incapacity confiderable, if the Pope and their F. Gen. have not a kindness for him. * ester medr est Papaiois meds ruegirus es eropnor. Pactum non * Appian Padumest, & non Padum padum est cum illis lubet.

5. 5. After they have indoctrinated Princes and Subjects in such previous Lessons as these, then they thew them what conclusions arise from such premifes, as, The Right of Kings depends upon their de- * Rossaus votion to the Pope, rather than succession, magis in ul- p.649.670. tione bæresis quam in cognatione sanguinis, rather in an endeavour to be aveng'd on Protestants, than in the legitimateness of their Pedigree from their Ancestors, as we may see in Reynolds, under the Title of Rosseus. Then Conclusiones Politica sub Regis Domini nostri Prasidio, as the Jesuists publish'd at Madrid *, instructing the King of spain their grand * Alph.d Varg. Protectort, to promote their Universal Monarchy 65. (for which a late Writer would perswade us the p 217.218. King of France is now a Competitor, though the Parity of reason is not so apparent) by determining he was consecrated to invade and seize upon other mens Dominions, and on the other hand they conclude, the French ought not to admit the King of Navarre * *Rosam because a Calvinist and Protestant, neither Queen 1.466. Elizabeth nor King James for the like reason *; and * Parsons of thereupon they at Salamanca determin'd, that what- succession. foever Papists should not desert the defence of the English (under their lawful Soveraign) and follow Hugh Oneele (the Rebel) would fin mortally, and could not obtain life everlasting except they defist. And F. Parsons * Determ. Sa. did pronounce sentence, that who soever did confent lam. to the succession of a Protestant is a most grievous and p.216. damnable sinner. And so keen is the rage of these

Fesuits

Jesuits against truly Evangelical Christians, that as Dr. Du Moulin in the Epistle to his excellent Book [ The fincerity of the Protestant Religion ] told the Archbishop of concerning the Flanders Jesuit under the Title of Philanax Anglus, Their very file is a continual casting of FIRE BRANDS and FIRING of Granadoes to Scatter the Protestants in all the Parts of the world: for they call'd Queen Elizabeth Jezabel, and the English Wolf, the Elector of Saxony an Hog, W. of Orangethe Prince of Beggars, and those Princes who, though Papists, do give the least indulgence to Protestants, they call half-Cutholicks and Politicians, in derision; nay worse, as Henry 4th. of France, a Renegado Apostate, concluding they ought to be oppress'd with Poison, Sword, FIRE, Gunpowder, and the like machinations; as Stapleton faid, they account such Politicians in some sense worse than Hereticks and Turks, Lecause they refuse to defend Catholicism by weapons and wars, and ought to be driven out of all Cities, as the old Athenians expell'd Diagoras and Protagoras, proposing a reward to him that would kill them *, unless the House of Austria, none else may expect favour. In the Paristan Massacre Guignard the Jesuit was vexed they had not, opened the Basilick vein, i. e. stab'd Henry King of Navarre, together with the rest. And p.216.1.1.c.6. Marina * before him commended the Murtherer of Hen. III. faying, O Memorable Action! by murthering the King he got to himself a great name: Bader and Cracius Jesuits were in such an heat, that they affirmed there could be no Peace in Germany fo long as the Augustine Confession was not abolished, and the Protestants the defenders of it Slain and BURNT, for that kind of men could be no otherwise soften'd and dissolv'd but by the flame of FIRE; and F. Peter an Italian Orat. Duaci contr. Politic.

* Hofp. 1.4. de Reg.

. As.

Italian and Master of the Spiritualities, wish'd Such a spirit in their people as was in those who made the Butchery in France, saying, unless in Germany there were such another, the Jesuits could not be safe *, *Hause whereupon one of those before, said +, It behoves ws +p. 16. in following our Military Leader to rush in upon all that oppose the Pope by Counsels, Words, and Writings, and to take them off by FIRE and Sword. We fee the temper of the Gentlemen by their expressions, and what we may expect when they gain opportunity. And we are certify'd * 'tis the Property * Alph. de of their society, daily to bring forth new INVEN. Varg.c.5.7. TIONS, to bring men to God, i. e. to their Religion and society by the use of Arms, Terror, FIRE. 1601. W. Watson the Priest did 60. years since Charge Parsons the Jesuit with certain Principles of the Je-Suits at Sevil 1590. for the Reformation of England, *Gited by Mr. *amongst which this was one, that all the great Char- *Gited by Mr. Pryon Pref. to ters of England must be BURNT. Butthough we Vind. E.3. have been made sensible enough of the Flames of these Incendiaries, yet through Gods goodness their Plots have not took effect according to their projects, to evert our Civil as well as Religious Privileges; neither hath their Catholick Holy League as they call'dit, folemnly entred into and renewed, ut Evan- * Thuan, 1.63. gelium radicitus ex orbe toto extirpetur, that the Go- 1576. 1577, spel-Religion should be clean rooted out of the whole world, done much more than discover'd what TEMPER they are of, which is evident from these and the like abominable Tenets, I might transcribe out of feveral other Authors (as well as many more out of these) besides those that I have named ; many of whose Principles you may see in Lucius his Hi- *L.Luc. His. story *, where you will be directed to them. 7ef.1.2.c.1. 5. 6. 'Tis P.179.

5. 6. 'Tis true, though thefe fiery Principles have been vouched again and again by the foremention'd Authors, and all the Actors of them extoll'd and commended by Sixtus V. Pope, by Guignard, Gner't, Verone, Varade, Barisonius, &c. Jesuits, yea and fo far by their learned Cardinal Peron ( whom King James refuted) holding Kings may be deposed when the Pope fees Caufe, that rather than defert the Tenet, he would chuse to burn at a stake ; Tet some of the Ignatian Society have in straits pretended to except and make Apologies to take off the odinm: not by denying the matter of Fatt which is to be feen and read of all men; but alledging thefe are the Opinions of particular Doctors, a postnate formal order of their F. Gen. Cl. Aquaviva concerning Marina's Book, with P. Cottons Declaratory Letter to the Queen Regent of France, and other evalions about Santarell.

*Ut suprâ c.2 P. 14. But all this Paint will soon melt away, when we do but recollect, (1.) Their Constitution and Charter of Priviledges*, for correcting, expunging, and burning what Books they please, whereby the F. General hath such an influence upon all Subordinates (with whom he corresponds) that he indispensably requires blind obedience to himself as unto Christ, so that they are not to dispute whether the matter be right or no when 'tis once commanded, but do it; now in this Case, when there is no disallowance of the Dostrins in many Authors of the same stamp with Mariana's the Lawyers rule (if any where) holds, scil. Quitacet consentire videtur, silence is consent. A Father of the Society concerning a passage in F. Barry, told the Author of the Letters to the Provincial * as a thing worthy his knowledge, That there is a certain

* Let 9. la.3.

certain Order of our Society containing a probibition to all Book-sellers to Print any work of our Fathers, without the Approbation of the Divines of our Society; and the Permission of our Superiors. This order was ratified by three Kings in France *, fo that our whole * Hen. III. Body is responsible for the Books of any one of our Ma.10.1583. Fathers. This is a particular Priviledge of our Socie- De.20. 1503. ty, and thence it comes to pass that there comes not Lew. XIII. any work abroad, which proceeds not from the Spi- F.14.1612. rit of the Society, fo he. Now when we find a very great number of their choicest Scholars and most admired Doctors stifly afferting upon the matter, the very same Anti-magistratical Principles, and that. they are animated by one and the same spirit, and that they do persevere in their Opinions, not expunging them in many Authors, but approving them under the hands of three Superiors, when too, they are severe in purging out and prohibiting contrary Tenets (as particularly in the Venetian writings) 'tis but reasonable that these foremention'd should be charg'd upon them (who so hug a probable Opinion) as their avowed Principles. We can fee them quick enough (which argues their fetled fiery temper against Princes, who do no favour them) if our Edw. VIth. be but Stiled Admiranda indolis Adolescens, i. e. a young Prince of admirable towardliness, with a deleatur upon all places where it is found *; foif Frederick Duke of Saxony be term'd an * Index Hifp. Illustrious, Wife, and Christian Prince; because a l.empurg. p.93. Protestant, it must be blotted out ; yea, and all Epi- Ind. l. prolib. thets whatfoever in Praise of sucht, and Dedicatory Sect. 2. &c. Epistles to them, as those of H. Junius and Jo. Ser- + Azer. Inf. very Names, (unless mention'd with contempt) they dif-

& 148. 150.

disapprove, and also Pictures '; those too, who are but of meaner Persons, if Protestants; as I remember one shew'd me, Anna Maria Schurmans cross'd out before her Book by those of their Inquisition; but all this while these Principles remain as before Printed and re-printed. Further (2.) The Apologetick Declaration of Peter Cotton and decree of Aquaviva will be infignificant to affoil the charge when 'tis plain, as the Learned Canfabon hath noted, of the * Epift. 170.ad Apologist*, Omnia defendit, omnes tuetur, omnes laudat, uno Mariana agre excepto; he maintains all things, defends all the Authors, praises them all, year Mariana himself is scarcely excepted, insomuch that foon after there came out a Pamphlet in English, Permissa Superiorum , wherein the Author faid that P. Cotton, whether for modesty, brevity fake, or serving the time had left Mariana unguarded (how far was this from renouncing his Doctrine!) adding, They are enemies of that Holy Name of Jesus, that condemn Mariana for any such Doctrine: You fee how their Superiors allow them to affront the Doctors of sorbon, who condemn'd the Jesuits Principles in Mariana's Book, and whatever they or any other say against the Ignatians, an Apologist * for them will evade the dint of the blow; for he will fay Mariana means a Tyrant and no King, and fuch they account every Prince whom the Pope excommunicates*, therefore he goes out Doctor subtilis;

Front. Duc.

D.154.

* po169.

and affirms + that the night and day may as well be joyned together at once, light and darkness agree, beat and cold, bealth and sickness, life and death, as a Jesuit be prov'd a Heretick. O rare Mystery of Equivocation and mental refervation! it will helpthe nimble Ignatian Proteus to put on any colours

*p.172.

* Bell . cont. Barel.c.3. + Cafaub.ut Jupr.p.172.

lour; whatever he says or does is in obedience to the Pope; whom should he command, fin, or forbid vertue, the Church is bound to believe the Vice good, and the vertue bad, unless she would fin against ber Conscience, faith Bellarmine . And what will a Pope of * De Pontif. Donna Olimpia's tutoring venture to fay? but, Di- 1.4.c.5. vine Providence which disposeth his will, appoints by his hands good men for the execution of Justice: therefore to speak ill of his Ministers were to charge Divine Providence which had inspired his choice. This belief of the Pope concerning his Ministers occasion'd a Protestant Count in Germany to tell his friend, I see plainly it will one day be requisite to hold all the Popes Subjects for infallible, yet for all that, as Pasquin said of the last Pope, Ad Galli cautum Petrus flevit amare. Both his Holiness and the Jesuits Generalissimo may be affraid of a great King, so that we may (3.) Remember as a deserving Doctor (who fmartly chastised the Rhetoricating Apologist for the Papists the last year) hath truly observ'd *. * Answ to Twas fear of the King of France his displeasure, had Apol.p.5: procur da Decree from the same hand, who for Love of the Doctrine had granted Licence a little before. For after the Spanish Provincial P. de Onna's Approbation and condemnation of this same Book 1598. Stephen Hoyeda the Jesuits Visitor in the Province of Toledo alledging the Approbation of it before by learned and grave men of their Order *, aud his be- *Dr. Du Mouing peculiarly empower'd by the General, Pote- ling. 13.119. state speciali factà a N. Pore Generali Cl. Aquaviva, Lud. Lucii Historia granted a faculty of Lucia mg it at Madrid 1599. Hosp. 1.224. But when the sorbonifes nad condemn'd it, and the Pyramis was erected at Paris 1610. against the Jefuits, then 'tis confess'd Aquaviva order'd among them-

that it is lawful for any Person, upon any pretence of Tyranny, to kill Kings and Princes (which yet they shall account no Kings when the Pope distasts them)

"Ib.219.è fa but linguam variavit non animum *.

"Ib.219.è fa. cultate ad id mihi facta à Reverendo admodum P. nostro Cl.4-quaviva facultatem concedo, doc.

The Mice alas! do pray against their will, Kind Puss your Pate is smooth of late, Your beart is rugged still.

There was no fincerity in this Decree, for April 9. 1612. by special order from this same General Aquaviva, Jo. Alvarus Visitor and Provincial of the Society of Jesus approves Suarez book which contains the very same Doctrine with Mariana's. And when Santarells book de Schismate came forth (though the sorbonists condemned it 1626. as they had done swarez before) it had the Approbation of Mutius Vitelescus his next succeeding General, which occasion'd the Court at Paris to send for their Je-Suits there, who gave them such an equivocating answer, that some of the Courtiers said, God keep w from such Confessors who have one Conscience at Rome, and another at Paris. The state order'd P. Cotton (who had put off the King before) to refute Santarell, or Answer an indictment of High Treason; but he freed himself by a sudden death, being in perfect health before; or some of his society took that pains for him: fo tenacious are the Ignatians of thefe pernicious Principles, than ey will not be beaten out of them; for though general Assembly of the Gallican Bishops had censur'd them 1642. for their maxims both against Morality and Policy, when they come to Apologize for their order, the Bishops in their circular Letters and Remonstrances * charge * Add. to My ft. them for holding the same in 1000. places in of Jes. 128.123.130. their Apology, yea for going higher, and affirming 135.138. they had reason to do it, peremptorily investing private persons with the power of life and death, as well as Suffraigns; allowing them to discer nonly by the light of reason (or the light within them) when it shall be lawful or unlawful for a man to kill his Neighbour, therein reproaching the Bishops or Pastors for a Company of Ignorants, because they opposed this horrid principle, among the rest, of the lawfulness of men being their own Carvers in matters of Justice.

* D.Du Moulin Vindic. p 128.129.

CHAP. IV.

Of the Loyolan Practifes, both Moral and Mechanical in Foreign Countreys, and these Kingdoms.

ł

Sect. I.

THE Monk who first invented Gunpowder, no I doubt, was defirous to see his invention put in execution; men delight to be employ'd answerable to their education. After the black smoak and sul-phur, we have seen somewhat of in the Loyolan principles; a little search into faithful Annals and experience, will discover the Jesuits like mount Ætna, vomiting out stakes and stames of FIRE in all their Practifes. Methinks they are not much unlike the wild animal Bonasus, which (fay they *) hath the * Plin. de So. head of a Bull, and the neck or main of an Horse; lin. and when he moves upon distaste, he casts forth fuch a steeming ordure, that with the touch of it, they who follow are burns, as it were with strange

Fire; so these Ignigeni we are discoursing of, do cast abroad such stinking Fire-balls in their motions, that with a great writer * (after d' Vargas) a man may aptly use the words of the Comick against a sierce Ignatian, * Mr.W.P. out of stratag. 7es.c.7.6 23.

Apage illum a me, nam ille quidem Vulcani irati est filius,

Quaqua tangit, OMNE AMBURIT, si prope abstes, calefacit.

Away with Fury, Vulcan's Son forlorn What e're he toucheth fure he doth it Burn.

The Jesuits indeed say'twas sit their Founder should be a Souldier, and I read the Priests of Mars (who Mythologists fancy was too familiar with Vulcans Wise) were called weeker, i.e. FIRE-Bearers, or such as carryed FIRE: be sure the Jesuits are really such, who take coals from the Altar, to FIRE the Temple and all about, both morally and mechanically, every where stirring up Flames. History transmits their raging practises to us in each respect; yet we are to conceive what they do and unxasse, artificially, as Ingineers in FIRE-Works, is in a subserviency to their Moral Incendies.

s. 2. And believe it, though they would engross all reputation, they are upon Record for notorious Incendiaries both in their Ethical and Political capacities, more privately and publickly. Peter Jacridge sometime a considerable Member of their society, hath brought their particular Ethical and Oeconomical practises upon the Scaffold, which they no otherwise answered than by directing James Beauf to charge him with Sacriledge, which he notwithstanding publisheth to be a Calumny, when all this while the charge he put in before the States-General, and that cloath'd with all circumstances of Persons, Names, Place, Manner, Associates, stands still upon the File Printed, without any Answer to particularities : only afterward, they Trepan'd him into fuch a Recantation in the general, that all who faw it might palpably smell a Rat, and perceive he was impos'd upon when gotten into their Clutches, to deny that pro formâ, which with the greatest profession of sincerety he had before fontaneously as well as folemnly affirm'd. Now fith the several matters of fact represented with the individuating circumstances, are not hitherto answer'd, only the man himself rebuk'd, his Allegations not refuted; it is apparent to any unbiass'd Reader, the Fesuits are really guilty of those rapacious Enchantments, Antedates, and Coynings, Incontinency and impurities in their visits; Venereal uncleannesses, and lascivious villanies in their Itineraries, obscenities with Nuns in their Convents, ingratitude and exasperations, and the like burning lusts, against all good Ethicks, and treasonable perpetrations, against all honest Politicks, as may be seen in the several Chapters of his Book with the Refutation of Jams Beauf, both to be read in English *; but I shall make *Further disuse of other Testimonies.

ing

e

i

5

r

e

9

S

5.3. Twere an easie matter to fill up many Pa- print, 1658. ges with instances to evince, that as the Jesuits Do-Arines are The Mystery of Iniquity which already worketh *; so they themselves are the workers of ini- *2 Thes. 2. 7. quity * notoriously, such as our Lord Jesus Christ * Luke 13.27. will turn away from him, and cast into the fire: but Mat. 7.23,19. because my present discourse is limited within narnow bounds, I shall refer the more Inquisitive to thofe covery to Myst. Jes.

Vid Elench. Au or ad fin. Myft Pat. 7ef. fulfill'd p. 18. 19. W.P. Pref. Vind, Fund, B. 4 C.I.

those Authors who direct us to such others as have detected their Villanies*, and only note some few; beginning with their mif- behaviour in their Ethicks, Proph. Hildeg. or more private conversation: we have heard several of their blasphemous expressions unto which do accord their actions. 'Tis plain, they worship they know not what, having no love to God, nor fear of him before their eyes, when they worship not only the Virgin Mary, but Ignatius Loyola their Founder and his Companion Xaverius, &c. as Bishop Taylor hath prov'd *) alledging the Councel of Trent (wherein their order was predominant) for their Practifes of ascribing the same worship to the image as to the representee; what honor they ascribe to Ignatius we may guess, when F. Doza blasphemously preach'd. In these last days God hath spoken to us by his Son Ig-

* Diffu.from Popery p 225 249.

* Ho[p.f.7.

sometime naked, besmeared with filth, desirous to *Rib.l.5.c.3. make himself a scoff to the beholders * (you may see whence he that came fo into the Church at Aldermanbury fetch't his patern) belike the Cacodamon

L.Luc. 432.

*Hosp.f.4 and or ill spirit, that used to accompany him at Mass * did then act him; as he did F. Cotton when he convers'd with the witch, yet the most cunning of them in their magick practises have sometime been met with. as at Prague while five Jesuits were playing the Devils, a sixth real Devil came from Hell into their Company and so hugg'd one of them, that he died *L.Luc.p.172 within three days after*. The exercises they perform in their magick Schools, are to train them up for a more accurate practise in their exorcisms: the ridi-

natius*, whom he bath appointed Heir of all things,

by whom also he made the world; yet this more than Saint of theirs Horyed in his own shame, when with his cloaths he stript himself of humanity, and went

Proph, Hild. fulf.p.61.

culous

$ .7.8.

culous as well as blasphemous offices, of which we have notably decipher'd by the aforesaid Bishop in the Ist. part of his Diffuafive from Popery. He who gives Remarks upon the Prophecy of Hildegard fulfill'd in the fesuits *, produceth instances of the Ignatians dissembling practises in a personate pageantlike devotion, Que filo insertis numerat sua murmura baccis, which number their murmers by berrys and beads fil'd on a string, while their bodies are exercis'd in theatrical gestures, and their voices bellowing to their wind-Musick, which (as Hierome said) is in Gods ear, tanguam grunnitus porcorum, as the grunting of Hogs.

ומ

s. 4. They assume the Title of Apostles, but by their practise have in many respects prov'd themselves false ones *; they pretend to poverty, yet are fulf.p.65. p.8. pompous in their Edifices, Gardens, Teaching, Reading, p. 52. Professing, Singing, acting of Comedies, and other Recreations, and in their processions, yea, and do all P. 30. things with oftentation and theatrical magnificence: the name of poverty is only made a stalking horse to all the delicacies of sense; for (as one says) the long cloak hath many folds, and the Quadrangular Cap is lin'd with the four Cardinal Vices, Hypocritical vain-glory, perfidious cruelty , theevish covetonsness, and luxurious uncleanness. They make a shew of humility, while puft up in their vain minds with an aery knowledge: all flourish, witness that voluminous work put out by them of Antwerp 1640. and the Amphitheatre of Honor (it might rather be of Horror) wherein the three famous Scholars Scaliger, Causabon, and Gruter, are fleighted as if they were *p.14.5.8. School-boys *, and their Books fit only for Grocers, 28.29. and Tobacconists, while the Ignatians themselves 5.23.

are a flight of Phanixes, Angelical Preachers, and the great masters of Eloquence. These are the Eagles that foar above the Clouds, others only reptile animals, to be trod under their feet. Their Congregation de propaganda fide is practically exercis'd de propaganda perfidia, they are perfidious to God, when contrary to their vow in Baptism they swear Allegiance to Ignatius, are treacherous to Magistrates, keep no faith with any who are not of their own Sect, each one of them hath the word to evade their obligation to any Magistrate. Jurata lingua est, mente non juravi. They can contemn all fuch folemn tyes at pleasure, sith they hold Nucibus pueros, juramentis viros fallendos. Children are to be deceived with tors, men eluded with oaths *; they wind up and down to betray all they have to do with. They instruct Children to answer, if they had Luther, Calvin, Beza, or any reformed Divine in their power, that they would dispatch them, one with a Knife, another with a Piftol, a third with a Dagger *, training them up to put offall sense of humanity and commiferation; to lay afide soppier, all natural affection to Parents, as they did a young Novice a Taylors Son at Landsperg, who when he (with other Novices) met his own Father in the field, would take no notice of him, though his aged Father call'd to him and put him in mind of his duty, yet he went on as one that was deaf and dumb : Ah! faid his Father, is this the piety that Jesuits teach us? but nothing would move the Son, who was highly respected by the Rector when he came into the Colledge, for this disobedience to his Father*. Thus they bereave men of their Children: and should a man be a fesuit for nought? Hee'l get what he can rather by fealth when

*p.9.10.52. 5.53.

- 57.

*Hafen mul.

When he hath an opportunity *, and to encourage * Proph. Hild. those who are light-finger'd, hee'l be their Receiver, 37.5.31. and return them some prayers for it. Oh! these 78fuits have a notable knack of engroffing every way : Bring, bring, are their morning Prayers, Give, give, their Evening *. Accipe dum adest says the Jesuit, no *p.10. from matter how it comes, unde babeas quærit nemo, sed Th.d'Vargas oportet habere. Trojan or Tyrian, Orthodox or Hereretick it matters not, they'l grasp it if they can *; a * subtile Trade of selling indulgences, do they drive with the Papists. A Popish Knight fays, they by theft pretending confession, get many Gold and Silver Ornaments from Merchants Wives, unto whom their Husbands had given them for love-tokens *, and af- * Hosp.f. 2003. terwards shews what vast Riches they have heap'd 201. together by indirect means, to accomplish their flagrant desires. And all to feed their Luxury and burning lusts; they do not only defend, Lupanaria Rome approbantur, but they have converted their confessionaries into Ecclesiastical stews *: They have *f73.6: got the chief trading with Women from all other orders, and their vow of chaftity is their Pasport, witness their familiarities with the Wives of the Gennefes and Venetians, and amongst other Narratives, that of summerman the Jesnit, who being to cast an evil spirit out of a posses'd Nun in Swisserland, made a thift to get her with Child *. 198.199.228.

5.5. Were not the Press in more than haste, many instances concerning the burning lusts of these Ignatian Goats might be brought in for evidence, from Padua, Antwerp, Lions, Friburg, Corduba, Prague, Heidelberg, &c. as may be feen in Lucius his History of Jesuitism *: Their libidinous conversations are *1.1.6.5.p.132 the natural fruits of all their Luxury and sensual en- &c.

Spec. Jef. 196

joyments

* Proph Hild.

P.47.5.46.

out of Jef.

Merc. + P.43 44.

joyments they vaunt of, their own darling Mariana own'd it in his days, that the Jesuits are lovers of deliciousness, and not able to bear the want of worldly conveniencies; that they are not sick and die through over much pains-taking, and austerity, but through their intemperance and irregular lives; witness also the pleasant story of the Rector of the Germane Col-And they do certainly every day ledge at Rome *. grow worse and worse +; of none could that of Horace be more truly predicated.

> Ætas parentum, pejor avis tulit Nos nequiores, mox daturos Progeniem vitiostorem.

Amongst them if any were, we may say crimine ab uno disce omnes, they are all alike guilty of nefarious practises, considering what was noted before of their constitution; they are so compact and strictly united together, that (as was observed in the Coun-*Hosp.p. 195.b sel given to the Nobles of Poland *, wherein they are called Crucigerorum Spurii, the Bastards of the Sect called Cross-bearers) that the whole body, and with it all the individual members thereof do conspire togother (if not in the Ethicks which else they might restrain, yet be sure in their Politicks) in the practise of these things unto which they are carry'd in soul and Fody as unto their Scope. From these practical Ethicks no doubt the Jovial Lords in their Scarlet Gowns are instamed with monstrous lusts, so that 'tis reported of the Card. Don Antonio Barberino *, he gave to a Neapolitan Curtesan for the first time a 1000. Crowns, and to a Pedant that had the charge of a very fair Boys the Son of a Gentleman, whom he

Qui no vetat peccare cum poffit, jubet.

* Just weight of Scarl. Gownp.69.

he let enjoy several times, he gave for a remard thereof a Bishoprick, Nella Marca di Marcantonio. The truth is, they are grown impudent and inflexible not only in these, but in all manner of wickednesses. The poor expos'd orphans of the Hospital in Burdeaux with deplorable crys, shew that no consideration of humanity can prevail with the Adaman- * Proph. Hill. tine hearts of Jesuits, who choak all the seeds of fulf. p. 143: Christianity and morality by a prophane solicitude after sensuality. He who comments on the Prophecy of Hildegard shews them to be in at least 10. respects Pseud-Apostoli false Apostles + (and they who *p.61. §.89 adhere to them, can be no other than Pfendo-Catholicks) yea, insatiable Evangelists *; and also in Hilde- *p.51. $. gards words, Hypocrites, Subverters of the truth, 48.8 p.59. proud, shameless, unstable teachers, delicate Martyrs, covetous Confessors, unmerciful calumniators, religious for filthy lucre sake, humbly insolent, of an inflexible piety, insinuating Liars, peaceable persecutors, oppresfors of theweak, Introducers and Authors of evil Setts, mischievously compossionate, lovers of the world, merchants of indulgences, robbers of Benefices, importunate Orators, seditious Conspirators (as we shall see in their Politicks) fighing but out of gluttony, ambitious of honor, criminally zealous, graspers of the world, applanders of men, seducers of women, sowers of dissention. No enemies could ever match these Furies, whose Colledges and profess'd Houses * are the * Elog. Jes. Receptacles of the guilty, the Resuges of dishonesty, ad sin Myst. the repreach of Christianity, the shops of iniquity, Pair. Jef. Rethe Academies of impiety, the lovers of Heresie, the ceptrices son-Chairs of infection, the High-places of Antichrift, nis improbithe Brothel bouses of the Whore of Babylon, the Ar- tatis opprobrichitects of blasphemies against God and all his Saints, um Christia-

the Companions of the Sodomites and Onan, the Emissaries of Devils, &c. as one hath Character'd them out of their own words. In which as in their deeds they are generally extravagant, as the Pseudo-Catholicks, i. e. the Papists themselves or some of their Priests complain'd above 60. years ago, when they gather'd a mess of the unsavory expressions of one Father here in England, which fill'd above an whole sheet of Paper.

* Reply to F.
Parsons ad fin.
Print. 1603.

Sect. 2.

Elog. Jefuit.

5. 1. History will affure us, that they who are thus notorious in their Ethicks are no better (but worse if it may be) in their Politicks. He who gave us the precedent elogie of them in their own words, fays also they are the INCENDIARIES of the whole world, the Ruiners of CITIES, the Poysoners of Kingdoms, the Murtherers of KINGS, the Archetypes of Rebellion. Consonant hereunto is the Character of an Ignatian given us by an ingenious Gentleman, who writes * that the Jesuit reckons it in the number of his merits, if he may by any finister ways ruffle and disorder Heretical Kingdoms (so he calls them) encourage weak and unstable minds to fleight Magistracy, irritate divisions, tumults, rebellions, absolve from oaths and sacred ties; so that'tis hard to find any Tragical Scene or bloudy Theatre into which the Jesuit hath not intruded, and been as busie as Davus in the Comedy, contributing in an high measure to every Fanatick insolence, justifying the old Lemma of Loyolas Picture, [Cavete Principes. These are the Firebrands of Europe, the Forge and Bellows of fedition, infernal Emissaries, the Pefts of the age, men that live as if huge fins would merit Heaven by an Anteperistasis. And indeed what have the

* Modern Policy Princ. IV.§.I. 1652.

the Jesuits not not done? by their FIRE-Arts both moral and mechanical, to turn all the stately Fabricks of Government into confusion, in France, Portugal, Germany, yea, and Turky, as well as in Ireland, and this famous Island of Great Britain.

5. 2. After the Ignatian Rooks had nested themselves in Italy, and by curing of Wounds, and teaching of schools, had gotten some Scholars out of Germany, not to be of their order but education' (where- L.L. C.1.3.C.1. by they more flily taught to kist the Popes toe.) Ha- p.azi. ving gain'd credit amongst the Superstitious Italians, they pass'd into spain and Portugal, where they were courteously received by those mancipated to the Pope and Superitition, though the Archbishop of Toledo in Spain had not fo much kindness for them, as it feems Will. de Prato Bishop of Clermont, who first introduced them into France 1550. leaving them when he dyed 60000. Crowns, yet the sorbonifts lik'd not this kindness to such Vipers as they apprehend these to be, but decreed against them 1554. this decree the Spanish Inquisition gave check to; however they got not much ground in France, till Francis IIds. time, when the Guises favour'd them and Card. of Lorraign got a Diploma for them under conditions * 1561. which they violated. * Id.p.225. The famous Advocate Charles Moulin alledged the admission of them was against the Publick weal and common good of France, especially the University of Paris, with many unanswerable Arguments * . Paf. *p. 226, 227. chasius or. Pasquerius against Peter Tersorius shew'd it would prove dangerous to the whole Christian world*: but because the Jesuits argued their great * P. 229. zeal against the Protestants, they got liberty to open their schools 1565. and foon after began to put

e Gallic. O Belg.Hift. Spec. Jesuit.

put in practise their poysonous Doctrine against Princes; for they stir'd up one Renat an Italian, the Kings Apothecary in Paris 1672 by a pair of deadly Perfu-*Hossel 3 c.3. med Gloves * to poison Joan Albreta Queen of Navarre, because she was a Patroness of the Protestants in France, to protect them from violence (by the Thuan.1.52.53. same instrument a poysoned Pomander was given to the Prince of Conde, whose Chirurgeon Le Groffe, was almost poysoned with it) this was only a Prologue to the fatal Wedding, when the Protestant Guests invited were flain in their beds on Bartholomen day the same year, to the number of 70000. (as the King fent word to Rome by his Legate) unto which adde what were flain within three moneths after in cool bloud, and they wil amount to an 1000005 for which Massacre (consonant to the principles of, and plotted by the Jesuits) the Pope did not onely give thanks, as was noted above, but rewarded the murtherers with many of bis spiritual graces: such as encouraged his active Emissaries the Jesuits, to draw the Pseudo-Catholick Princes into an Hoby League * (asthey call'd it) 1577. to root out Protestants with Fire and sword; and though King Henry III. was a Papist, yet he was not by the Ignatians then deem'd fo fit to carry on the design as the D. of Guife, therefore the Jesuits betraying the Kings Counsels (which they learned by the Art of Auricular confession) unto their F. General do meditate the thrusting of him into a Cloyfter *, or the taking away of his life; to effect this last, they suborned James Clement a Do-minican Frier, who stab'd him in the belly with a poyson'd knife, whereof he presently dyed 1589. P. Sixtus V. decreed upon the Kings death that his exequies should not be solemnized, when (as was faid)

* f.151. 52; Hift. of Franc. in Hen. 3.

* Hofp. 50.

faid) he celebrated this facinorous act with Honour * * Anti-Cot-Sept. 11. the same year, within four years after F. Camolet having extolled J. Clements fact *, and de-*f.153.154. clared in a Sermon 1593. We have need of an Ehnd, a Monk, or a Souldier to bring our affairs to our defired end. P. Barier encourag'd with the Sacrament by Varade Rector of the Jesuits Colledge, and other Jes Suits, undertook the Asassination of Hen. IVth. furnamed the Great, then King, and became a Papift, 1593. but by an Ignatians forewarning the King, it was prevented, and Barriere was executed Aug. 31. yet on the 29th. F. Cammolet prophesied within a little while they should see the thing effected, in order to which, when the King return'd out of Picardy to Paris, John Chaftle (the Son of Peter a Clothier in Paris) a Novice of the Jesuits Colledge, about the Age of 19. aiming at the heart of the King (who unexpectedly stooped down) stab'd him in the mouth, and brake one of his teeth, whereupon the King faid *, * Luc. Hift. 1.4 What do the Jesuits assault me, to be convicted by the c.3. testimony of mine own mouth? Chastle contess'd he had been three years in the Ignatian Society, and by their Doctrine and instigation he was encourag'd to this Villany*, especially by his Master F. Gneret. Here- * Hosp.f. 154. upon the Parliament publish'd an Arrest or declaration (having secured the Jesuists) that Jo. Chastle on his knees with a great Torch in his hand, should declare the wickedness of his fact, then be hang'd, & his body afterwards burn'd; yet fo. Guignard fesuit, *f.156157. *who had said they were faln from a Fever into the Thuan. Pestilence, because they had not cut off this King at the Bratholomen Massacre, highly commended Fo. Clement in a Book written to applaud this attempt, yea, and though the Parliament had Jan. 7. 1595.

* Luc.p.382. 385, emitted another Arrest against Gneret and Guignard, as well as Chastles Father, for conceating *; yet not only C. Scribanias in his Amphitheatre, but Fr. Veron puts forth an Apology for John Chastle, and justifies the fact; only dislik'd that he had not utterly taken away the King. Alexander Hay, a Scotch Jesuit, was for temporizing and serving the King with dissimulation for a while, saying, Jesuita est omnis homo, i. e. a Jesuit is every man; we may rather say, Jesuita est omnis Bestia, a Jesuit is every Beast, who is not to use a reason of discerning in his motion, but to follow his Master to the slaughter: but the Parliament banish'd him as well as his confrese To. Bele, for such brutish behaviour.

s. 2. Upon all these evidences by the Parliaments.

ground, where Chastles House stood for a memorial of perpetual execration of the Jesuits and their Dostrines, where (1.) On the Front of black Marble in Golden Letters, was engraved the Arrest or Statute of Parliament*, dated 29. Decemb. 1594. containing the banishment of the Jesuits within three days from Glermont. On the (2d.) Square were Verses inscribed to the Memory of Hen. IVth. wishing him long life. On the (3d.) A grateful acknowledgment to God for preserving the King from the Villany of the Asassac, and transmission of it to Posterity. On the (4th.) After owning Gods preservation, A Relation of the Fathers conceasing of his Sons intentions, for which cause his house was demolished, and that Ryramid built in the room of it. About two or three years after, there were other Arrests of Parliament *, as that Aug. 21. 1597. against the admit-

appointment, a PYRAMID was erected on the *Id.1.4 c. 3.

385

ting of fesuits in disguise, or counterfeiting, they had had abjur'd their order, and also another Aug. 18. 1598. against Noble mens putting their Children under the Tuition of any Jesuits at bome or abroad; yet for all this, the impudent Ignatians 1601. Supplicate for readmission; the King rejects their Petition, but Ignatius Arnand however (with others) gains liberty of speech with the King, who shortly after permits Arnand and Cotton to come to Paris, and Fronto-Ducew, and F. Richmoe (who yet had Apologized all he durst for Chastle) to attend the Popes Legate, so they by degrees prevail'd upon the Kings clemency to have the Pyramid demolished; which was entertain'd with a Libel, wherein amongst many other things there was to this effect *, Who would *p.391, think a little Gotton would break in pieces fo many Marbles ? and afterwards when P. Cotton grew into more fayor at Court, 'twas faid, The Kings ears were fopt with Cotton. And

* The King no where can step a foot, But Father Cotton sinds him out; But the good King is not aware,

That fine Cotton is Spanish Ware.

* Anti-Cott.

s. 4. It seems the Jesuits prevailed with the King to be readmitted against the consent of Parliament, the entreaty of the D. of Sully, the reasons of his *P.393. first seat of Justice, and the Supplication of the University of Paris (as a worthy Person hath observed upon the change of his Religion *) only for fear they *Dr.W.D. should fend him the same way he did H. IIId. (so Hore subscives much did Popery emasculate this Great King) but his hindness gains no more security from the abuse, disturbance, and violence of implacable and ungrateful Ignatians, Ignatians, who told lies at Orleance to get in at Troy, en Champagne, which they did by a fubtile impoling on the Provost or Major, who was accidentally at Paris, in alluring him to fee the King at Dinner, when (he standing in fight) they whisper'd to the King that the Major of Troy came to beg in the name of the City that the Jesuits might come thither; which (never being in his thoughts or hearing what they faid ) afterward both the major and all the Citizens wondred at, when 1604. they had given the major a Letter from the King to the City (pretending it was a favour to them he would fee) wherein was express'd the Kings readiness to comply with the desires of the Citizens, who then upon the first reading of it look'd upon the major as having betray'd them, when as he poor man was only impos'd on by these Foxes with Firebrands in their tails; * who by subtilty would also have crept into sedan, * L.Luc. Hift. 1.4.c.3.p.395. but that the D of Bullain obstructed them 1606. All this while they were machinating the death of the King, for it feems a Spaniard who was grown familiar with F. Cotton, as Mounsieur de la Force advifed the King, should have doneit; but when it mis'd, Cotton dispatcht him away; in the mean ton translat. time the fesuits preach against the King *, as F. Harby G.H.p 48, dy, who said, there needed but a mattock to kill a King. F. Gontier in the presence of F. saphire Rector of the Colledge against de la Grange, that it were a good deed to kill the King, which was done May 14. 1610. when Francis Ravilliac, a Raschal Votary stab'd him under the fifth rib twice as he was in his Coach about to march out with his Army, fo that by the time his Nobles could get him in, he expired. This Ravilliac alledg'd* the reason to be, the Kings

making

* Anti-Cot-

p. 398.

D.54.D. 50.

making war against the Pope, and that the Pope was God, and by consequence that the King would make war against God, and that they might understand this by the foremention'd Preachers the Jesuits; confesfing that he shew'd F. Aubigny, the knife when he made private confession to him. Ambigny pleaded the grace of oblivion in confessions, as the English Jefuits at the Powder-plot; rather (fay they) than violate the feal of confession, it were better all the Kings in the world should perish *. Adde hereunto, * cousab. Epist not only the Jesuit Verone had predicted this Kings paop. death, but also at Prague and at Bruxels, about 12. or 15. days before the Jesuis spake confidently of it " Anti-Cot. (as before the late conflagration at London in other parts) fo that Letters came from Bruxels to Roan to him, to know whether the King were dead or no? fo at Troys, and at Petivers or Poidiers. The Provoft. whose Son was a fesuit, and who was a great intimate of the Teluits, faid, This day the King is either flain, or bath a blow, which really was fo, when it might be said as 'twas of Card. de Lugo *, who was *Scarl.Gown by the Barberini of a Jesuit advanced to that digni- p.152. ty; when he declared himself against them to be of the Austrian party. As ingrateful as a Jesuit: for they did this when the King had strangely oblig'd them, not only by their Readmillion, but taking F. Cotton for his Confessor, conferring many favors upon them, as particularly (worth 100000. Crowns) his House at La Fletch, which gives for its device an Arrom, as another of their Houses at Nola in Italy gives a Bow. Whereupon'twas said *:

* Pull Ch. Hift 1.6.p.278.

9.44.

Arcum Nola dedit, dedit bis La Fletcha sagittam Illis quis nervum, quem meruere, dabit.

Nola

Nola to them did give a Bow, La Fletch an Arrow bring; But who upon them will bestow, (what they deserve) a string?

L.Luc. Hift. D. 476 ... * ad b. 486.

489. 491,

5. 5. Their demerits were notably laid open by Peter Martelier (the famous Advocate for the University) called Fori delicia, as well as by Servinus the Kings Advocate *; and the Rector of the University shew'd what Incendiaries they had been *. The Arrest of Parliament was pronounced, and the things done 1554. 1564. 1577. 1585. 1594. and 1595, were repeated, and the Authorsurged, amongst whom was Scribanius under the name of Bonarseins; P. Cotton said he was some Calvinist, yet twas proved that otherwhile he had praised his Book (as bad as Mariana's) and distributed many Copies: belike the Jesuits to cover their shame, would fain Father their Bastards upon others, but they bug them in Corners. The Advocate shew'd how Sa, Sales, and Sanchez overthrew all Politicks. and that Richomes Apology, Cottons Declaratory Letter, Answers to Anti-Cotton, and other Jesuitical Scrips opposite to Arnolds action, whatever speciousness of justice they had, yet really did tend to the destruction of the higher Powers, and the everfion of Equity *; that their manuale of sodality, and the Sermons which solar the Jesuit turn'd out of Spanish, were of the same stamp, therefore moved that the Jesuits might be eliminated till they could produce better reason than they had done: for quid valet Protestatio contra factum? an arrand Whore may wipe her mouth and give fair words; and another argued *, what if a Company of Pyrates publish

p.492.493.

* p.303.

Publish a decree that they will rob no more, yet live by robbery : will Merchants who have smarted, credit this any longer than till they have an opportunity to rob? The ancient Magicians are most subtile in bewitching by Praises; and the Jesuits their Apes prevail by flatteries: though they were bar'd from all kind of teaching in the City and University at Paris, yet they had friends about the Queen Regent, which by fair speeches retarded their expulsion by Parliament, and procur'd their stay : and though the young King was so far awaken'd, as once to tell F. Cotton he would not confess to him, for he would fend his confession to Spain, as he did his Fathers; and the King received the Rector of sorbons Petition 1618. with a grateful smile, yet afterward the King does not only allow them power to read and profess, but builds them Colledges. However March 24th. that year, the University makes such decrees against them as the time would bear +.

5. 6. This favour which Lewis XIIIth. in his minority shew'd to them, was apaid by their enkindling intestine wars.*, to extort by force many Ci- * p.458. ties and places from the Hugonots (viz. fuch as make the Holy Scripture the only Rule of their Faith, Worship, and Obedience) for which the Jesuit Cornelius Corneli gave thanks to God, and another Jesuit, a man of three Letters, urged the King with many specious and lying arguments to have no Communion with the Evangelical Germans*. But this last *p.459. advice not taking so effectually with the King, as the Jesuits desired; it seems two of the gang instigated Fr Martel dwelling near Deip to be a Parricide, as appears from an Epistle of a great man*, who *1.466. wrote that the 7. Headed Hydra's conspir'd as Judas the Traytor

Traytor to obstruct the confederation of Princes, and take away the Kings life. 'Twas acknowledg'd that Martel had committed Sodomie with his men, Ginet and Galeran, which last, at his Masters command, shot with a Pistol Christoph. Auray (a neighbour whom his Master hated ) and when that did onely wound, and not dispatch him, Martel himself confess'd when he cal'd back his fervant Galleran from Paris (where he had been hid ) they both going to Roan, bought Eunes ICENDIARIOS cum pulvere, i.e. Match and Powder, whereby Galleran in the night by the help also of two arch Rascalls, set the aforesaid Aurays house on FIRE, and burnt it to ashes: which done, Galleran said, Ambrose Guyot an Ignatian went with his Master Martel to Deip*, whilft he fled to Roan; where his Master came to him, and there, being apprehended, confess'd to the chief Provost, or Presdent, that by the advice of two Incendiaries his affociates, viz. Ambrose Guyot, and P. Champuyse, Jesuits, he was to flab the King; they having found a great knife, like to that of Ravilliac's next to his skin upon his thigh; for which the Parliament at Roan condemn'd Martel to the wheel, and to be cast into the Fire and burnt. Concerning this intended Paricide, Galleran also confess'd that the fesuit Guyot had two spanish souldiers out of Flanders, a long time at his Masters, and in the Jesuits Rectorie, where they spake ill of the Kings and Martel in a Letter to a Jesuit, pray'd the Virgin Mary to promote and perfect what he was going about at Paris, where Decemb. 13th and 26th 1625. The Theologicall Faculty and Congregation of Ecclesiasticks, censured the Admonition of G. G. R. to Lewis XIII. and also Mysteria Politica, and burnt both, by the common Hangman, for the damnable Doctrines

* p.+62.

* P.465.

Dodrines contained in them. Yet the very same year after, The Ignatians [ who can as foon repent as the Æthiopians skin become white 7 are found promoting their Magistrate-destroying Principles, in in a Tract of Heresie, Schism, Apostasie, and the power of the Pope in punishing offences : where 14. notorious positions were laid down by the Jesuit Ant. Santarell*: which the Theolog. Facultie censur'd, and the whole University ratify'd +; April 4th 1626. as +p. 469. they did also the Books of Fr. Garraff. Jesuit, Mar. 2. 1626. Yet for the 40. years last past, we shall find ever and anon the Gallican Churches and Universities complaining of their liberties, being invaded by the Jesuits. 'Twas noted above * how the Ignati- * Chap. 3. ans jugled about their Dissavowry 1633. and how Sect. I. the Bishops resented it, 1643. discovering their Col-In sion which was not less notorious, 1651. by deceying about 26. Irish students to subscribe a Declaration against the five Propositions highly prejudicial to the Authority of the University of Paris, to the Rights and priviledges of the Realm, and of the Gallican Church *: violating agreements then as they had *5. Amours done before * in 1649. reviving the Doctrine of the Journ part 3. Sanctarellifts, both in this and the other fide of the Mountains, disclaiming Propositions, condemn'd any *id.-109. how, by any Pope, and so detending * the Bull for * Contin. p. the usurpation of the Kingdom of Navarre from its lawful Lord. In the time of Alexander VII. the last Pope (who, tis faid for all the fair Character, not long since publish'd by some friends to the Gentleman, in his last hours spake much of his friends, little of the Church, and nothing of God. ) They made a great buffle again, not onely about the five Propositions with the fansenists, but concerning their great Idel the M 2 1667.

the Popes power over Temporal Princes; declared against about four or five years since by the King and Parliament at Paris. And now doubtless they are labouring hard at the Popes Bellows to enkindle new flames against the Gallican Bishops, for allowing the Jansenists to translate the New Testament into French.

Luc. Hift.

p. 312.

* Hofp.1.3.c.2. fol. 136.

s.6. Before I leave this Section, somewhat may be noted of their attempts in Helvetia, and the annexed Territories. Though the Inhabitants were not for ruff with them Jesuits, as those in Asturia, who slew them as Cheats and Spies when they came to plant there * 1608. ( whatever they have been forc'd to fince ) yet the Valesians, when the Jesuits began to nest and fix their stations amongst them, fortified themselves with fourteen Reasons against the entertainment of those pompous, luxurious, covetous, facrilegious Harpyes ( fo they call them ) who were promoters of the King of spain, into their Democraticall state * 1610. But before that, and fince, they found great favour in the Savoyan Court, on which they have had so great an influence, that the Evangelical Churches in the Valleys of Piedmont, have a long time groaned under the feverity of outragious practifes effected by the counsels of their Mif-Gonarie Priests and Monks, who have made it their business to debauch young men in their Principles, and by suborning false witnesses to deprive the Evangelical Professors of their estates, and to reprelent those innocent subjects as infernall Monsters in the eye of the Prince, & utterly destroy them, by the sword and FIRE, (burning some alive) and unexpressible tortures; as they did in the years 1640, 1641, 1642. &c. and 1655. which you may fee at large large in (Now Sir) Samuel Morlands History *, fet * See especiforth with cuts, in fol. 1658. There youl find they Copy'd out in BLOUDY Characters, the Ignatian avowed principle of not keeping faith with Hereticks, fince within this feven years they were violent again in the same Practifes, against Gods wonderful owning and defending the poor despised Relicts of the Waldenses, by his sheltering them with a natural munition of Rocks, fupplying them with Inpernatural courage, and giving them success beyond all imagination. I might here annex the stirs they made in the University of Padna, and that unhappy Voyage they put Sebastian King of Portugal upon 1578 whilst by the Plot they get the King of Spain (their great Patron) into the possession of that Kingdom *, and in the interim some of their Fraternity were in the Isle Tercera, one of the files. richest of the Azores, belonging to Portugal, attempting to betray it to the Spaniard, which caused a tumult amongst the Islanders, who were so inrag'd bythis treachery, they could hardly be kept from burning the Colledge of these Incendiaries. But the poor Monks of other orders in Portug. felt the smart of Phil. IId. in Castile, his bostile Invasion at the same time by the instigation of the Fathers of the Society; who lately have made the very Bishops of Portugal feelingly to know the Jesuits Interest in the Roman Court.

Sect. 3. s. 1. If we pass into the Empire of Germany (taken in its fullest Latitude) we shall meet with Reports every where of the Jesuits continually profecuting the advice they gave to the Emperor in an Oration at Auspurg 1565. Saying, So long as you do

p. 186, ventre tenus.

* 1d.p. 186. 200.

202,

* Lib. 18. de Staru Relig. & Rep. sub anno 1546.

not make your Horse to swim in the bloud of the Lutherans, you in no wise ought to think you shall enjoy *L.Luc. Hift. any good fortune or Victory against the Turks *. mongst whom there were a Sect of Affaffines (a Pope call'd them Arsacides) of the Mahometan Discipline, but extinct 1262. whose principles about Government, the famous Padre Paulshew'd the Jesuits *1d.200.201. have imbib'd*. For as these Assassines were for killing and ruining any Magistrates or others that oppos'd them, vi, frande, dolo, pro re nata & oblata occasione; by force, fraud, damage, according as the advantage lay, and they had opportunity: fo the Tesuits conclude, when they meet with opposition (as P. Stewart, one of the Society faid *) Vrendum & secandum ese, we must BURN and cut the throats of Hereticks, i. e. Protestants, who (I learn from sleidan *, about seven years after these Incendiaries were famous at Rome) did emit a writing, wherein they declare that the Pope, the Roman Antichrist, the instrument of Satan, the Author of the German War. who in the precedent years had grievously distressed saxonie, Per INCENDIARIOS Conductos, by bired FIRE-BRANDS, now had fent out Poyfoners who might corrupt the Wells and Ponds of Water, that what was left by the sword, they might destroy with Poyson. Therefore these Protestant Magistrates gave order within their Ditions, that thefe Emifiaries might be apprehended and punished , and within a few days afterward the Electors Son, John William chargeth those under him to be watchful, sith lately not far from Vinaria, a Town of Turing, one was took upon suspicion, an Italian, who upon examination confess'd, that at Rome money was given to him and some others in the POPES Name,

that

* that by BURNINGS and poyson, they would Nomine * that by Built III and and possibly could throughout Ger- Pontificis, ut Incendiu atq; many. How consonant this practise is to the Jesuits veneno quanprinciple of forcing Religion with FIRE or Sword, tum omnino is obvious to every ones observation. These Ignati- Germaniam ans did not only at Munster and Colen raise abomi- damni danable lies against the Evangelicall professors, and tra-rent. duce them for Ignoramuffes, but father their Parricides upon them, as Creswell and Coster would lay the massacre at Paris to the charge of Queen Elizabeth Thuan. and the Calvinifts ( which all the world laughs at *) * Luc, Hift. p. but when they had an indulgence from the Pope to 207, 208. Temporize at the Diet, then at Ratisbone or Regensperg, they importuned the Prelates to diswade the Emperour, Electors, and Princes from any connivance to the Evangelicall, concluding it would be detri- *id. p. 188. ment to the Roman Church *; it feems they were much concern'd about the Inconveniencies of a Toleration, however limited, and thereupon their conclusion against the wife-Councellers then, as of some now against the Sentiments of wise men among us, who are of opinion, that Reformed Christianity rightly stated in its due latitude, is the stability and advancement of the Kingdome of England, consonant to the celebrated Maxime of the D. of Roban, [That besides the interest which the King of England hath common with all Princes, he hath yet one particular, which is, that he ought throughly to acquire the Advancement of the Protestant Religion, even with as much zeal as the King of Spain appears Protector of the Popish. ] But truth is great, and it will prevail, though the Germans as well as others have groaned under the snares of the Ignatian Tribe. 5. 2. In Austria and Hungarie, The fesuits could effect

id. p. 591.

Eccl. Bob. perf. c. 40.

" Luc Hift p. 616,617.

effect no great matter under Maximilian the Emperor, nor under Rodolph, till 1592. they fell more close to work, and by Clandestine machinations with their fecret Agents got an advantage*, 1602.toget Rodulph fign an Edit for the shutting up of the Evangelicall Churches, and excluding the Ministers. tidings came upon it, of the Turks taking Alba-Regalis, the chief City of Hungary; Persons of credit report, that the Emperour being astonished, said, I did expect some such thing this day, after that I begun to usurp Gods Government over mens consciences *, and he was really afterwards more indulgent. But before this in Styria, Carinthia, Carniola, the Jesuits were extream active in exasperating Charles the Arch-duke of upper-Austria against his faithful Subjects, beginning at Grats, or Gracium the Metropolis, where they instigate Sonnabond a Parish Priest, Septem. 1598. to accuse the Evangelical Preachers before the Lords Ordinary or Cinq;-Virs, to gain an interdict of their preaching; but they answer the accuser with silence, knowing the infolence of the Jesuits, who for this complain to Ferdinand then Duke, and obtain his command to the Lords Ordinary, to prohibit the forefaid Ministers preaching, and see them leave Styria within 15. days *. The five Lords answer Ferdin. at large in writing, and importune him not to fuffer his mind to be exulcerated by the Jesuits against his innocent Subjects. But Ferdin. having Jesuits whispering in his ear. (Septem. 23.) chargeth the Ministers again to be gone within eight days, and leave preaching under pain of death: They feek to the Lords, but then within five days a more strict Precept comes; the Lords, and the greater part of the Magistrates earnestly supplicates; yet the Jesuits suggestions gestions were still more prevalent: and the Arch-Duke goes on purpose to the Prince of Ferrara, and so to Rome, where the Pope would not receive him to audience, till he had at the Sacrament promis'd to expell all the Lutherans out of his Provinces. he-returns with Spanish and Italian guards, upon pretension to fetch into Spain his sister the Arch- Dutchess, who was so influenced by these Popish Janizaries the Tesuits, that she protested, that she would not go before she saw the Evangelicall Ministers ejected. The Nobles are terrified, the five Lords in Ordinary compelled, the Citizens by threatnings and force constrained, and the poor Ministers, nineteen in number, are ejeded. Though the Lords at the Parliament complain'd of the Jesuits snares, send Letters, and supplicate the Prince to make good the priviledges covenanted and granted to his innocent subjects, and RESTORE the Ministers *; Nor onely *id. p. 6.8. they, but Fan. 19. 1599. those in Carinthia and Carniola, for liberty of the Evangelical Christian, and *id.p. 620. (alvifice Religionis (as they express it *) the truly Saving Religion; alledging words would fail them to enumerate the calamities, straits, and dangers they were brought into by the Fesuits, against whom they beg'd remedies with tears in their eyes, and truly christian groans *; but all the answer was made to .... p. 6293 this mournful Petition, and above three moneths after to it repeated. Decemb. 8. 1609. was onely to fignifie the Arch Duke was resolved to carry on the Reformation (fo they would call that) he had begun with the Tesuiticall mode, & extirpate rotestantism (yet Caraffa, Bishop of Aversa, the Popes notable agent in this Reformation, acknowledges the Protestants to * Com. de be the Major part * ) in execution whereof the Restour.p.114: Evangelicall

Evangelical Temples and Houses were destroy'd, and blown up with POWDER, dead Bodies dig'd up and BURNT or cast into the Rivers, Preachers banish'd, and many thousands of Books, (among which were many BIBLES) every where publickly BURNT, and men wanting Christian courage forc'd to forfake the true Religion *.

Luc. Hift. p.631.

tians turn out their Ministers, and tanium non Busiridis bove excarnificant, even torment them out of 'Tis true at Prague in the Emper irs their skins *. name 1608, a promise of indulgence was made to 5.2. And alas! The true Evangelical Professors are no better treated by the Jesuits in Bohemia, and the adjacent Countreys; there the domineering Ignathem, but the Casuistical Jesuits (who teach Princes to violate their word given to those who Worship God only according to his own prescription in the Bible) foon made it void. Then 1609. in a Petition, laying open their grievances, and the miserable Tyranny of the Jesuits they were under. Rodolph, Ild. grants an Amnesty, and for an accordance requires that one party should not upbraid another, who would agree to subscribe the Bohemian confes-

fion *, having prohibited all persecution of any one for Religion, and endeavour'd to oblige his Succesfors thereunto; and articles were agreed upon betwixt the several Orders or States for a friendly tranfaction and mutual accord, betwixt those who did participate sub utraq; under both kinds, and those sub und under one kind in the Sacrament; and Pseudo Hussitism being laid aside, there was scarce the hundredth man who did not profess the Evangelical

Doctrine, which occasioned great rejoycing, so that

* Id. 592.

* Lue-Hift. P.598.

to the Posts of the Churches were up and down affixed *, * Eccl. Bohem. pers.c. 40.

9.3.4.

Templa patent, Leo lætus ovat, firmante Rodulpho, Quam dederas fidei Maxmiliane fidem, &c.

Yet this publick establishment lasted but a while, for the Hungarians, with the Austrians and Moravians, by a Politick fetch of the Jesnits, having created the Archduke Matthias their King, Duke, and Marquess; who enters into Bohemia with an Army, where he is also made King; Rodulph dies for grief, * upon which the Jesuits gaining more power from Matthias, fall to their old Arts, and aggresse the Evangelical with many reproaches and calumnies, libelling those who did communicate in both kinds. and banishing the Evangelical Pastors under a meer pretention of their medling in fecular Affairs; and so influenc'd the Emperor to oppress them, whiles these Fathers of the Society do not only invade their Rights, but the Rights also of other Eccle siafticks *. * Luc. Hift. About 1617. Matthias would have the Bohemians to P. 602, &c. receive his Cousin Germain Ferdinand, who by fubtilty was Crown'd; The Jesuits to entertain Ferdinandat Olmutz in Moravia, erected a triumphant Arch, wherein, among other Ornaments, they paint the Bohemian Lion fasten'd with a chain, and the Moravian Eagle, and an Hare at their feet sleeping with open eyes, upon which was written this Emblem, ADSUEVI, scoffing at and jearing the States to their faces, that through drowfiness they should fuffer themselves to be so bound and chain'd: Printing the year after; that though Ferdinand at his Co-

N 2

5

0

3

P

-

1,

e

-

1-

d

e

.

e

0

* Id .: . 41. 5.3. 1611.

ronation

* Eccl. Bob. Perf.c.42.

5. 3. prius tamen in facrario ecclesiæ deposuisset.

* Ad.c. 43. 5. 3. Luc. Hift. p.600. Hosp. f.182.

*r.2 Sell.5. 5.5.

ronation in Bohemia took the oath to defend the Protestants, yet he had before in the Vestry of the Church gaged himself that he would grant nothing to them which might be prejudicial to the Papifts. * And it feems by what follow'd, be had (as the Jesuits indoctrinated him ) sworn to the States with his mouth, to the Pope in his Heart, for thence forward against his Majesties express word, yea, in Prague it felf the Evangelical were daily reproach'd from the Fesuits Pulpits; the Establishment by Radolph aipers'd, and threatn'd not to hold: the Preses Stopt to the Protestants whiles the Jesuits publish'd infamous Libels against them, and clancularly instigated the Pseudo-Hussites to Petition for an alteration of *1d. 5.4.5. the Establishment *. These things (together with the Jesuits forging of interdicts in the Tower at Prague, as if they had come from the Court at Vienna) did so incense the states, that in May or June 1618. they banish the Jesuits as enemies to the publick peace, and Architects of all their troubles *, and therefore to be gone within eight dayes out of the Kingdom of Bohemia, alledging twelve Reasons for their Proscription * drawn from the Jesuits practises every where. And belike they left some tokens of wickedness behind them; when upon their going out of prague was found much ammunition (as was noted above *) whereby they defign'd to have blown up the Evangelical Churches. Jesuits rage after this flame, by their putting on of Oil, was more enkindled against the Bohemians who could have no favourable interpretation from Ferdinand; but he having obtain'd affistance from the Princes of the Holy League, comes with an Army

upon

upon the Bohemians (who hearing of Matthias his death had elected Frederick) and November 8. 1620. by greater force beat them up to the walls of Prague, which shortly surrendred, and with it the Liberties of Gospel-professors in those Countreys:

e

S t

5.4. These Incendiaries were not less mischievoully active in the Margifate of Moravia, where they had likewise been found guilty of tumults and blond, and whence eo nomine they were May 6. 1619. upon folemn deliberation by the Barons, Knights, &c. banished . As they were also by a Decree da- * Luc. Hist. ted the same year and moneth by the States out of p.610.mar.16. Hungary, by reason that they had mov'd the Pope to put the Emperor upon making an unhandsome peace with the Turk: that so he might turn his Forces upon the Evangelical party (a usual practise) which the Jesuits were more enraged against then the Turks*, because Mahometanism doth more agree * Id. ib. with the Jesuits principles than the Gospel doth, as may naturally be infer'd from what was faid in the former Chapter of this discourse. The Duke and State of the Augustane Confession, made also a Decree June 24th. of the same year, to banish them from Silesia by reason of their incessant treacherous practises, to bring all into confusion: upon which, soon after they were turn'd out of Briga, a great FIRE broke out, whereby 300. Houses were confum'd ere it could be quench'd; but three of the INCENDIARIES being taken, confess'd that they were Emissaries sent from the Jesuits in Poland, and that there were yet many more of them who by all the wayes they could, were to confume silefia with

Id.1.4.c.5. P. 613.

with FIREINGS*. For fuch like notorious projects and practises, the Jesuits were 1590. likewise turn'd out of Transylvania, where by Clandestine Counsels and their interest with his Brother in Poland, they prevail'd with S. Bathor the Prince, to violate a Covenant of peace, when the Nobles * Id p 614.and of lef.fecret practifes.

a fhort Treat. oppos'd'it, and to pursue his Kindred unto death and ruine; whereby he involv'd himself in an inextricable War, which loft him the Principalitie, and

D.614.

* Luc. Hift.

put an end to his life in a miserable Imprisonment. And when Stephen Potscay, Vaivod, or Prince (who could not endure their bloudy Tenets) kept out these Popish Janizaries, they took him away by Poison *: they likewise plotted against Gabriel Bathor, of whose counsel was Balthasor Kornis, who had entertain'd into his Family a fubtle difguiled Jefuit, that labour'd with this great man, to move the Prince to restore the Jesuits and the Popish Religion: which motion not being prevalent, he conceiv'd Treason against the Prince, and had drawn the CHANCELOUR Bendis into the Plot, which the Prince having fecret intelligence of, diffembled the knowledge of it, only what he communicated to some few Confidents; made shew of going a hunting, where he had before-hand laid a frout and well accoultred souldier in ambush, invited the Conspirators with his Friends; then the Traytors thinking themselves strong enough, one of them made a passat the Prince with his Persian Sword or Spear, but the Prince being in his Coach and provided, leaps out on the other fide, mounts his Horse, and by the Souldiers coming forth and his friends, secured bimself, and fully discover'd and took took punishment of the Traytors, onely the Chancelour did Hide himself, and saved his skin *. When * id. and Prague was surrendred ( as is said in the precedent Hosp. fo. 203. Paragraph. ) The Jesuits mingled themselves with the Souldiers, entred and routed out the Evangelical party there, as also in the Towns, and Villages, in the night drew men out of their beds, and with Clubs and Pistols set to their mouthes, &c. cruel means would force them to receive the Hoft; yea even persons of Quality were disturbed in their fleep by these Ignatians, who would come one after another, and never let them rest, to extort an Affent and Confent to their Party; and that Learning might not prosper (unless employ'd to advance the Roman Capitol ) they spoiled the Caroline Academie near Prague, as they had done one at Vienna fometime before. And wherefoever they had got Husband or Wife to favour their sett, there they made a divorce betwixt them *. In Moravia, 1622. they first began to banish the Anabaptists, then the Calvinists, then ois. (because they thought they could not be well separated) they thrust out the Lutherans, used all ways to bring all to Apostacie, by plunderings, and exactions; and when they had prevailed with many to turn Papists, with promises their burdens should be alleviated *; upon the complaint of fuch demand- * Eccl. Bob. ing performance of the promises, the Jesnits would persecut.c.47. answer, they must deal with Hereticks as with children, or madmen, give them fair promises, till they had got a Knife or Sword out of their hands, without any regard of performance (however by the way, I know no genuine Christian prudence allows dealing so with children, who are too often train'd

* Chap. 50.

* Chap. 53.

5. II.

9. 2. * Chap. 105. 5. 2. (Pragæ Jefuitæ fuum lufraturi Templum, quod Fratrum ufui fub Frederico concessum erat) puiveremp yrium to:o pavimer. tis sparserunt, harefeos contagion em

fumo & flamma extermi-

naturi.

up to lye, by such a practise) telling them they might content themselves they had brought their fouls into a safe Religion: but who that useth his reason, shall credit that Religion to be safe, which allows men to be false to their words. The people of these Countreys upon this, complain'd of their horrible adulterating of Coins; their infamous Li-*Ch. 48, 49. bels, and insolent Pictures: * but their Committee of universal Reformation (as they would name the thing called the Inquisition in Spain) wherein the Jefuits domineer'd, exercised most horrible cruelties, especially upon the Ministers, yea and on those that conniv'd at their escape : as to instance in one poor man, who lay on the ground with his face up; they fill'd his mouth with Gunpowder, put FIRE to it, so dilacerated his jaws, and pleas'd their devilish minds with this horrible spectacle*. And to another poor man that faid, I can suffer the loss of all things for my dear Lord Jesus, they repeated his words, Lord Jesus, Lord Jesus, with reproach and disesteem, saying, Nos dominum habemus Casarem, i.e. We have the Emperour for our Lord*: which is agreeable to their phrase, who say, our Lord God the rope. As in these sayings they were blasphemous, so in some of their deeds they were ridiculous, and malicious , as when at Prague, and other places they like madmen beat the Pulpit's, and Communion Tables, where had been administration, sub utrâque, with Rods and Whips: And for a significant Ceremony indeed, that the world might understand their skill in accenderante; FIRE-WORKS, these messes the Jesuits, being about to purge their Temple at Prague with Sacrifice ( because the use of it under King Frederick

was

was granted to the Bohemian brethren ) they fcatter'd Gunpowder over all the Pavement, and gave fire to it, that they might drive away the Contagion of Herefie ( fo they still call the true Religion ) with SMOAK and FLAME.

d. 5. A Noble-man of Poland did fifty years agoe bewail the fad estate of those parts, by cherishing of the Jesuits: who, as the Plague, had greatly infected the whole body, before it was well discerned; whereupon he concluded, so many Jesuits, so many Magues; which had miferably tormented many Noble Families in Poland, and its annexed Provinces, Lithuania, Livonia, Mazovia, &c. by FIRE and Sword *. * Luc. Hift. Two fignal Instances amongst the rest of the P 324. Loyolans notorious Practises in Fire-works, are those at Posnania and Cracow, threescore years ago, when they were not arriv'd to that height of skill in mischief, as now: We find at Posnania May 13. 1606. that three hundred of the Ignatian Novices and Scholars, by the instructions of some superiours of the society, did draw others into a Conspiracy with them in the evening, when by force they made their way into the Temple: when they easily put to flight the Keepers and the Watch, and after they had violently broken down the great Gates, and hur'ld all the feats * 1d.l.3.c.3. upon one heap, set them on FIRE, whereby $ 330. that whole stately Edifice, was in a short time $19.520. turn'd into Ashes, by reason the FIRE raged His. f. 184. fo, the Citizens could not by any means extinguish it *. In the mean while, some of them run into the Hospital, threw out the fick and lame by force, broke the Tables, Seats, Windows, partly stole away the fick folks beds, and other necessaries, and partly cast them about the streets, in such an outragious manner, as nothing can parallel it (but the conflagration of London :) Insomuch that the Protestants were forc'd to hear ermons in the Fields, where they went armed with Swords, and Spears, and Musquets to defend themselves from violence. The Fathers of this Fiery Society think it a sufficient Apology, that by messengers they certified the King, these members of their society were enkindled with Zeal for the Roman Religion, which put them upon this attempt, signifying (which was the same with their threatning) that to avoid great troubles, 'twas best to inhibit the rebuilding of the Temple, or Church, for they fear'd, if it was rebuilt, flammas evitare vix posse, 'twas scarce *Apparebant possible it should escape the like FLAMES. effuse aliquot Again, at Cracow, the City where the Kings Seat is, diebus flame, the glory of the Kingdom, they were so vexed tas urbis par- with the Jefuits, that many, though Papifts, faid they had rather live amongst wild Beasts in the Woods, then amongst them *. For in a Conspibantur inter- racy, whereof the Tefuits were the Authors and Leaders, they did by force of Arms break into giofa isto ha. that House which remained the onely Monument of Antiquity in the whole City granted to the Evangelical Ministers, or Lutherans by the King and his Counsel. FLAMES did apparently break out for some dayes, which were scattered up and down through many parts of the City. Creat:

quæ per mul. tes susæ, seu fgarfæ toti urbi minagitum. *Non Relibauinduti,

fed attritis Rusticorum vestibus cooperti, ne agnosci posfept.

Great noise and clamours there were of mens carrying out Spoils, amongst whom were the Fathers of the Society of Jesus, not cloathed with their Religious Habits, but with the OLD WORN cloathes of COUNTRY RUS-TICKS left they should be known, (As he in the Frock, who fired the Papers in the study, at the dreadful conflagration of London.) The Ignatians can lay aside their Majestick Garb to do mischief. The whole City ( said that Polish person of Honour) was in great danger to be destroy'd, which was ever most safe before the coming of the Jesuits; who also raised great tumults at Lublin, Faroslane, &c. where their Colledges are Forts both to keep off, and entertain Souldiers, into which they may have fuccour from abroad, and as the old Crucigers make dreadful Wars pernicious to many places*. By fuch practifes as *Luc.Hift.l3. these, the Jesuits occasioned the loss of much to c.3 p.333 0 the sweder under the mild King Sigismond. 1.4. c. 5 p. 519. Hereupon in the Counsel to the Nobles of Poland is shew'd, that cherishing of the Jesuits * was *11.528. (1) contrary to the Government of the Kingdom*, because of their fixed General at Rome, who is usually a Spaniard, and fends Spies into the Courts of other Princes, to promote the Universal Monarchy of the House of Austria: the Jesuits hawk not for Sparrows. (2) They account that Prince a Tyrant, who falls out with the Pope, and incurs his displeasure; and him an Heretick, who any way detects the Jesuits Arts and Stratagems, or does not obey them in all things* (Cave fis penna) 'Tis *id. 534. their Genius to despise Laws ( faith the Counseller there)

* id 535.

* id. p. 525.

* id. p. 547. Exoticarum Artium fpiritum ferunt & perferunt. * id. p. 553.

there ) and in Hungarie, Austria, Styrria; Carinthia, &c. where Noblemen have been banish'd their feats for not bowing to the Jesuits*, who fnarl at the Motion of Peace for Religion, as a Dogg at a Stone: other Papifts (faith he ) have fuffer'd more in England, and elsewhere for their sakes. And then remembers (3) Their Activity and treacherous dexterity in raising troubles, witness (faith he there) lost Swethland, afflicted France, tempted Scotland, conspiracies in England, the tragical end of many Nobles in Germany, the troubles in Venice, tumults in Mofcovie, distress'd Hungary, oppress'd Styria, Carinthia, Carniola, &c. To this purpose 'tis argued in that noted Counsel given to the Nobles 1606. for the restoring of peace, and ejecting the Jesuits, who got strength from the Council of Trent; that the putting in execution the Decrees of that Council, was the Fountain of all the Troubles in Europe *; and the favouring of the Jesuits, the corruption of the Polonian Clergy. Upon fuch an account as this, 'tis we find another affirming that they at Cracow and Posnania, were not more dangerous Jesuits in the Commonwealth than those little FOXES, going to and fro as Itinerants through the Craggy Mountains, & tops of the Alps, who bring forth, and continually carry about the spirit of new-found ARTS *. After this the Fesuits move new controversies in the University of Cracow, 1622. when their Ignatius & Xaverius were enroll'd among their saints, which converse most with infernall spirits *. The Jesuits Provincial Proctor Val. Ruscom reprotests in June against the the Universities Protestrtion, unto which Reprotestation they Answer at large; replying to their feveral Paragraphs in many particulars, shewing that the Jesuits Reprotestation was a false Libel uttered with Crocodoline tears; to no other purpose, than as if they design'd to quench a fire by casting on Oil *, and that they would not * Id.a.p. 556. be imposed upon by such Delusions to Celebrate ad.p.591. their New Saints dayes: which with other troubles occasion'd a complaint pressed with four Arguments 1626. unto the Parliament at Warfam against the Jesuits pernicious Counsels and Pradifes, which ran outalfo as far as Moscovie, where these Ignatians upon Basils death created one Demetrius a Patron of theirs, the Great Duke, as if he had been Basils ligitimate Son; whom they got the King of Powland to affift. The Moscovites aware of the Cheat, grant him a part of the Dukedom, which when he came to possesse; they faluted him as (he was) an Impostor, and fell upon him; yet he wanting no cunning got again out of Prison, and for a time domineer'd, but when he was Jovial at his Nuptials, the Moscovites acost him in a furly manner, and put him with his Polish attendants and many Jesuits to the Sword in his Palace*. But these tidings of Demetrius being thus slain, and the troubles occasioning his death, *Id.552.Hosp. raised in Moscovie, the Jesuitical faction (in Po-f.202.b. land) did for some time solicitously labour to suppress and palliate; lest the full discovery of the Truth should render their Arts more suspected by the Polanders: who otherwise, by reason of the Power and insolence of this same 7e/witical faction in the Court; did some while grievously tumul-

s. 6. We may imagine from what is related, that the Jesuiti are not less active in playing pranks eliewhere: and we may hear they are turbulent even there where Religio Medici is predominant; for the University of Fadua, by their delegate Cesar Cremon, do complain to the States of Venice, of the Innovations and disturbances of the Jejuits under pretext of the Popes Bulls * 1591. Infomuch that the students of Padua cry'd out, for as Jesuista, away with the Jesuists, which occasion'd the Senate of Venice to decree 23. Decemb. that same year, that the Jesuits should read no Lectures unless among themselves, and in nothing contradictory to the priviledges of the University: * within a few years after, viz. 1605. great Controversies by the Jesuits kindling are raised betwixt the Pope and the Venetians; whom, because they would not recede from their right upon the Jesnits accusation, Paul Vth. excommunicates. But May 6. 1606. The Duke Leonard Donat accounts the excommunication only brutum fulmen, a beating of the Air without Authority and Law; he and the Senate (which confifts of 180. Senators) affert their own Supremacy within their own Jurisdiction, decreeing the excommunication Null*. The Jesuits. would in no wise (as other Ecclesiasticks did) conform to this determination of the state, but opposed it, and therefore are commanded to depart, May 9th. Whereupon they infinuate with filly momen and get their moneys, and so pass away privately by water about two of the clock in the night. And to evidence how much the people of Venice detested their enormous pradises, when their Superior (who last of all entred the Barque) demanded Benediction of the Patriarchs Vicar, the multitude cryed out, in their Italian language, Ande in mall bora, Get ye gone with a Vengeance, or in the Devils name. But left instruments of founding Mettals, and Coyning behind them: which F. Possevive wrote from Ferrara, were to make their Caps or Baretas, and so caused laughter at his Apology. Upon their removall they calumniated the Venetians, calling the Common-wealth Lutheran and Tyrannical; and causing all to succeed ill with the Venetian Ambassador in the Courts of Spain and Poland, &c. yet this did not affright the Senate. who again decreed June 14. 1606. That whereas the lesuits for the kindness and favors shew'd to them (alas! 'tis their property) rendred themfelves most ungrateful and injurious to the Common-wealth, and continued intolerably troublefome and infolent, feeking all occasions to offend the Republick; they should never more be received into any of the Venetian Territories, nor should this Decree ever be revoked, unless upon first having read the whole Process against them in full Senate, the States should give suffrage for their Revocation. And so unanimous were the Senators in this Decree, that it pass'd nemine contradicente: upon the scruting a part in so great a number there was not found any one dissenting. In which also they were well fixed, for August 18th, They publish another Decree, that none under * b. 641.

* f. 178. Luc. Hift.p. 631. 634.

* Id. 637.

*p. 638.

under their Jurisdiction should presume to entertain any Jesuits, or send their Children to them, sub pana irremissibili, under an unpardonable penalty of Proscription *. Afterwards when the Pope came to terms with the Venetians, the Jefuits labour'd might and main to have their Readmission included in the Articles of Peace betwixt that State and the Pope. But the Venetians then stood upon justification of their own At, and would not yield: Whereupon in April 1607. the Jesuits Print their complaints (causless enough) and fend them in several Languages to the Emperours Court to Prague, Poland and elsewhere, alledging that the Venetians were not only greatly tainted with Herefie, but they had so affronted the court of Rome, that the wound grew daily more incurable, and would break forth into an open war. That the Pope did much injure himself in permitting those who had always been the Prime in obeying of him, for this very cause to be exposed to contempt all the world over amongst Papifis and Protestants, and punish'd with a perpetual banishment and a privation of their goods, and that this would much prejudice the Popes Authority, fith he could thenceforth publish no Interdict fo as it would be valid: for when 'twas feen that those who for their obedience should be rewarded, were greatly punish'd, no Ecclesiastical person would obey him, and that the Jesuits who all Rebellions (as they call the Venetians standing upon their just Right) had been faithful, would be discouraged: and therefore upon the whole matter conclude, what a scandal it would be to the Court of Rome if they were not re-admitted |. But | Id. 642. when they found this device successes, then meditating Revenge, they fell to work in their proper Trade, and hired four Rascals, whereof one was a Priest (of their Order you may imagine, vertually at least) who were the Affaffines that fee upon that gallant man Padre Paul : whom, while it was dusk, they left for Dead, wounded; running away for their own fecurity; but he being, upon the noise, lookt after, and carried home; by the help of good Chyrurgions, was preferred Alive !: they who would fee more of this affair in those $ Id, 643. dayes, may confult the famous Writings of this Padre Paul, and others against the two Eminent Cardinal Jesuits, Barro. nius and Bellarmine: whose books and the Popes Interdicts could never prevail to relax that Law made against the Fesuits for Fifty Years together, till 1657. that the Venetians heing in straits, greatly afflicted by the Turks, yeilded to the Perswasions of the Pepe, that they would abolish the Decree of banishment, and again admit the Jesuits, and they should receive from the Pope, Souldiers, Monies, Navy, and all things necessary against the Turks *. So the Venetians are con- * Hen. Kipp. ftrain'd to fuffer those to come in amongst them, whom they Append. ad once proscribed as Vultures, rather than be devoured at once Jo pappum. by those who are as Roaring Lyons.

Hosp.f. 181. b.

5. 7. What the King of Spain cannot do by his Army, that the Popes fanifaries attempt to do for him by Assassination. In Pelgio about the beginning of May 1584. the Furies help the Duke of Parma to one Balthafar Gerrard, called Serac, who came to Delph in Holland, when William Prince of Orange was in Action against the Spaniards; bringing a Seal (which the Teluits had an art to get for him) from Count Mansfield, which gain'd him credit with the Prince, who being defirous to be informed in some circumstances about the Dake of Anjou's death, admits into his Chamber this same Gerrard; who, because he was shortly to be gone, beggs money of the Prince to mend his Cloaths as he pretended; but having got it, he bought a pair of Piftols of the Souldiers: Then on July the 10. the Prince going to Dinner, this Privy Murtherer asks him a Pass, which was granted: but the Prince going out from Dinner, was met by this Rogue, who while he pretends to Bow to him, Shoots the Prince with three Bullety,

Luc. Hift. 1.4. p.672.

H Id. ib. Thuan. Hift. fpec. Jef. Grimft. Hift. Neth.

Mr. W.Pr. of Fund. Libert. C. 4.

Luc. Hift.

so that he shortly after Died of the Wounds. This Murderer being Apprehended, confessed he had heard the King of Spain. had profcribed the Prince 3 years before, & from thence he defigned to Kill him ; but that he was told, a Merchants man of Antwerp had flain the Prince Mar. 18.1382. but it pleafed God the Prince recovered of that Wound he received by that Rogue. wholeQuarters were (occasion being given by the Vicissitude of War) folemnly removed from the Walls of the Caftle of Antwerp by the Tefuites, who kept them as Sacred Relicks !.. Gerrard acknowledged he had confessed this defign to the Father Rector of the Colledge at Triers, who acquainted the Prince of Parma with it, and faid it was from God, and gave him his Bleffing (by the Devils warrant you may think) before he lest Triers; where the Tesuits promised him, that if he should loofe his Life in the Adion, he should be Canonized for a Martyr, and have a CROWN in Heaven; another of the Ignatian Fraternity at Tourn undertook to pray for him ||, who was executed July 14. 1584. But the Jesuits doubt not of procuring such another to dispatch Prince Maurice of Naffam, Williams Son and Successour, having gotten a Reason of State from the Jesuited Italian Campanella, who had told the King of Spain; Maxime opus est ut Serpens seditionis comes scil. Mauritim interimatur |. Tis chiefly necessary, that the Ser-Pref. to Vind. pent of Sedition, viz. Prince Maurice be Slain, and not have an advantage of growing greater and greater in the continuation of the War. Hence we read, that Peter Pannes at Leiden was apprehended on suspicion, May 27.1594, when he confessed, that Melchir Walle Jesnit, had perswaded bimto Kill Count Maurice, and took him to Doway, where he was instructed by other fesuits, that it was an Ad merricorious of Heaven: and that if he should Die for it, he should be immediately translated (over Purgatory) to Paradice : if he efcaped, he should receive 2001. Flanders of the Jesuits. and have a publick Office in the City of Ipre, and his Son a Prebendary and Canon-hip in the City of Tournay |. Thus they carry it, as if Preferment in Heaven and Earth, were at their Disposal for the Rewarding of those Sicarii whom they can tempt to Murder all Princes that fland in the way to impedethe working of the mystery of Iniquity. But this Emissary Villain of theirs, was within a month after viz. June 22th. condemn'd

demn'd, and Quartered at Leiden. We read also of one Peter Furius, or D'Four, who by the like Instigation was also to Affaffinate this Prince; but he was discovered, and loft his Head for it *. But the death of the Earls of Horn and Egmont was from the Jesuits. The States General taking into Chron. Belg. serious Debate, the practices of the Jesuits, and their per- 82. p. 93. fifting therein, to the continued raising of Tumults, did Hofpin. 205. March 27. 1612. publish their Mandate after the example of England, France, and Venice for the Banishing the Jesuits out of all the Provinces of the United Netherlands, impoling great Mulas upon those who should entertain them, or fend their Children to their Seminaries | in Flanders, or the adjoyning | Id. f. 206. Countries, where they account the places of Truft & dignity, are disposed according to their pleasure; the affairs of Government mannag'd according to their advice, have an Oar in every mans bufiness, and serve themselves into the fairest Palaces. Hence 'cis said they Usurped a Colledge at Bruxels, and kept it from the true Heirs, as they did another at Antwerp, which indeed belongeth to the Company of Merchants in Aquisgranum, Aix, or Achen *. Where we find 1611. a Bill *Litate of of Complaint exhibited by the Citizens unto the Senate, in Eng. Fugiregard of the gravamina they lay under, upon the admission of the lesuits into their City; which they alledged was against a former decree of their Senate *. And they had reason to * Hosp. 6,207.6 complain, for the Jesuits have many strange arts to gain riches and power. Witness their putting the Arch-Duke Leopold for several dayes into one of their Habits, and so with the Senior Father of the Colledge at Colen, and feven or eight of their fociety conducting him to Gulick, where they prevailed with the Prafect, or governour, to admit them and their company, to view the chief Conclave of the Tower; where then the chief Jesuit asks the Governour if the Emperour should command him to Deliver that Castle into the hands of another, Whither he would Obey? To which he Answer'd, He was placed there by the States of the Provinces, but the Command might be fo, that he Ought to obey it, yet he would Deliberate. Why faid the Jesuit, What if one now were here present, who had the Emperours express Warrant? And thereupon Leopold presently exhibited Casars Mandate, requiring an Oath of Allegiance from him, and the rest of the Souldiers, forthwith turning those out of the Gar-Ild. 205. a. b. refon who refused it | A more wicked Att (I might have thew'd ) they used in France, when at Rochel the Fesuits counterfeited the City common-Seal, wherewith they figned Letters, which being accidentally intercepted, brought the Rochellers into a fad deplorable War *. The Imperial City of Donawerd groaning under the Tyranny of the Duke of Bavaria, apprehended their sufferings to be from the Influence of the Telnits, who animated the King of Spain against Wellel, and other places; and were the chief Incendiaries of the German Wars, which took not off less than 300000. men. Upon every little occasion and advantage, they breath out cruelty and flaughter ||. We are told, that one Giles Rat a Shooemaker of Antwerp, going about his trade into Spain, and an English-man with him, were there snap'd, for a pretended smile (derifion they call'd it ) at the Image of the Virgin Mary, condemn'd to the FIRE, and burned, while two Jesuits (merciful Fathers!) forbad the people, under pain of Excommunication, to pray for them; faying, They had delivered them both in body and foul to the Devil. cruelty was exercised at Valadolid ( where the Jesuits are predominant) when upon a small difference in point of Do-Elrine, they apprehended Dr. Augustine Cacalla, for a Luther ran, and 30. of his followers; many of which were Gentlemen and Ladies, and among the rest two Sons of the Marquess of Poza; the greatest part of which they BURNT Alive; the rest, who submitted, they condemu'd to perpetual Imprisonment, and conficated their Estates, causing them ever while they liv'd, to wear the San benito *, which is, A yellow garment, with a red-cross before, and another behind. painted all over full of Devills faces: A thing of the greatest reproach and dishonour there that may be.

Proph. Hild. fulf. p. 10.

Estate of Engl. Fugit. K. 3. print 1595,

*Id. ibid.

> 5. 8. Agreat noise ('cis confes'd) hath been made in the world, with many Epistles, concerning the Jesuits promulging the Gospel in the Indies, Congo, China, Japon, (which last they are now expelled) but as the worthy Theological Virtuofo of this age hath well observed in his learned new Book | how specious soever they may seem, they are nothing comparable to the honest Attempts of Mr. Elliots in New-England, which are more agreeable to the Apostles way,

M. Baxters Reaf. of Christ. Relig part.11. P. 488.

and

and make more ferious spiritual Christians; by reason of the Fefuits Injuffice, Covetouinels, and Idolatry, noted above in this imall Trad *. 'Tis faid indeed, they baptized many thou- Vide.c 2.fed. Sands, then forc'd them into the River, knock'd them in the 3. $.7.8 c.3. head, and drown'd them, as the readiest way, ( they have fect 3: 5: 3: told fome ) to fend them to Heaven ||: But fome of the poor || The Jefuits Pagans faid, If the Spanish Fesuits were there, they defired destroyed by not their company. There impudent Jesuits will be ready fire and swird however to alledge, this practice is in love, as that of Burning men in the those they call Hereticks in love : You may imagine ( as one Indies. L Hift, ingenuously fairh +) in love to themselves, that they may 1 2.c.6. p.256. not be troubled with them ; in love to the Church , that it + Triump. of may not be embroy l'd by them; love to the World, that it Rome, pr. 1655 may not be infected by them; love to their Souls, their fuf- 419, 126. ferings in the other World may be the less, by how much the time of their finning is shorter. Alas! Acosta the Jesuit himfelf, who was an eye and ear witness, abates much of the glory which his brethren bragg of: indeed fo much, that any impartial Chritian Reader may collect, their conversion of Pagans to be vain and frivolous |, just as if one should goe to | Hosp. f. 138. milk a Buck-Goat, and another hold under a Sieve: Their 139, 191. leigned miracles only serve to make up lying Legends: and their Conversion is no other than an Eversion of all Religion among Heathers, and a Perversion of all amongst others. Look amongst the Greeks, and you will soon see their impostures. villanies, and treacherous supplantations. In a Region near the Lesser Afia, some Fesuits had seated themselves, whereby they might more eafily eat up the Provender from some other Monks: and there about 1614 f. they had by their + vide ad fin. cunning gotten a Relique, which they vogued to be the myft. parr. Head of Cateba, a Christian Matron, who when the King of Jesuit. Greg. Persia made an Invasion upon her Sons Country, was by him pist. gr. Lat. taken at Cremen, and because she would not deny Christ, put dar. May 16. to death: Admirable (they gave out) this Head was, for 1626. Trapez. fome miracles : which being related to her credulous Son, Prince Teimurez, Lord of the Territory, they enjoyed hisliberal favour, and munificent priviledge of eredting a Colledge, a School, and Temple, facred to the memory of Cateba : by which success the leluits being elated, and daily increasing their Treasure, Reputation, and Friends, which did accrue from the great conflux of Vifitants, who sometime came to pay their Devotions to the Head. They fell to the trade of gaping after th'other Monks Effates, and cheating them: who ill refented the envy, covetouine's, and ambition of the Jesuits; and when vexation put them upon exercifing their fenses, they soon smelt out, 'twas not the Head of Cateba, but of some facinorous Traytor, which had been set upon a pole, stollen away, and religiously laid up by the crafty Jefuits, and obtruded on that miserable Nation, which had sometime smarted under the Persian sword : hereupon a diligent enquiry was made after the true body of Cateba: which was really found in the Tents of their Enemies, referved by her maid Moscla, who prov'd it by undeniable circumstances when brought into Iberia; which so enraged the Prince, that he clapt up the Jesuits close Prifoners ; but afterwards, because they had by their cunning got some Friends to intercede for them, he contented himself to banish them; whom reproaches were powred abundantly by Moacla, and all the Inhabitants of Iberia: the infamy which justly fell upon thefe Fathers for this imposture, being a greater punishment than death it self. Yet even in those Eastern parts of the World, these impudent Incendiaries give more troubles *, as Cyril the Patriarch of Constantinople found in the years 1627. ente de Jesuis 1628. when by calumnies they afflicted the poor Bishop, turn'd him out of his place, put the distressed Church to vast charges, and had utterly ruin'd him and them, if the English Embassador or Resident, had not once and again interposed with the Turkish Baffams; kept him from smiting, detected the Villany of the Jesuits, and brought them (by clearing of the truth) into dilgrace in those parts.

* Narrat. Epift. Turbarum in Oritis ad Fin. Myft. Patr. ]cf.

Sect. IV.

6. 1. He eruth is, no fincere Christian in his place could do less than contribute his assistance to the relief of a diffressed Church; none such especially who tenders the welfare of these three Nations could do less than discountenance the fesuits who have exercised their chief skil in FIRE-works, both meral and mechanical in these Deminions to enkindle perpetual Flames. The very Roman Clergy of other Orders were so sensible hereof, that they addressed themselves unto Pope Clement VIII th. in a complaint of many particulars concerning the intollerable Impostures and fraudulent actions of the Teluits, especially in seditions libelling of, and conspiring against the Temporal State, concluding no good could be expe-Red, unless the Jesuits were removed; they did so afflict, even those of the Popish Religion, who were not flaves to the Court of Rome * What Smoke did they raise ab Aquilone, when they * Querela exinfluenc'd the Guifes to move the bold and stirring Genius of tar. in Hospin. the Scottish Nation against England? One while the Jesuits a fol. 173. ada cry up the Title of the Queen of Scots, another while they f. 178. decry it; one fesuit writes pro, and another con; and this no question de industria by consent, as one that would enkindle a Fire makes use of two Flints, and strikes them against each other to elicite Sparks into the tinder-temper of discontented Subjects. The late Apologist, whiles he celebrated the Queen of the Scots, could not forbear to cast reproach upon Queen Elizabeth in her Grave, for which he is roundly took up, with a cleer and full Answer as he deserved; and whatfoever now is said for the honor of the Queen of Scots, the Ecclefiaffical Querelants to the Pope (but now mention'd) charge her death upon a Jesuit ( who also wrote against her Son | ) noting that of all Men living the Jesuits treated her | id. fo. the most unworthily; the Papist who wrote the fesuits Catechism * hath this Title before one Chapter ; That the Jesuits were * Jes. Cat. the cause of the death of the Queen of Scots. Shewing therein lib. 3 c. 15. that Hen. Sammier a Jesuit, disguised in the habit of a Souldier, was the contriver of that mischief; setting out the wicked fellows Treachery at large. Yea and after her death, they procured the Earl of Huntley, and others to make a powerful Rebellion in Scotland *, against her Son King James. Against * Answ. to whom also Will. Creighton a Scotch Jesuit, flirred up Robert Po. Apol. Bruce a young Noble Man, who had been educated in the 7e- p.26. ê Camb. fuits schools, to kill Metelan Chancellor of Scotland, for dis-Swading the King from hearkning to the Popes Proposal of a March: but Bruce trembled at the motion : and when the Fesuit said, he would absolve him: he replyed, he knew not whether God would give him grace to confess *: Then he of - The Luc. History fered him from the Duke of Parma 1500 Crowns to engage p. 519. & three Noble Men to do it; but he denying, The Jesuit found Hosp. 178.

* Mat. Paris ad an. 1094.

in hift. mio.

regno meo pa-

rem dum vivam suffinere

non poffum.

pag. 1123.

1092.

an opportunity afterwards of getting Bruce clapt up, and kept 14 Months in Prison, whiles he himself was at liberty, taking his pleasure.

6 27 Ever fince King Henry 8th, did folemnly cast off the Popes Supremacy, England and I eland have been the Butts against which the Court of Rome have been emptying their Ouiver of Fiery Darts: though he did no more for Substance than what had been of old; for Will. Rufus * that he might flop the incroachment of all Forreign Jurisaction, was wont viva vece to charge the Arch-Bishops, and Bishops. &c. That Ego (inquit) in to the Court of Rome, or the Pope himself, they should not have any respect, &c. I cannot (faith he ) ever while I breath endure an equal in my Kingdome. To eradicate this principle, the Roman Conclave molefted the Raign of that excellent Prince Edw. 6th whose Laws were said to be written in milk, and not in blood; + for the bloody Laws came in, when Queen Mary left the fu-+ Speed. pag. bremacy to the Pope, and the affairs of Religion under him to Cardinal Pool, a very great favourer of the Fesuits, who no doubt were at Rome active to kindle those Flames which took hold of fo many Protestants here BURNT in the days of O. Mary, at whose heart it was said the loss of Calais lay, (whether any one is so concerned for Dunkirk 1. know not ) fure the domineering Papists took a course to lay at her heart rather Fire, scalding Lead, and red-hot Irons, whereby (they urged her against her natural temper) to put to death the poor Martyrs: For favouring of whose cause, the Incendiaries lead forth the Popes Bulls against Queeen Elizabeth, of whose title to the succession none could justly doubt, as hath been afresh declared by a worthy pen, from the words of the Arch-Bishop of York then a Papit, and Raynolds (under the name of Ro. * Answ. to the leus a lesuit himself *. 'I would be tedious upon the Evelution of the Annals, during her long and happy Reign, to give

Papitts Apology p. 23.

*See Plots and Conspir. collefted. Fran. Speed. Camb. Stow. Hollinght &c.

9. 3. Whence was the first Rebellion of Fitz-morris against the Queens government in Ireland? but from the same Incendiaries, who animated him to the fecond attempt !. Namely, the Spanish Mendoza, the English Sanders and Allen, stiffe Assertors of the Jesnits Principles. Stanleys Conspi-full Narratives of the feveral attempts were made by the Ignatians upon her-person and government; and therefore 'cwill be convenient at prefent only to fuggest the heads of some.

racy,

racy 1570. and that diffembling Treaty by Don John of Austria, 1576. was from the same Forge. After Fiz-Morris stirs; San Fosephus was sent into Ireland 1580. with 700. Spaniards and Italians upon the turbulent motions * of F. * L. Luc Hift, Campian, and Parsons, alias Cowback; and Jaspar Heywood p. 498. 497. who of all the Jefuits ( faith Sr. Hen. Baker) came first into from Thuan. England, unto whom, upon his arrival, his Father, old Heywood, said in a simple admiration, Jesu! Fasper who made thee a Fesuit. The year after, 1581. Campian was taken and executed for his Treason. Yet in a short time after, 1582. & 1583, one Summeruita Gentleman, having read dangerous Books of divers Fesuits, and conversed with Hall, attempted with a drawn Sword to have kill'd the Queen; which was design'd also by William Parry Doctor of Law ( about 1584) who having read D. Alans book concerning excommunicated Princes, acknowledged he was instigated to this Parricide by Benet Palm *, and Hanibal Codreto Jesuits at * Id. 498. Venice, as afterwards by one Morgan in France. About thefe times there was on Shipboard a very admirable discovery of the contents in the Scotish Teluit Creighton's torn papers gathered together by Sr. Will. Wade, which brought to light . * Plots and! That then, to advance the Pope and Spaniard, they had re- conspir. pr. solv'd, (1) To deprive Q. Elizabeth. (2) To disinherit 1642. p. 19. K. James of England. (3) To have the Q of Scots marry some Popish Noble man of England: whom (4) The Papists, or Pseudo-Catholicks should choose. Which choice (5) the Pope would confirm: These were Ignatian projects, but God disappointed them as he did the wicked attempts of the Savages, with Priests (who had suck'd in Fequipical Doctrines) to kill the Queen Elizabeth, whom they thought also to have dispatch't by moving the French Embassadour ( of the Guisan Faction) to have hired one Moody, who proposed poison, or a Bagg of Gunpender, but this was detected, and the Am-. bassador sent home to learn better manners. Then when all these fail'd, the unwearied malicious Incendiaries set on moving their great Machine, the Spanish Armado 1588. Of which (we may see from Garnets acts) the Jesnits were forerunners at least two years, when the Gad-prickers stir'd up * Si eeds Hift. p. 1178. Luc. Hift p. 498. 499.

*Hop.Cambd. Speeds.Stow.

the Popes Bulls in defence of this vast, and as they counted it invincible Navy *, which contain'd 2843. great O dnance, 28840. Marriners, Souldiers, and Slaves rowing in Galleys; innumerable FIR E-balls and Granadoes; funk, taken, and dispers'd through the singular goodness of God by the English Fleet, with the loss of no more than an hundred men, and one ship; when this publick assault came to naught, the Jefaits fall again to their old small games, for about * 1592. they had hired Patrick Collen an Irif Fryar to kill the Queen, unto which murther, Holt the Tefuit did perfwade with this motive, that 'twas not difallom'd by the Laws (whiles Pin V. Bull was out ) but that be should merit Gods favour and Heaven by it. Much about this time the Queen did emit a Declaration against these Sicarii and Incendiaries, back'd with excellent Reasons from their Clandestine frares and devices which yet was not fo prevalent with Dr. Lopez the Portugez, her Physitian, to make him Loyal, as 50000 Crowns in Rubies and Diamonds was to allure him to attempt the poisoning of her, 1593. Neither was it the year after, viz. 1594. fo powerful with Williams and York (who conspired against the Queen ) asF. Parsons, Doleman, and the instigation of the Jesuit Holt; who also brought other Incendiaries into a combination to FIRE the Navy with wild-FIRE, for which they were stretch'd at Tyburn 1595. But this did not yet fcare Edward Squire, a Deputy Purveyor for the Queens stable, upon the motion of Walpole the Teluit, from estaying to poison the pummel of the Queens Sadle 1596. nor Tyrone from Rebellion against the Queen in Ireland; within a fhort time after to encourage whom, the Tefuits had boasted by vertue of their League *, they would clean extirpate Protestantism by the year 1600. but God check'd their confidence, and frustrated their hopes. Yet the Provincial Garnet and Creswel leguer Jesuit in Spain, with R bert Tesmond another of the fociety, were conspiring with the King of Spain, to fend an Army to joyn with 5000 Foot, and 2000. Horse they had Dormant in England of Papists, to receive them, 1601.82 1602. But the great God blafted this as the reft of the Jesuits berrid practifes against the Queen, not with standing

Moun P.
Metthew:
Meteran.

ing the determinations of their Colledge at Salamanca, fent to embolden Tyroen in Ireland; and the erection of their Wen Society at Thonon in Savoy, 1602. whereto many Popish Kings, and Nobles gave their names; by pions frauds and force of Arms, to convert or extirpate the Protestants under the Notion of Hereticks; having by the Agencie of 50. dilguised Tesuits in England, listed ( as was said ) 25000. Popish souldiers about June that year, to joyn with this new Afficiation, to *Mr. Pr. pref. carry on the forementioned design*. Winter to encourage vind. from methe Papifts, brought word of a million of crowns prepared by terran. 1.23. the Jesuits in Spain for the service : and two Bulls + were pro- & Sicc, Jes. pounded from Clem. VIII. viz. one to the Lords Spiritual; p 100. another to the Lords Temporal, that whether by a Natural or Fpist. ad a violent death the Queen should be remov'd, they would on Font.p.186. · ly promote a Papist to the Crown *. The notices of these Ma- + L. Luc. Hist. chinations occasion another Declaration by the Queen against p.405. the Jesuits*, 15. Novemb. 1602. But about half a year after * P. 509. when she had reigned full 44. years and four moneths, April 4. 1603. God was pleased to remove her out of the reach of these Furies.

5. 4. And K. James in despight of the Popes Bulls, comes to the Crown; however there were those of the like Ingenie with the Jesuits, who almost as soon as he had set his foot upon English ground (as the learned Causabon observ'd in an Epistle to the lesuit Fronto-ducaus) machinatione clandestina tollere de vivis sunt agressi *, made an attempt by a secret plot to take * Epist. 170. him out of the land of the living, even before his Coronation. p. 188. Edit. And on that very day the King was Crown'd, when the ge- Hag. 1638. nerality were intent upon that Spectacle, five were suborn'd by the Fesuits to set London on FIR Ein several places, but were frustrated, as I find it upon record . The King of Spain by this time had no great maw to hasten that force Luc. Bill. which Garnet and Creswell had been negotiating for, what ex Marc, Gal. ever encouragement his Jesuitical Legate Baldwin in Flanders Belg. had given to it. Whereupon a plt is excogitated of greater advantage (than any before) and such a one as can never be discovered, said Catesby. V.z. the Horrible Conjuration to blow. up by GUNPOWDER the King, Queen, Prince, Lords and Commons at one clap, when they met together in the House after their Prorogation at the opening of the Parliament, Novem. 5. 1605. When Guy Faux Itood ready in the Cellar beneath to give FIRE to the Train laid, to discharge this Festical, i. e. monstrous Morter-piece, which would have overturn'd the Foundations of the Kingdom, had not the King of Kings youchfaf'd an admirable deliverance, which hath been annually celebrated with praises to the Supreme Majest, by Protestant England for above fixty years. last years Apologist had the impudence in Print, not onely to extenuate the Gunpowder-Treason, but to infinuate that, (against all moral evidence) which might weaken affent to the matter of Fact, as it hath been transmitted to us, not onely by Tradition uncontrol'd, but by an Act of that Parliament, who were then upon the place to examine all circumstances, which were fully laid open and proved to the conviction of any gainfayers; as may be feen at large in the Relation of the whole proceedings , and Lords Commissioners Speeches with the Earl of Northamptons enlarged, and what past at Garnets execution Printed by the Kings Printer 1606. There you may fee proved, not only the Previncial Garnet, but at least four Pesuits more, viz. Telmond, Gerrard, Hammond, Baldwin, had an hand in this plot. The ill-look'd fuggestion of the Apologist concerning which, is so fully answered and confuted by that worthy person, who refuted the whole Apologie *, that there needs not the addition of any thing more, fith the matter hath been acknowledg'd both by friends and enemies, both parties and standers by; the Apologies of Bellarmine, Eudamon, Tobannes and other Tefuits. As the learned Caufabon * (amongst many other things rendring it out of doubt) notes; Those that would have Garnet esteemed for a Martyr. never offer'd to deny him being guilty of the Gunpowder Treason. He at Lovain who in his Panygerick Oration. pray'd publickly unto Garner, Sante Henrice, intercede pro nobis, Father Henry intercede for us, certainly took his prime agencie in the Powder-plot as a meritorious Act, confonant to the Jesuits avowed principles, and all other foremention'd practifes: wherein he was a leading man, as well as in this of which Causaban wrote; he certainly knew lac was not onely guilty, verum etiam apprebatorem & genere grodam.

* pag.29, 30,

* Epist.190.
fupraCit.p 191.
See Bp.Rob.
Abbots An
tilogia.

quadam auftorem *, but the Approver, and indeed in some fort * Id. 219. the Anthour, who himself said ( before Dr. Overal and three Utinam quiother Doctors) Equidem si pro religione Catholica mortemobirem, potius acce-It I had died for the Catholick Religion, &c. but now faith be, I acknowledbe my fin, and the sentence pronounc'a against me, I quam ut noconfess to be most righteous. I certainly, if I had the whole world in men meum my power, I would willingly give it all to be free from this crime of proditionis treason which is impressed on my conscience, &c. So he. But I for- turparetur, get my felf, I'le onely subjoyn what Mr. Richard Carpenter &c. ( sometime one of the society, if not so still in disguise) hath Printed in his Sermon preached Novem. 5. 1662. page 11. viz. Father Thomson, the Fesuit our Ghoftly Father at Rome, when he often told us cholars there, that his thirt bad been many times wet in his digging under the Parliament house upon this horrible account, intimated that their intention was to bring up the Foundation, and all with a powder. 'Tis plainly confess'd, the Fact here was own'd, and that there was another Ignatian imploy'd in this grand Mechanical FIR E-work besides those above. Yet they have not done with K. James, for the year after 1606. the Fesuits and some Masse Priests have another Conjuration, W. Pierce a Provincial was examined about it . In 1608. the forementioned provincial Garnet was taken and P.513. hang'd, and 2. Tune 1610. upon further evidence of their practiles, the King publisheth a Declaration against Jesuits and Priefts; notwithstanding which many swarms of them were got over again into England at the latter end of King James his Reign, for the year after the falling of the Maffing-chamber in Black-Friers where F. Drury was, Jo. Gee a reclaimed Priest * (by that accident when he bardly escap'd:) "Mr. Pr. p. Royl Favour. in his Book call'd [ The foot out of the Snare ] Edit. 4. 1624. p.54. gives us an account of many hundred, most of which were Tesuits, and of their practifes in their Congregation, de propaganda Fide, which they held privately even here in London; and as a Legate boasted, they did their part to the poisoning of K. James *.

5. 5. Tis certain these bold Incendiaries were not frighted master-p. away with John Gee's discovery; we may find in the years p.34. 1627. 1628. Soon after King Charles I. came to the Throne, the Jesuits had gotten an house neer Clerkenwell-Church for their

* Rooms

" Mr. W. Prins Introd.p.88. 90.

443. 449. & in P.54.55. Rom, m. peec.

p. 31.

Comp. Hiff. p. 449, 450. Id.in preface to vind.of Fund, 1. pt. E. 3. a. b. E. 4. a. b.

for their Tolledge, wherein they kept together in Commons, and had their Officers and Books, their Vestments and Relieks, but ( if you'l credit Doctor Sibthorp ) they would not suffer the Kings Subjects that are Papifts to be so loving and loyal, as otherwise they would have been *. Yet in their Letter to Bruvels then, they made themselves the Introducers of the Excise: but so insolently they did behave themselves, that the House of Commons then petition'd the King for the putting of Laws in execution against them. But they were afterwards blowing up new sparks of contention; about 1631. from Ireland the Arch-bishop of Armagb in a Letter takes notice of some of their Books: and likewise about 1636. 1637. they were not onely injurious in their practifes towards other Papists (as some of them complain'd then ) but some grew very insolent upon several occasions, in their expressions against the Laws, and had their weekly Congregations then, and in the years following, to hurl us all into diforder and *Id.ib. Hidd. confusion *. For we find Mr. Waddesworth did depose both works.p.109, in writing, and viva vice at the Lords bar, that one Henry, 144,170, 171, alias Francis Smith, alias Lloyd, alias Rivers, alias Simons, Compl.Hift.p. ( who it feems was then a Provincial of the Jesuits, and had his younger days, as Stukely the Priest related, alibi. Roy fav. had a hand in the Gunpowder-Treason) before the beginning of the Scotch wars, did tell him in Norfolk ( where he met him ) that The Popish Religion was not to be brought in bere by disputing, or books of controversie, but with an Army, and with FIRE and sword*. And when according to this mena-*Mr. Pr. 1.pt. cing determination of F. Smith, the Jesuits had fomented a war betwixt England and Scotland + 1639. it feems upon their solicitations, the King of Spain had provided a new Spanish Armado, and land Army of old souldiers to invade the western and southern parts of England, when the Forces and Ammunition were drawn into the Northern parts against the Scors, which defign was broken and derected by the Hollanders unexpected encounter of their Fleet on the English coasts, and the pacification in Scotland: which appear'd by the confession of an English Pilot in that Navy on his deathbed, mortally wounded in the first fight, to an English Minifer and others, to whom he revealed it out of conscience;

as also by some Letters and other evidences, and by a pamphlet made and printed by the Jesuits, 1640. in which amongst other passages entered in the Parliament journal Novemb. 14. 1640, there was a particular prayer, for the Holy Marryrs which suffered in the Fleet fent against the Hereticks of England, 1639. With this note; the Papifts must fish in troubled waters. To which purpose the Popes Nuncio with the secret Celledge of Fesuits then in Queen-street, summon'd a convention of Feluits, having gotten fecretly into private pay an Army of 7000. Papifts; upon which the Fathers of the Society were so confident of success, that in their Jubilee 1640. (which they solemniz'd in all places, being the hundredthyear from the first Erection of their Order by Ignatius (as was noted above) 1540.) at Aguisgran or Aken in their publick Hall. they had an Enterlude which they invited people to, by Printed Tickets, fignifying the Triumph of the Popish Church of Rome, by Pageants brought upon the Stage, subduing all her enemies till that day by their means, but in their jollity when two Armies came in, one of the Tesuits and Papists; another of the Protestants ready to encounter, a Fesniticall Actor in the habit of a masse Priest comes in also devining success. to the Popish Army, praying for it with an affected devotion, and folemn invocation (or rather prophanation) of Gods name: upon which the Popish Army of Actors, as certain of the in-Stant victory utter'd these words (as their parts directed them) with a loud and reitterated voice and hout PEREAT. PEREAT, QUISQUIS EST HOSTIS ECCLESIA. i. e. Let bem perift, let bim perift whoever is an enemy of the Church. At the repeating of which words a great part of the Stage on which they afted: together with the whole Popish Army (not one Souldier or Captain excepted) fell to the ground immediately; while their feigned enemics. (personating the Protestants) were left standing on the other part of the Stage which fell not at all; with this sudden fall many of the Popish Army were bruised in peices, with the beams of the Stage falling upon them, who through pain and horror needed no Moniters to filence their outeries: Others. with broken limbs were carried to the Chyrurgeons, and the rest confounded with shame, crept away secretly under the vail.

veil to their lodging. So this Ignatian-Play, ended in a real unexpected Iragedie, and a reall rout of the whole pretended victorius Popish Army of the Fesuits": And the Scottish Wars that *Id ibidê spe- year (which they so much depended on) through Gods cul five jubis mercy, concluded in a bleffed peace and union betwixt both læo Jesuico. Nations. p. 220. ad. p. 224.

* Car. Sigon.

+Mr. Pr. pref.

1. 3. c. 17. p.

637.

5. 6. But the Irish Papists by their Plots and Instigations of the Toluits, who seconded their motions with encouragement of Arms and Monyes from abroad, undertook the bloody Massacre of all the Protestants in Ireland, and surprisal of all the Forts, Caftles, Arms, and Ammunitions therein. On the 23. of Octob. 1641. being IGNAT I u S DAY, (which they celebrate like the Jewish Rabbi's feast about this time of the year, called Festum ignis or luminum the Feast of FIR E or of lights*) the Founder and new Cannoniz'd Saint of the Fide rep. Hebr. Juited Society, for the great honour of their Patron and Order ; they being the chief Plotters of that horrid bloody Treason and Rebelliont, which though happily discover'd the night before at Dublin and some few places elle; yet in other Parts of Ireto vind. Fund. land, it took effect to the flaughter of 200000 innocents, qua Rights. E. 4.b. Protestants, in a few months space: Followed with a bloody War for fundry years to the loss of the lives of many thoulands more there: And afterwards by a direfull War here. fomented by the Jesuits likewise *. In Ireland they threatned to BURN and ruine Dublin and all the Monuments of the English Government*. At their rifing in Vister (besides the

*Id ib-

* Sr. Jo. Tem.

* Id. p. 91.

pref. to Hift. barbarous murthers and cruelties there and elsewhere) they of trifficebel. did BuRN, spoyle and destroy the English Protestants t: tin Hift p.22. And to instance only in one or two places, in the Castle of Lifgool they confumed by FIRE an hundred and fifty men. women, and ichildren; and in the Castle of Tullab they BURN T and kill'd' at least an hundred. Then herein England the Parliament did Decemb. 15. 1641. charge the Jesuits with a malicious and pernicious design of subversing the fundamental Laws and principles of government; it feems F. Philips Sr. Toby Mathen and Lord Gage had been very active and Some design'd with Seignor Con to have took away King Charles I. by giving him a Spanish Fig, as Andrews ab Habernfeld agent for Cardinal Barbarino (Protector of the English and Scottish Jesuits) discovered discovered to Sir Will. Boswel the Kings Agent then at the Hague . Hence who ever were the Instruments about the * Rooms Na. cutting off King Charles I. on the 30. Jan. 1648. the Jefnits fler piece. have been justly accounted (by those who search'd the bo- † Mr. Pr) who tome †) to be the Principal Agents. There did then above pieces. And 600. Protestant Ministers Remonstrate against it, and so ma ny Mr. Baxters thousands, and more had they not been over-powr'd by an Key for Catho-Army (wherein Jesuits were active) would have done so licks. likewise. But Protestant Ministers had not a conquering Army Dr. L. oblig'd to their obedience, as the Jesuits have their Novices, whom they can make to do what they please. 'Tis abfurd then to impute that Action to Protestants as such, whoever were the Executioners, 'twas agreed to in the Council of Jesuits *. So that it can be no imputation to the Protestant Re- Apol.p.12. ligion, which abhors the Jesuits priciples and practises. As Dr. Mr. Pr. pref. to Du Moulin hath folidly vindicated the sincerity of the Protestant to. Vind. C. Religion * upon that account, against the fictitious Philanax * Pageso, Anglus. Therein he declares amongst other things (yet 'tis 57,&c. faid some from his pen fluck in the Press) The Roman Priest and Confessor is known, who upon cutting off the Kings head. flourished his sword, and said, Now the greatest enemy that we had in the world is gone *. (And there were other Jesuits on borse- * p.58. back did so too, as is credibly reported.) And the Dostor adds from a Gentleman of good credit, a notable passage * p. 59. at Roan of Jesuited persons rejoycing there, upon the news of the Kings death, faying, we have kept our word to bim, fince be + Id. p. 60. would not keep it to us *; as if the King had made a promise to them : which the Doctor there fays, is most false : offering to make good, when Authority shall require it, That a Selett number of English Jesnits were fent from their whole party here in England, First to Paris to consult with the Faculty of Sorbon, then altogether Jesuited; to whom they put this Question in writing: that seeing the State of England was in a likely posture to change Government, whether it was lawful for the Papifts to work the change, by taking away the KING? which was answered Affirmatively; upon this, thirty Jesuits were met betwixt Roan and Deip going to England, with endeavours to be Agitators (they said) in the Independant Army . At Paris the scarlet Jesuit, who would have have the English Lady he had proselyted to rejoyce at the Kings death . distalted her with the Popish Religion upon that score, so that God gave her grace to be no more of it; and the Dettor faith hitherto the keeps her word". . It feeins also there was great joy in the English Seminaries abroad; and here at home Mr. White and others were applauders of the succeeding Government. F. Bret was for the prevailing powert, under which (the Dr. faith) they got from the top of the House of Lords two of the Gunpowder-Traytors heads, which we may hear in time are as Holy Reliques shrined up in gold, and working miracles.

Dr. Du Moulin

* p. 61.

+ p. 62,64.

SECT. V.

S. I. And shall we think these Fiery temper'd Loyolans have been afleep these late years; when such dreadful Burnings at Sea, and fuch a lamentable conflagration in the City of our folemnities have awaken'd fo many? I dare fay ( argumento ad bomines ) they themselves who percinatiously affert the Dollrine of PROBABILITY, have no just reason to quarrel me, if I suggest more than THAT, to conclude they have been very vigilant and active, may I not fay michanically, even in the burning of London, as well as politically in the three Kingdoms, Dies diem docebit, Truth is the daughter of time. And I contess as lamblicus in explaining the Pythagorical Symbols, fays* autoxpup of outer in wei 78 murds ani. Truth is commonly hid, and diffi-Stia, noi Sudipar O i navos. cult enough to find out: yet (as he well adds there) a man ought to look after it and fearch it out. I know sub judice res est. The Petition of the Common Council of London is, That the Parliament would be pleaf'd to affume the Enquiry about the causes of the late Fire 1666. And I have not an itch either by any peremptory, or immodest sectiments of mine to anticipate what they in wisdom ( which I pray for ) shall think meet to determine in that great affair, concerning which I am prompted from the argument I have in hand, to annex something in complyance with the expectation of the Reader, but with all Cardor and Submission to the truly wife.

p. 146. לו מודור במ לו מי mas and toward nai EZIXVEU. 7.8cm * Protrept.

Symb 18.

5. 2. I desire to be as forward as any in adoring the Soveraignty of God the Supream Majesty, who by Prerogative Royal, rightfully disposeth of all things and places, perfons

fons and actions, according to his own good will and pleasure. to the magnifying of his own power and goodnesse: and to fay with the Prophet *, Shall there be evil in the City, and the Lord bath not done it? We ought undoubtedly with great reverence to acknowledge the band of God, as in the Plague, fo in the War, and Fire; all the judgements we have groaned under, are Providentially from the Supream righteous Judge; and indeed procuringly from our own fins,

* ATT. 05 2.6

Digitus Dei

Hincille lacrime : tua te peccata cremarunt

Londinum.

Ah! our multiplyed hainous trangressions, provoked the Lord, for the bonour of his justice, to enter upon his strange work, with the Plague and Sword; and when thele would not move us incorrigible ones, then to break forth into his fury, very conspicuous in the raging fiercenesse of the burning, through the violence of the wind, which he commanded to go forth, when he could have held it in his fift, or turn'd it another way; or have given our Magistrates wildome, and our people Arength, or many other ways have prevented our ruines; by the devouring flames. But it seemed good to his Majesty to humble us for our iniquities. To remember which with forrow of heart, and shame, we are by Statute * called *XIX.Car.IL upon to an annual observation of that day in publick fasting and humiliation. Yetthis does not exclude Gods permitting of Inftruments, (it may be) for the filling up of their iniquity) from contriving and acting in the late difmal Conflagration, any more than the Affrian from being the Rod of his anger, or the staff in their hand his indignation *. Neither doth it discharge us from a modest enquiry, and endeavour within our several Spheres, to bring these to the test, who may be rationally suspected to be guilty. Hereupon after all that hath been faid in the premises of the Fiery Jesuits temper and behaviour, compar'd with the anticedent, concomitant, and confequent Circumstances of Londons Burning; methicks it should not appear incredible that they had an hand also in the kinding of these Flames.

5. 3. To bring the matter then nearer to an issue, Ishall briefly propose somethings by way of recollection, which have been prov'd in the foregoing Discourse: then assume fome

* Supra

C.S.S.

I. I. 2.

+ 1. 1. 4.

*1. 1.5.

+ 2' 5. I.

2.5.2.

1.3. 2.

2.2. I.

1. 2. 4.

13.3.5.

3.

3.

3.1.14

some things with a few Remarks out of the Informations given in to the Honourable Committee of Parliament ; and leave the refult to the ingenuous and unprejudic's Readers, to form their own opinion as they fee cause. A little review and remembrance will satisfie us *; That, the Jesuits are ambitious, their Founders name fignifies a FIRE-BRAND, quafiabigne natus; and that his disposition was Fiery, and his profession Military; whereupon they affirm he came to fend Fire. Hence de jure they profess the Art of making and casting about Fire-balls and Wild-fire to burn Houses and Cities: to promote which, they have two Colledges, one at Madrid, another at Thonon to advance the study of Artificial Fire-works, and to Sublue Protestants by frand and Arms *: they keep stores of powder in their Colledges +; require their NOVICES to yield blind obedience, to act adming poi with a mind void of judgment (as given up by God, Rom. 1.28.) accounting their Superiors will, Gods, whether it be lawful or no*. The Pope exempts them from the Magistrates censure t. They state the Cale, that a man hiring a Souldier to fire his neighbours house, is not oblig'd to make restitution t, (and he may lawfully hire him to vindicate his reputation, or the reputation of the Society ) They are to fee those who do not favour them oppress'd with Fire and Sword, the defenders of Protestants burnt and took off by FIRE; vouch it to be their property to bring forth new Inventions, and engage men to their Religion by Arms, terrour, and FIRE, and their duty, to see their Religion planted in England, by FIRE and Arms, and Magna Charta Burnt *. These things and the like, the Jesuits: plead for as their right, property, priviledge, or office: and their paroulea ajasa, wa paroulia il sa, apparent profitable, and apparent pleasant things, whereby they are qualified and moved ( as the philosopher acquaints us with the scopes of injurious persons) for such an attempt. Then de Facto, They are found to have been really Incendiaries all the world over, by themfelves or their Agents *: they have formerly done fuch feats of Firing at Cracow, and Pofrania in Poland, and at Briga in Silesia: and forne Emissaries of the Court of Rome in the Popes name were took in Saxany t: 'Twas also prov'd fix Jesuits by name had an hand in the Gunpowder Treason: they threatned * #rist-Rethp. 1. 6-10. * Vide supra in hoc Cap. Selt. 2. § .1. Selt. 3. Selt. 1. p. 80' 87. Co. 1. p. 90' 87. Co.

to Burn Dublin, and actually in the beginning of the great Rebellion did Burn other places there* : Nay in August 1666, Sect. 4. (not long before the Burning of London,) Nangle the head of a party in a new Rebellion Burnt four of the Protest, n's houses in Ireland and had a Declaration in his pocket for the Popes Supremacy (which is the Jesuits Idol) These and the like deeds have been done by the Jesuits in pursuance of their principles : "ire an nadan and they never shew'd any Repentance for them but have westarres in alwayes gloried in fuch villanies, commended, defended and ca- un acortes, monized, the actors of shem. Adde hereunto, that they thus win storas diqualified and prepared might concerning the Burning of London 2, din Eidilo easily conceit (as Aristotle notes villanies will do) that twas The Englar eipossible for them, and not be discovered; or if discovered, they should van The negoties not be punish't; or if punish'd, it would be less damage, than the aureis, n av gain, would accrue to the actors or their friends : To whom the gain xindertos. would be manifest, and great, and present: But the loss and punish- Bois ra it ment, trivial, not heeded, or far off, and to whom it is not equiva- huspaina, lent to that benefit which tyranny might think to have: For to syris, at ?n. them To il adiniquata siqueata to do injuries is a peice of gallantry : mos, in mingae : And to suffer for them, if taken a great reputation. On the other naquoses, n hand (as the same Philosopher also speakes of some others *) 700 000, 2 00 min the Londoners at that time were no way circumspect, nor diligent bei muspla ion in observing the stratagems of their adversaries; but aptto beteive themselves secure ; so that 'twas easie to do them a ; wies wis. mischeif, and they not know who hurt them. We ought 785 mi char also to take it for granted, 'twas the Master-peice of the Fr- Beis, unde qufuits policy to check the opinion of some few less considerate Eaunn'us, asha Protestants who were overconfident in their particular deter- mseutinks, gaminations about 1656. and therefore the last Pope Alexander, or yad mairras would be so called, in despight of the Nameral letters found *supra c. 2. in that name : Yet some say if he surviv'd that year 'twas Sect.s. all: Further 'tis to be remembred, the Jesuits lay they Rale Rome and the Papacy; they had 1500. of their Society here in 1652, and more in the fucceding years, have now almost worm'd out all those of other orders, from the conduct of the English Papists: Infomuch that in such an act as this. what the Papists as such do here, 'is presum'd they Jesuits are the principall Agents and Contrivers; neither is fuch a strong: presumption to be difregarded : For (faith Dottor Wifeman* ) xepon pavepg. olar dine Exer "Civil Law I.

1.c. 1. p 17. Par
eff probationi
prefumptio;
quid quidem
ad effectum
attinit; pro
probatione
habetur.

man") in vain did Menochius write such an elaborate Treatise of presumption, were it not as effectual to carry the right as any other kind of evidence. The Jesuits would indeed think it a disparagement not to be accounted the Soul that animates the Court of Rome, which is superlative for cruelty, and keeping no faith with Hereticks, what ever the Law of Nations requires; yet as we have it in the words of a late Poetical Distor,

Scilicet, Hareticos ferro, flammaq; petendos, Stat Capitolini Sententia fira Tonantis:

* viz Those infour sheets and an half p. 3.

5. 4. Now upon the proposall of these Postulata, I assume (with brief Remarks, ) somethings out of the Printed Informations *. That London was Barnt betwixt the second and fixth day of September 1666. The ruinous heapes on 373. Acres within, and 63. Acres without the old line : The gaftly walls of 89. Parish Churches, besides Chappels; as well as the Ashes and Brick-bats of thirteen thousand too hundred bouses, were a sad evidence of the Fast. That twas possible to be done (especially as the wind stood) by the power of malicious men, and the help of Art, yea of the revengeful & ingrateful Fesuits, undeniable Histories of such conflagrations (some mention'd above ) may eafily fatisfie us. And that 'tis poffible to be known too, the Eyes and Eares of the Informants, attesting what they heard or saw, having sufficient meanes to come to the certain knowledge of what they relate, which is neither incredible nor improbable in it self upon the expence of circmstances may also evince and thereupon be granted. These were Testes Idonei, honest men and women, true, not Suborn'd witnesses, such as could speak what they had heard, and feen; and would fay no more Yea, such (I perswade my (elf) as the verieft Papist in England would be icontent to take their Testimonies in any Courts of Judicature for the preserving of their lives and effaces. Now 'tis a maxime in Law which bath as much of equity as truth in it, Teff is quem accipit pro le, debet accipere contra fe. iIn a different cafe, the testimony of another is no less valid against a man, then when he makes use of the Jame in his own cause. We have further Conficentes Reos, the Confession of the guilty " Hubere, the woman (a Papis ) in Holborn rescued by a pair of Gallant; and the French man in Kingsstreet confederate with three hundred. And he that is cast by his own

p.8. 11.13.17.

con-

confession, is more powerfully condemn'd than he can be by any kind of evidence whatforver; for that cannot be subject either to mistake or falshood, as other teltimonies may be.* Concerning the famous, may I lay, or infamous Hubert, Its * Dr. Wifeplain, motwithstanding F. Harveys pi us fraud (as F. Cotton man.l.r.c.I.p. would have Scribanius be a Calvinist when affrighted, yet 16. Confessio had before dispers'd his Books, as one of their Society.) whose est probatio Scholar he had been, sith, after he had had him at Confessual action probater, neg; fion, and taught him to fay he was a Protestant, yet Hubert tio illa major. (though born and bred in France, where the name is known) 1. 1. dig.de. carnelly denied he was an Hugonot, which is of the fame Conf. import with Protestant, as he very well might (faith the anfiver to the Apologie) for he then declared he beleived confession to a Priest to be necessary to Salvation; and being admonished apol. p. 38. by the speaker's Chaplain and another minister, to call upon God, he repeated an Ave-Mary, which he faid was his usual prayer: Another Jouit ('tis said) was ready to do his office of shreiving him at Tyburn: So that it may fairly be granted he was a Papist, however hope of his Companions remard might put him who was poor upon being the instrument in this villary. And we may note (1.) Mr. Graves the French-Merchant, had observed him from four years of Age to be of a villanous inclination, and fit for any villanous enterprise, (and the like was Peidlow;) so molded for; Peidlow to make an impression upon by his reward (though not so great as was promis'd to York about 1595. when with Some other Incendaries they were to Fire the Queens Navie with Balls of wild-fire *) Again note (2.) the manner, by a *D. W.D. FIRE ball at the end of a long pole put in at a window (or Horze subsc. hole mide through the wall on purpose) and he staid till p.53. he saw the house in a flame. (3.) He persisted in his ac- *Inform. p. 8. knowledgment in private to several, in publick, when apprehended at Ramford, when at Hicks Hall, and when at his Triall, where (all said) the Judge shew'd what favour he might (4.) He could and did find out the place (when brought because of his lameness near it upon horse back) among the ruines, and point to Pudding-lane, and therein to the very remainder of the wall with as much readiness those acquainted well with the House before, faying, This is the House when he that ask'd him loo'k. another nother way; and a second time, that 'twas the Bakers Hease. Note (5.) That the Baker (whose house was first burnt) and his servants peremptorily said, 'twas incredible, the burning should come by any Fire lest carelessy, for he himself had gone through every Room after twelve of the Clock, and tound no Fire but in one Chimney where the Room was pav'd with Bricks, which Fire he diligently rak'd up in embers, there being no window or door whereby the wind could come in to disturb them.

そまた

*1. p. 9.

5. 5. But I am run already into far more length hn was intended, therefore may not go on to anatomize the severalls in the confessions and testimonies, only shall with respect to the Antecedent, concomitant and consequent circumstances of the FIRE, shortly methodize a few things to be considered. (1.) As the Pope and Jesuits with others of their tutoring could (without judicial Astrologie) predict the deaths of Henry 3d. and Henry 4th. of France and fince, the Gunpowder-Treason (which by Gods over-ruling providence was thereby prevented as to the design) and the Rebellion in Ireland, &c. The Jesuits being notable Prophets of that mischeif they intend to effect: So here, Mr. Langborn an active Papist and procurer of Teluits to profelyte others, faid fix moneths before the FIRE, you expect great things in 66. and think that Rome will be destroy'd, but what if it be LONDON * ? Sr. Vere Fans Frenchservants prediction of both time and place hit, when he said in April, that between June and October, a bouse (hould not be left betwixt London-Bridge and Temple-Bar *. Fitz-Harris an Irish Papist, predicted in July, there would in September be a sad desolation in London. And Mrs. Tazley of Ilford a Papift prophesied of it from some of the Fashers (likely as we may guels from what follows) when on Aug. 13. The talk'd of an bot Thursday; as appears by her explanation, when the faid it was on the Sunday was Seventh night after *. A Letter from Aleuson dated Ang. 23. was written, to know whether London ( fignified by the Cabalistical word Belk) was burnt + ? Belland the French papist, who made vast quantities of FIR E-works, some of which would BURN and make no crack at all, but fly up in a body of pure flame higher then the top of Pauls ( and some such flames

p. 6.

* p.6.

* p. 6.

† p. 5.

flames were feen during the FIRE) was to have his remaining groffes of Paftboards by the Tuesday night before the Fire, else they would come too late for his purposet: Aug. 30th. Tomson a Papist said to one, he would perswade to embrace that Religion "; what if London be BURNT? + p. 21, 22. and on 31, Mrs. Saint-George Spake of a Plot for burning the City, and the Lady St. George another Papift, foretold that * p. 12. London should within two days be laid in ashes + . Woodman a Papift in Wiltsbrire on the Thursday before the Fire, threatned Baker * p. 15. that he faould have his belly full of Bonefires : & added, that if he lived one week longer, he should fee London as faid a Lon- * p. 7. don as ever it was fince the world began *. Urmstraw at East-ham (pretended to come from Ireland) ask'd Mr. Hol- * p.16,17. croft Septemb. 1. (the evening before the fire) if he heard of the FIRE-ing London? He answering no; the other said, * p. 17. it was, or would be on FIRE that night, and fo as not to be quenched, but it should be faid of it as of Troy, Jam feges est * p. 17. uoi Troja fuit, Now Corn grows where Troy (i. c. ) London stood*; these antecedent circumstances and expressions do argue the * p. 18. persons to have some fore-knowledge of this dreadful Conflagration. (2) The concomitant circumstances are such likewise as * p. 19. fignific an active combination of Papifts to enkindle and foment this Fire; we find besides what Hubert confess'd of *p. 12-20. himself. Another Prenchman Septemb. 2. was took throw- * P. 21. ing Fire Balls, and with more found in his pocket *. A * p. 13, 14. Woman Papilt (who was conveyed away from the witnesses) cryed out (from great troubles of conscience) I have had an hand in FIRE-ing LONDON, and deferve to dye for it; another cryed out, that the heard some hiring persons to throw Fire-balls *. One near West-smithfield in Chick-lane * P. 23, 24. taken in the act of firing an house was rescued by Papists who were then gotten into the Guards t: A Frenchman was took in the act, firing an house on the monday *; and another by a Constable on the Tuesday Septemb. 4th. + and the same day one confest'd in King-street that 300. Frenchmen were in a Plot to BURN the City, as fix sufficient Informants deposed *. He that was fetcht out of the Garret in Watling-freet expressed himself like a Papist, when his hands were all black with powder, and he had a horn of powder about him to He in the Frock

Frock taken for Firing the papers in the study neer Bridenel *, did

by his bald pate, his black cleaths of Bishops-fattin, and his crying out, parce mihi domine, and his bundle of papers closed with wax, bewray himself in the judgement of the people to be a Popish Ecclesiastick; being just like those Jesuits that difguiled themselves with Rustical Garments, when they set Cracow in Poland on Fire; and as Flames did break out there in several places of the City, at the tops of bouses, so here the FIRE did break first out at the tops of several bouses, which were every way at a confiderable diffance from the contiguous burning in the main body, particularly the FIRE did break forth from the infide of St. Laurence Poultneys Steeple, when no fire from the main burning then came neer it *. So upon the throwing of some combustible matter into a shop in the Old Bayley, and into an boufe neer St. Antholins Church (the Agents flying, and) thereupon the houses firing, when no other Fire was near the place, there being a smell of Brimstone in the infesting moake; and persons taken, having pockets stuft with much combustible matter of Flax and Tome, &c. some of a long figure, & so exceeding hot a man could not long endure to hold them in his band *: the fight of bodies of Fire rising as high again as Pauls, wavering in the air, directly according to the Artist Bellands description", are such signal Concemitants of this Conflagration, that they strengthen the Presumption that the professed Incendiaries described in the foregoing Discourse, should at least have Hue and Cry raised after them. Had not the Inhabitants been surprized with the strange cryes of the fire in so many places, which occasioned a sad consternation ( when mostly concern'd about the removall of their goods) took them off searching after instruments of mischief, there would have been more discoveries (its likely) made amongst those multitudes who brake open houles, and amongst some who took upon them to pull down houses, when they did in several places onely strike out the windows and throw off the Tiles, that the flakes of fire might fall on the tinder-like First-floores, & fee the houses on fire several hours sooner than they would have been; especially having thrown the lumber into the great cross passages that there could be no moving for those stops (and others by surly Papisson the Guards, whence the maid !

* P.23.

.. p. 9. 10.

* p. 20, 21.

maid had for Fire-balls, (now discharg'd) to make use of the remedies had been sormerly successful. The Instrument like a dark Lanthorn fill'd with Gunpowder conceiv'd to lay a train of powder, took about the Walloon, who would give no account of *p. 9. it when he was apprehended during the Fire-time in Leaden-ball-street; was suspicious*. These concemitant circumstances may shew that the Dostor in his Poetical Directions to the Graver for expressing London in Flames, had some ground for his fancy, when he wrote, p. 22.

This done, a Jesuit place in view o'th' whole, At Faux's his bo-peep in some sneaking hole, Laughing in's sleeve: and let this be the Mot, Ha! this hits better then the Powder-plot.

Add hereunto the confideration of (3.) some subsequent or consequent circumstances; such as flight, which argues guilt. The Lawyers say, Fatetur facinus, qui judicium fugit, he that flies for fear of a tryal, doth no less than confess the offence: And again, he that flies for fear of offence (fugam fecit) forfeits at least his Chattels: Now 'tis plain, Woodman left the Countrey when a warrant was out forhim about his prediction; and the Papifts at Enfield (who had spoken of the Fire) likewise left * p. 7. their abode there*, 'twas generally observed that the other Papists were very jocund and full of rejoicing upon it every tp. 16. where, yea many of them were Infolent; threatning (and some of Note", ) other places should be laid as low as " P. 19. London*, this shews an approbation at least of what was past, if not confidence further upon an experiment. 'Tis * p. 28. conceived there were attempts to verifie threats afterwards in Southwark, else how came the Fire-Ball of a pound weight in the nave of a wheel amongst many combustible materials? and Mafter Freemans house to be set on Fire so suddenly, * p. 16. on the top, where no Fire or Cardle had been then*. These circumstancesthe many Fires since that, comparing them with the Letter sent into Leicester Shire to call up the Gentleman to look after his estate in Southwark; fithit was design'd by bumane Counsel (had not God prevented) to destroy the Suburbs, do by the best light look illes and so several Fireings since, as well the Fire-Balls and the confessions of the Boyes under the cares in Aldersgate-freet &cc. all which have made fuch an impression upon most Protestants that the vogue of the people is loud, that some from Rome kindled London Fire : the first and fecond paper left at the Temple pretended (at least) to be penned by a Penitent, who had been in a combination with other Papifts, both French, Irish and English, who-(he relates) Fired the City may have somewhat in it to augment suspicion, at least with Jealous persons. The peticall libel of the Papilts on the fith of Novemb. 1666. [Cover la few] did so inflame a Poet of our own that 'tis said he answered to this purpose. viz.

Ye Devills, Jesuits and Friers,
By the light of London Fires,
Have detelled your own Plots
To martyr harmless Hugonots;

And we now do know that flame,
From Hell and Purgatory came:
But Burning London will not doe,
Except-you could Burn Tyburn too, &c.

5. 6. But to leave the Patherical Poet, and put a period to this discourse; It cannot be easily imagin'd by vulgar intelletts, (whatever some more refin'd, who foar aloft, and can abstract tam à ratione quam à re, may deeme)after all these circumstances proved by sufficient mitnesses, that all the Papifts as such, in this affair should be innocent : Yet I confess. I should not chuse the Commissioners in the late Court of Claims in Ireland for Judges. And that the generality of Papifts are to the Jesuits but as tooles to the Mechanick, their implements, whithout which they can effect no great defigne in their Self-Monarchy, is not ordinarily denied. But the Jesuits themselves have not altogether (it should seem) stood out of fight, in blowing up Londons Flames, for the Letter from Heidelberg to Mr. Alton in Sept. 1666. testifies upon the personal knowledge of the pen-man, the BURING of London had been difcourf'd of among the Jesuits and expected by 15. yeares before, to happen in the year 1666, and they use to prophesie of what they have laid project to effect: The formention'd Letter from Alenson may be compar'd with this. So may the Argument of Powel the English Tesuit at Antwerp, who to perswade Henry Young in April 1661. to turn Papist laith, that within five or fix years they (viz. Jesuits ) would break the Power and Strength of London in peices, which could not well be imagin'd they should do any other way, than by Fire . Tomfon and Copervel admirers * p.30. of the Flanders Jefuits, spake of the same time. So did Father Taaff an Irish Jessit at Paris 166; tell Ferdinando de massido a * p. 31. Portugez of destruction* the year after, viz. 1666. Oriel an other triff lefuit threatned to the same purpose at his tak- * p. 32. ing Shiping when he went to carry his eight Irifi Boyes to the Seminaries in Flanders . (fo they are yearly stealing away the Kings subjects) Father Harveys good will was noted above in his confessing of Hubert, whom likely the Ignations will * p 28.26. Cannonize in the next Age ( if they them'elves do not fall before as the proud Templers did) The foresaid old man in the Frock look'd like a Pyrotechnist of the Fraternity. And Carpenter (no Question) who in his glorying scem'd to please himfelf lo much upon the Burning of London, is no other than at leaft a Jesuit in Voto Still ; For, as twas said , Jesuita est omn is bomo a Jesmit is every man, he is accounted (with them) the better Artist who is most an Athrist. Be sure as often formerly, so lately (in a Book sellars shop ) he spoke of the Church of England with the greatest Detestation &ugliest, words imaginable, calling it dirty" dung cart, dung-bill, &c. He affirmed that the Firing of the City was a just judgement for casting off obedience to the Pope; which looks like the expression of an Abetter. Tis true the Jefuits are very subtile in hiding their Arts, insomuch that one said a Jesuit exceeds the Devil himfelf in fleights and elusions: But these passages already render them palpaple Agents in our troubles, and the People fay fince the King hath garbled his quards, turn'd out Papyts, and put in a new Lord Keeper, they have not been fo alarm'd with Fireing, as they were before; whereupon they are in hopes to make further discoveries of these Intendiaries, who usually doing mischievious exploits grow more insolent and tyranicall; which may hereafter occasion some novices they have imploy'd in their fiery work to tell tales out of the schooles As Hift. Sacra? Jacob Capellus gives us the brief of aftory from Livie that about & exotica 210 years before Christ, there did at Rome break out a FIRE p. 550. in many places at once, which continuing Night and Day confumed much.

The Campans the Authors of this Incendie were so besorted. that not long after they did with stripes chastise their servant Man us who was conscious to the villanie. He disclofedit to the Senate; to whom yet Mannon his report did feem a little suspected. But so great was the strength of truth, that the incendiaries upon the accusers charge, confesfed they had done the Fast from an earnest desire of revenge. because Q. Fulvius had beheaded their Parents, and would goe on farther to procure the Campans perpetual ruine. The incendiaries were executed, and the remainder of the Campans nothing more mildly treated. Indeed to Fire the City was not a likely way for them to get better usuage; unless they could have destroyed the citizens too: Yet had they done that, behold the Judge stands at the door, and they must foon come to a reckoning. But my business is only detection of Fesuiticall incendiaries: ra determination concerning them I do with all submission referre to the Senate; I shall only observe that the famous Antiquary Sr. Robert Cotton urgeth Preaching in a plain pr Etical manneras the most effectual remedy against the fesuits.

Whiles I was drawing to a Conclusion of the precedent Discourse, a Pamphlet called [Observations both Historical and Moral, upon the Burning of London] invites me to an Appendix to the last Section. The Authour by his Mathematicks, seems to be some Virtuoso, but for the cunning that he useth in dawbing with untempered morter, one would guess him to be a pretender (at least) to State-Divinity. For the Historicals he gives us about the Conflagration of Moscow (considering the combustible materials) I had rather believe the substance of bis relation, than go thither to disprove M. Rege Sincera, though I should not be disappointed as the Gentlemen that rode to St. Albans about the Story of the Prodigious Swine-trough. And if we should appeal to the Muscovian Citizens, whether the Relator hath strain'd in some circumstances?

tis likely they would say ( as they are wont in difficult and dangerous matters ) Only God, and their great Duke knows. But Sincera is a Traveller, and should we suppose him ( or his Dutch Merchant ) to have strain'd courtesie with truth, I dare fay, Lucian in bis true Histories hath out-pitch't him clearly above half a Bar. Yet I may without offence mind him of two or three dormitats, as when in page 22. ( speaking of the Tartarians)" he tells, they are a Warlike people, though they eat nothing but roots, and fuch like substance, "and drink only water; yet in the next words, fars, the er greatest Lords among them feed upon flesh baked between the Horse and the Saddle, wherein rideth the Horseman. But perhaps this Gentleman by some Hocus-pocus, or rather by his Chymical Art (in which I perceive he hath a Tincture) can extract flesh out of roots, be like ti's easie for roots. " And why may not this be done by the same Art, by which the "bloud and filth of the dead bodies on which they trod fquirted in their faces, when at the same time they felt the poor limbs of these creatures (being calcin'd by the vehement "heat of the fire) as namely their armes, & legs, to break under their feet like glass. p. 24. 25. But while I take the Traveller thus napping, he'l alledge, Aliguando dormitat Homerus. And he might not observe these and the like Dormitats, when they stole into his little Treatise lying dormant so long in the corner of his Desk, and so let it pass. For the morals of his Treatife he seems to dwindle, whiles under asmooth pretention of ascribing the Conflagration of Lond. to divine Providence, he endeavours to destroy moral evidence: and yet we can in reafon expect no other in a matter of Falt, it being not capable of a Mathematical Demonstration, as I know our little Treatifer will easily grant. To weaken the Gentlemans confidence, that 'twas only by an unbappy chance (as he expresseth himself)he may see in the last Paragraphs above (1) propriaconfestio, or persons condemning themselves. (2) Evidentia fatti patpable in the casting of Fire-halls into bouses, Cellars, &c.observ'd by eye witnesses; if Sincera would have men believe their owneyes, and think there is any truth in his Dutch Merchants relation concerning the Burning of Moscow. (3) Testes idonei credible witnesses under no impeachment of prevarication in ther i thier informing against such sa they found not only in suspicious circumstances, but in the Fact of Firing. And must we furpole a maraquoria or general agreement of informants in their joyne attefeations, was only a conspiracy against the Truth? or a malicious defign to impeach the Papifes and their Leaders the festite against all the principles of nature, maxims of civil Seciety, Reafon and Religion? that in fuch a time of loffer, bersons of sobriety & reputation must from a principle of Fiery-revenge add one to all the rest, I mean the Shipwrack of Faith and a good conscience? Is the mans name indeed Rege fincera? or may he not mean by thefe letters and fyllables, Igne Secarer? as if the City should say in the language of some upbraiding Fefuit, I would be torn in pieces by the Fire, rather then change my Religion. We have heard what the Jesuits threatned to London, and what they did before to other Cities. It may be the Gentleman under whose umbra he writes, knows this conje-Etwe about the name to be but a meer fancy; be it fo, I am content; only hope this working of fancy is venial, taking occasion from the strangeness of the name. Yet I would fain know of our Historico-moral-observator, whoever he be, how all, or any of his eight causes of this Incendie may be of force to invalidate such evidence as was given in by the Informants against his Hypothefis? for did the carelefness of the Baker fuggefted against his own solemn protestation, which cannot be disprov'd) in not raking up his fire, make any of these witneffes as careless in speaking of the truth, or did the narrowness of the streets, the weakness of the buildings, the quantity and quality of Combustibles, &c. at all conduce and lend their helping hand to the Banishing of Afirea (justice and honesty) five miles from this once glorious City? might I not fay comparatively, this City of Righteousness? I shall only demand one thing more of him, and I have done with him, and mine Apendicular Apologetick: he hath put me to the charge of: Do not men ordinarily believe this kind of evidence to be good in matters of Fact? And if others do, why should not I? thou man of Morals tell me why?